Historic Genoa Congress Adjourns

MOST REMARKABLE CONFERENCE EVER HELD IN HISTORY

Lloyd George in Valedictory Speech at Genoa Says Conference Will Forever Be Inspiring Landmark in Pathway of Peace—Gathered "Fine Crops," Which Justified Holding of GENOA, May 19. (By the Associated Press.)—The Genoa economic conference, one of the greatest political gatherings in Europe's history, which brought here the representatives of 34 nations, adjourned at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon, after six weeks of momentous deliberations, with the understanding that its labors will begin anew at The Hague on June 15.

The conference adopted the report of the economic commission, which contained constructive recommendations for the economic reorganization of Europe; adopted the arrangements for the conference at The Hague, and proclaimed Prime Minister Lloyd George's famous non-aggression pact, which, though provisional, it is hoped will be followed with a permanent European peace pact.

Premier Facta of Italy as president of the conference solemnly closed its sessions by bidding farewell to the delegates on behalf of the king, the government and the Italian people.

The keynote at the final session, was one of friendship and earnest desire to help Russia.

QUICK ACTION BY COUNCILORS

Decision Construed to Mean That Welch Has Claim for Salary Since Jan. 3

Full Text of Decision Received and Published This Afternoon

Opinion States Holdovers Are Not Immune From Removal By Mayor

The full bench of the supreme judicial court today dismissed the petitions of Mayor George H. Brown and W. C. MacBrayne, acting superintendent of police, seeking writs of mandamus to restrain the city council from continuing hearings or from taking any further action upon the question of reinstating Redmond Welch as superintendent of police.

The court, in its decision, written by Chief Justice Rugg, held that an officer such as the superintendent of police continues in office under the present form of charter until his successor has qualified for the place, or in other words, the opinion holds that while all administrative officers were made vacant upon the first day of January, 1922, at the expiration of which such officers should remain in office until a successor in each case was nominated, confirmed and qualified.

REDMOND WELCH

The decision states that it now is the duty of the city council to continue hearings as demanded by the removed superintendent and it is within the jurisdiction of the body to reinstate Redmond Welch by a two-thirds vote.

This decision has been awaited as no other within the history of municipal affairs in Lowell and upon it hinged the operation of the entire charter.

In seeking writs of mandamus, Mayor Brown contended that under the charter he had the right to appoint a temporary incumbent to an administrative office, who would in himself, act as an officer or holdover official. He admitted, through counsel, that his removal of Redmond Welch was unnecessary and void.

Conference of Councilors. President Patrick J. Bagley of the council said today that a conference of councilors would be held at city hall tonight and a date set for a special meeting to take action on Welch's reinstatement. No further hearings on the matter are necessary, for at the last session, held two months or more ago, the final arguments were made and there remained only the deliberation and action of the council to settle the matter one way or another.

The question now arises and it seems to find its answer in the brief resume of the decision as sent out from Boston, as to whether or not Redmond Welch will have a claim for salary from the date of his removal on January 3 to date of reinstatement, if that disposition of the matter is made by vote of the council. Inasmuch as the court has held that as a holdover official he was entitled to remain in office until a successor was nominated, confirmed and qualified, it would seem that such a claim for compensation would be justified and upheld at law.

It will be recalled that after the mayor preferred charges and removed

PROMINENT LOCAL LAWYER DEAD

Frank E. Dunbar Passed Away Today at His Home in Andover Street

Was President of Two Local Mills and Director of Other Industries

Governor Channing Cox and Other Prominent Men Pay Him Tribute

Frank E. Dunbar, prominent attorney, president of the Boott mill and the Appleton Manufacturing Co., vice president of the Lowell Gas Light Co., treasurer of the Stony Brook railroad and a director and trustee in many other textile and banking corporations, died early today at his home in Andover street. He was in his 64th year.

For years actively identified with the life of the city that was his home since 1891, Mr. Dunbar had risen to a position in the community that few men ever have attained. He was considered one of the most able corporate lawyers in this section of the country, and his interests both within and without his profession were manifold.

While his death brings with it a distinct sense of loss, it did not come without warning, for it had been generally known for the past three months that failing health had taxed his strength to no slight degree. In fact, it was almost three months ago to a day that he last entered his office in the Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank building. Since 1908, he had been the senior member of a firm that had for its junior member, the local congressman, Hon. John Jacob Rogers.

Mr. Dunbar's death brought forth spontaneous expressions of regret not only from Lowell men and women who had been closely associated with him, but from prominent citizens all over the state, including Governor Channing Cox and justices of the superior court.

He did not allow his interest in public life to wane, however, and up to within a week of ten days ago maintained a close liaison with his business and public affairs.

Death always reveals a man's life more sharply than any of his accomplishments and so it was in the case of Mr. Dunbar. Success was his only through dint of uninterrupted application.

WILL CONTINUE FIGHT FOR JOB

Michael J. Ready, Discharged City Engineer, Files Petition in Police Court

Supt. of Streets, Harry P. Doherty Named as Defendant in the Case

Michael J. Ready, discharged from the street department, by an order of Supt. Harry P. Doherty, who alleged insubordination, will continue his fight for reinstatement. This became known today when Ready's attorney filed a petition for a hearing in district court, naming Supt. Doherty as defendant in the case.

The case in question caused more or less of a stir when it was tried before Supt. Doherty with the public service board sitting in at the hearing in an advisory capacity.

Ready was formerly employed as an engineer at the city ledge. According to the facts in the case Supt. Doherty said that he and Ready met one night and that following a conversation, which Doherty considered of an insubordinate nature, Ready was discharged. It was alleged by Doherty that Ready said that he would not do certain work at the ledge if a man named Sullivan was employed there.

The public service board held a subsequent meeting and sustained Doherty's action. At this meeting it was said that Ready had been notified of a hearing. He did not show up and accordingly Doherty was sustained.

It developed later that Ready had not been properly notified and a date for another hearing was set. At this hearing the public service board reinstated the action of the former meeting in sustaining Doherty's action. The public service board meeting was then suspended and City Solicitor Edward T. Tierney announced that the hearing was declared open, but that it was before Supt. Doherty and not the public service board.

Following the hearing no action was taken to reinstate Ready and his status remained the same as when he was first discharged by Supt. Doherty. This latest movement on the part of Ready's counsel is in accordance with section 45, chapter 31 of the general laws. The action says in substance that any civil service employee who is discharged, reduced in rank or whose compensation is reduced has the right to a trial before the police court, with said finding of the police court to be final in the matter.

A date for the hearing on the petition will be set in a week or two in the belief of the attorneys connected with the case.

TWO VESSELS POUNDED ASHORE

Two Government Ships Run Aground and Are Reported to Be Breaking Up

Gale, Following Terrific Rain Storm, Wrought Havoc Along Coast

NEW YORK, May 19.—Driven by a vicious eastern gale, two government ships—Eagle Boat No. 17, and the army steamer Gen. John W. Wilkins—were pounded ashore on Long Island and are reported to be breaking up.

The gale, which sprang up on the heels of a terrific rain storm about 1 a. m., wrought havoc along the coast, even the giant Aquitania, in-bound from Europe, made hard sailing of her drive along the island, and at one time coastguards reported, there was a fear she might get in too close and come to grief on one of the many hidden bars.

Given Up as Lost

The Gen. Wilkins, pounded in on the rocks at Orient Point Thursday soon after she struck; her crew was off and the ship had been given up as lost.

The Eagle boat, newly attached to the "dry" navy, struck a hidden bar one mile off Amagansett early today. Her crew of 60 men was rescued in a series of thrilling dashes through the surf on a wave-submerged raft to which the men lashed themselves.

Commander Ricketts of the eagle boat, hunting rum-runners, got into difficulty shortly after midnight. He ran into a heavy fog. Then the gale

SHORT BUT HEAVY RAIN STORM HITS CITY

With threatening skies throughout the morning seemingly grown brighter as the day wore along, shortly before the noon hour today, the city was struck by one of the heaviest rainstorms in years. A tempest suddenly arose, and almost without warning the streets were washed with rain, which, driven by a high wind of extreme velocity, sent pedestrians scurrying for shelter and made it practically impossible for the drivers of street cars or automobiles to exercise their vision.

From the top floor of The Sun building the storm furnished an impressive and unusual sight. The furious beat of the raindrops against the windows gave notice of its arrival, and through the pouring, wind-driven rain, the buildings all about seemed to be rocking on their foundations, about to leave their moorings and depart on the wings of the storm. The perspective was limited to a great extent, but everything in sight seemed about to be washed away.

Street cars and automobiles were feeling their way along as in the darkness of the night, and every doorway was crowded to capacity with those so unfortunate to be on foot.

Within less than a quarter of an hour every trace of the storm had disappeared, and a blue sky gave promise of a splendid day.

WAGES CUT TO REDUCE PRICE OF COAL

NEW YORK, May 19.—Wage cuts which may be enforced in the anthracite industry will result immediately in cheaper coal to the public, operators announced today following their offer to settle with the striking miners on a basis of 21 per cent. wage reductions.

Reductions of 18 per cent. for contract men and $1.20 a day for shift workers were produced by the operators yesterday. Although refused, they will form "a basis for future negotiations," labor leaders asserted.

"What we have definitely made up our minds to do is to lower the price of coal," said S. D. Warriner, spokesman for the operators. "Just what reduction in hard coal prices to the consumer resulted would depend, he explained, on the competitive market in steam uses of anthracite—upon how much, if any, we are compelled to cut the prices of buckwheat and peas, to compete with soft coal producers."

MAYOR SAYS DECISION IS VERY FAVORABLE

Mayor George H. Brown today said that the mandamus decision was most favorable to him. He contends that it settled the one main point he desired cleared up, to wit: that holdover officials are not immune from removal by the mayor.

When asked about the contention that a temporary appointee automatically ousts a hold-over incumbent, the mayor replied that he could not expect to win all points under dispute.

"I'm satisfied, however," he said, "for the decision has settled one point that was not clear in the charter, relative to my power to remove a hold-over from office."

When asked as to what his probable move would be in case the council should vote to reinstate Mr. Welch, the mayor replied that he did not care to comment upon that possibility at the present time.

COLLINS AND DE VALERA CONFER

Believed to Have Been Near Settlement in Long Private Consultation

Each Embarrassed by Difficulty of Carrying Followers With Him

DUBLIN, May 19.—(By the Associated Press.) Fears were expressed in political circles this morning that the negotiations for peace between the rival factions in Ireland, renewed Wednesday after what had appeared to be a final breakdown, would again result in a report by the negotiators that they had failed to come to an agreement.

Further attempts were in progress today, however, and there was hope in some quarters that the last moment might see a favorable turn.

Michael Collins, head of the provisional government, and Eamon de Valera, the republican leader, in a long private consultation, are believed to have been near a settlement. The view of observers, however, is that each has been embarrassed by the difficulty of carrying his followers with him.

At a meeting last night the members of the pro-treaty heard from Collins the result of his conversation with de Valera, and when the meeting broke up, the prospect of peace seemed less bright.

The fundamental point of difference, it appears, is that the treaty party thinks a coalition government should be formed only to work the treaty, while Mr. de Valera thinks any acceptance of the treaty is a denial of the republican principle. The republican leader indicated he would help the government against "reactionism," but the pro-treaty members are said to fear he would embarrass what remains to be done under the treaty, particularly regarding the constitution of the Free State.

TERRORISTS ARE AGAIN ACTIVE

Incendiary Blazes in Many Parts of Belfast—Six Buildings in Flames

Armed Men Attack Special Constabulary and Fierce Conflict Follows

BELFAST, May 19. (By the Associated Press.)—Terrorists began their work again early today. Two hours before the expiration of the curfew period, incendiary blazes were started in different parts of the city, and before 9 o'clock, six buildings were in flames, including the offices of a distillery.

Soon after midnight several armed men attacked the barracks of the special constabulary in Dock street and a fierce conflict ensued in which several of the attacked were injured. It is reported that three motor cars were used to remove the wounded. None of the constables was injured.

British Give Up Barracks

CORK, May 19. (By the Associated Press.)—The last vestige of British military power in southern Ireland disappeared when at 7 o'clock the Victoria barracks was formally transferred to Capt. McNeill for the provisional government. Later the barracks was given over to the First Cork brigade under Sean O'Harty.

The resentment of the British officers at the transfer was concealed. One of them smashed the windows of the officers' mess with his hunting crop and another ordered a British soldier to cut down the flag staff. In reply to Capt. McNeill's protest, the officer said, "that flag staff never shall fly a rebel flag."

On the departure of the British soldiers, the republican tri-color was hoisted at the barracks gate, and the Cork brigade marched through the city to an enthusiastic demonstration.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 19.—The report of the superintendent of the Women's auxiliary to the Southern Presbyterian church, which was submitted to the general assembly here showed that in every phase of its work the auxiliary had been successful during the decade since it was authorized by the assembly of 1912.

Foreign mission study classes, it was reported, now number 1783, and the home mission study classes 1511, giving a total number of 3294 mission study classes, with a total membership of 48,957. The auxiliary reported also 1832 Bible study classes, with a membership of 26,531; 5557 prayer bands, with a membership of 26,331; 9236 family altars and 10,265 others. The increase in mission study classes during the year was 564, in the Bible study classes, 442, and in the prayer bands, 442.

Additional items of the educational work of the auxiliary are a summer conference, which is held annually at Montreat, N. C., and which was attended in 1921 by more than 900 women; three conferences for colored women, one at Tuscaloosa, Ala., one at Christiansburg, Va., and one at Atlanta, Ga., and a school for colored girls at Tuscaloosa. The women's auxiliary is also active in conferences in the interest of young people's work which are held in a number of synods each year.

WILSON SAYS HE HAD NEARLY LOST ALL HOPE

Spent Much Money But Stubborn Stomach Trouble Hung On Until He Got Taniac, Declares Well Known Roxbury Business Man

"At one time I had but little hope of ever getting well, but by the help of Taniac my troubles are gone and I am like a new man," said Nathan P. Wilson, of the firm of Nelson, McCooly, & Wilson, 78 Cabot st., Roxbury, Mass. "I seldom ate more than one light meal a day and even then gas from my stomach pressed on my heart and nearly cut off my breath. I had such severe pains I could scarcely stand up, and could never get a good night's sleep."

"I spent so much money only to get worse I had become discouraged, but my first few doses of Taniac brought relief and four bottles have put me in shape to where I am feeling fine. I could not do otherwise than praise Taniac highly."

MORE SALARY TO JUDGES

Senate Would Allow Judges to Accept Increase Without Sacrificing Pension

BOSTON, May 19.—The state senate yesterday reconsidered its vote of May 10 whereby it referred to the next annual session a bill providing that the salary of the chief justice of the state supreme court shall be increased to $12,000 and the salaries of the other justices of that court to $11,000; but that the pension for each shall be the salary of the chief justice of the state supreme court. The salary of the chief justice is now $10,500 and that of the other justices is $10,000 each. After reconsideration had prevailed, the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Senator Gibbs said, "The commonwealth made a contract with the judges when they were appointed to give them a pension on their term salaries. Since their appointment their salaries have been increased, but the bill only calls for pensions on their old salaries, he declared."

The judges gave the legislative practice to enter the public service of the state and they should be properly paid for their services, Senator Gibbs said. Moving picture stars, baseball players and athletic coaches are paid large salaries, reaching up to $100,000 a year, yet the state will not pay the judges of our courts, he said.

"Conduct Reprehensible."

Senator Reed of Taunton referred to Senator Gibbs as the "debater of consistency" and said that when the bill was before the senate last week, the vote was 21 against the proposition and 14 for it. "The conduct which has been going on since the body reached its untrammelled verdict is reprehensible," he said.

Senator Gould of Milford said the standard of the courts of other states is not as high as this state and the opinions of the justices of the supreme court of this state are quoted more than the opinions of any other state.

There is a possibility of losing some of the justices on the supreme bench, Senator Gould said. Judges appointed to the bench in the future will not be entitled to pensions, but will receive the increase of $2000, making the salary $12,000, he pointed out.

Senator Shea of Holyoke said that if the question was submitted to the people he felt the bill would be killed.

Senator Casassa of Revere said the only members of the senate whom he knew were to change their vote, were those who were misinformed when the vote was last taken on the bill. He said it is not true that the judges of the supreme court were willing to take the increase two years ago and forfeit their pensions. He said the younger members of the superior courts agreed to the change, but the older judges of the superior court refused to accept the raise and surrender their pensions as did likewise the judges of the supreme court.

Senators McDonnell and Carey of Boston opposed the bill and Senator Purkhurst of Winchester favored it.

Two Rollcalls Taken

On reconsideration the vote was yes 19, no 11, and on a rollcall was yes 21, no 13, and reconsideration prevailed.

Senator Reed then raised a point of order that the bill reported is beyond the scope of the petition, and President Allen ruled the point not well taken.

On the question of ordering the bill to a third reading, the vote was, yes 19 to 15, and on a rollcall, 20 yes, 12 no, with three nays. Previous to calling the roll on the question of ordering the bill to a third reading, Senator Casassa raised the point of order that Senator Putnam of Lowell could not announce a pair with Senator Churchill of Plymouth because the latter was in the chamber.

Senator Melane announced that Senator Churchill requested him to have the latter recorded. Senator Casassa then withdrew his objection, but Senator Carey raised the same point of order. Senator Churchill then stepped out the door from the back of the curtain near the door, and President Allen announced that he had no power to prohibit the announcement of pairs when a member was absent from the chamber.

The rollcall on the question of ordering the bill to the third reading was: Yes—Babb, Bliss, Carrick, Casassa, Chamberlain, Clark, Cooke, Gibbs, Gould, Leonard F. Hardy, Waller A. Hardy, Monk, Moulton, Napien, Nelson, Parkhurst, Pearson, Tarball, Wells, Wright—20.

No—Austin, Croy, Donovan, Engler, Green, Griswold, McDonnell, Quinn, Reed, Shen, Tretry, Wadleigh—12.

Pairs—Yes, Emery, Halliwell, Churchill; no, Melane, Butler, Putnam.

Aimed at "Jay Walkers"

An amendment aimed at "jay walkers" was put upon the bill to prohibit operators of motor vehicles from driving within six feet of a person alighting from or boarding an electric car. The amendment, offered by Senator Wells of Boston, provides "that any pedestrian who unreasonably obstructs a motor vehicle by lingering within the street or pretends to board a street car shall be subject to the same penalties as the operator of a motor vehicle who drives within six feet of a person about to board or alight from a car."

A motion to refer the bill to the next annual session was rejected and the bill was passed to be engrossed as amended.

The senate refused to substitute for an adverse committee report a bill to give the public utilities commission further supervision over companies selling gas or electricity to distributing companies.

The senate rejected the bill directing the state department of health to investigate and report relative to supplying water to the city of Fall River. Senator Walter Melane of Fall River stated the city of Fall River desired to try and work out a plan without interference from the state board.

Speaker Young Apologizes

Speaker B. Loring Young wrote a letter to the senate, expressing regret that any member of the senate was barred from entering the house chamber yesterday afternoon, during his attack on Mayor Curley. Speaker Young said the rules permit members of the senate all the privileges of the floor, and any action of doorkeepers in refusing admittance to the chamber was an error.

He said that early in the session he issued orders that the public be excluded from the chamber after all seats were taken, but he never intended to have the order apply to senators because of their rights under the rules.

He said he cannot perceive why any doorkeeper should have interpreted his order to apply to the members of the senate. He said that such an incident will not happen again and would not have occurred yesterday had the matter been called to the attention of Representative John C. Hull of Leominster, who was in the chair.

The communication was received and will be printed in the senate journal.

The committee on banks and banking reported ought not to pass on the initiative petition of Simon Bwig, vice president of the Tremont Trust company, requiring savings banks to give depositors the rights and privileges now conferred upon members of such corporations.

STORM GUARDS REMOVED

A detail of men under the direction of the engineering department, yesterday removed the storm guards on Central bridge. Because of the incomplete bridge work, the guards had been left in position, but the long delayed work together with the insistent demands of Centralville residents led to their removal yesterday.

ON THRESHOLD OF NEW ERA

"Business Reviving, Country is Finding Itself," Says
President Harding

Must Not Destroy American
Industry to Build up
Other Lands

WASHINGTON, May 19.—President Harding, speaking yesterday before the chamber of commerce of the United States, declared that the country "at this very moment is on the threshold of a new era," that business is reviving and the country is finding itself. The government, he said, was greatly interested in restoration of normal world business and economic conditions and he added that there was no disposition on its part to hold aloof from other nations. American industry, however, he said, should not be destroyed to build up the commerce of other lands.

He declared there was no one constructive thought in the mind of the administration at the present which took rank over that of a desire to establish firmly and successfully an American merchant marine. He doubted, he said, if the world war would have occurred had the United States possessed a merchant marine commensurate with its commercial importance.

Business the Reflex

"If there is any one realization," he said, "which fixes itself more firmly than another in the mind of one charged with great responsibility, it is the conviction that the business life of the republic is the reflex of all its good fortunes. I think I can venture to say that commerce and civilization go hand in hand; and were it not for commerce there would be no civilization."

"From the viewpoint of one in authority and having responsibility comes another consideration. Commerce finds its place in all our considerations. Undoubtedly it had much to do with the bringing about of the world war, and I think I can say just as confidently that it was never once forgotten in the negotiation of peace. It is so inextricably associated with all we do that commerce is always foremost in the life of any people."

Determined to Be Foremost

"We in America—I am sure it is not unreasonably to say it—are commercially a great people and we ought to be. God blessed us most bountifully in resources. In the citizenship of this republic is the blend of every people in the world, almost, and I like to say I believe we are unequalled in genius, we are incomparable in our industry, and we have the talent and the determination—the vigorous determination—to be commercially one of the foremost nations of the world. This aspiration to excel is over an impelling one because we have learned from our observations of social and civil life that from the great golden stream of commerce flows everything in life worth while and we ought to be for this golden stream that comes from exchanges, from productivity and exchanges, there would be less of art, there would be few of the finer attainments which make life worth while."

Commerce With a Conscience

"While I am speaking very briefly I wish to speak, ladies and gentlemen, for a commerce with a conscience."

"If I were to bring only one admonition to you I would like to charge you men and women of influence and responsibility with the task of eliminating from American commerce those who do not have conscience, whose conscienceless practices bring that criticism which sometimes attends our American activities. "Something has been said, and I think opportunistly said, that we want a period in America with less government in business and more business in government. If the commerce of America were always conscientious there never would be a single excuse for government in American business. "There is not an agency in American life which can so quickly put an end to abuses and offenses in American commerce as those who are conspicuous in the leadership of that commerce."

Industry Cannot Go Back

"It will not do to pursue the activities with which we Americans are so intimately connected without a mindfulness of everybody involved. Commerce cannot be adjusted alone to the fortunes of the captains of industry. There must always be a thought of the great mass without whom there could be no productivity on the one hand and little consumption on the other."

"And I beg to remind you that the great world war, like every other war which preceded it, but more notably the great world war, because of its inevitable immensity, has left a stain in human affairs quite different from any that ever preceded it."

"The war would have been a complete waste, it would have been an utter sacrifice of every effort if we did not and the great human procession on a little higher plane than that which it followed before. And American commerce must keep that in mind. There never will be a time when you can go back completely to the old order of American industry and exchanges in trade."

On Threshold of New Era

"I say this because at the very moment we are on the threshold of a new era. Undoubtedly there is more than a mere business revival in sight. Our country is finding itself again. We are fundamentally right and we do not intend ever to be discouraged for a long time."

"Business is reviving and we are soon to resume our onward way and I admonish you of the larger responsibility to keep in mind the new state of human affairs and the awakened aspirations of men."

"I do not think that any business can permanently succeed that is not honest. And I do not think any enterprise ought to succeed that is not honorable. And if you will combine honesty and honor that enterprise which makes such a slogan will stand unchallenged before the world. "There is one fundamental that we ought never forget. No law can ever be enacted or any substitute ever found for the reward of merit. It is the essence of our social life. It is fundamental in our religious life. And

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring
to Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray hair, unattractive folks, aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Adv.

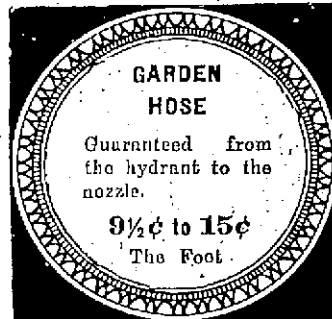

I am quite sure that there can be no abiding reward without merit and I am equally sure that there can be but little of merit without prospect of reward.

Russians Incentive to Work Gone

"Not so very long ago there came into the executive offices a very distinguished visitor, whose homeland is Russia. He was talking of conditions existing there and expressing a hope for its restoration, to which we can all very cordially subscribe, and he said:

"Mr. President, it will never be brought about until the existing system is abandoned. I know peasants of simple honesty and ready industry, who have heretofore always been eager to work and produce, but under a system where they retain only that which is necessary for their subsistence and the surplus are taken from them, the inspiration to produce has been destroyed."

"He said, 'Russia can never be restored until the communistic idea is put aside and the rewards for righteous human activity are restored to the citizenship of that land.'"

BENEFIT DANCE FOR STRIKERS

The benefit dance of the textile strikers, held last night in Merrimack and Grafton halls, met with an unusually large attendance.

Because of the mixed assemblage of young and old couples, one hall was devoted to the former and another to the latter. Among the entertainers were Jennie Martin, clog dancer, and "The Kennedys," piano and whistling.

The mayor and acting superintendent of police visited the scene in the course of the evening.

John Hanlon was general manager; Mrs. Annie Reagan, treasurer, and Edward Sullivan, floor director.

INTERSCHOLASTIC TRACK MEET

ANDOVER, May 19.—Andover's chances of winning the Harvard interscholastic track meet at Cambridge Saturday were considered lessened today by the loss of R. M. Wolfe in the hammerthrow and E. G. Weincke in the broad jump. The athletes have been declared to be over the age limit.

Now Is The Time to Think of Screens

Fly time is coming—it's time now to get out the old screens and look them over—and it's time, too, to think of the screen cloth that was used in making them.

JERSEY
COPPER
Screen Cloth

If your screens are made of iron or steel, you're apt to find plenty of holes to patch and a big job of painting to do. If they are of "bronze" (which is usually brass) you may see, here and there, a strand missing. But, if they were made of Jersey Copper Screen Cloth—they'll be clean and undamaged—ready to put in your windows.

Think of this when you are buying new screens, or screen cloth for repairing old ones. Buy the best that you can get—Jersey Copper Screen Cloth—it costs a little more (from 25c to 50c a window), but it lasts far longer and needs no painting or patching to keep it on the job.

Arrested For Alleged Flim Flam Game

SPRINGFIELD, May 19.—Traced to Worcester by the local police, Benjamin Stein of New York, wanted on a charge of obtaining $2500 from a local fur dealer by a flim flam game, was arrested today. Samuel Solomon of this city, also is being held in $3500 bonds for trial following his arrest here. Samuel Patterman, a fur dealer, complained Wednesday that he met the two who said they would sell him a lot of furs cheap. He gave them $2500, which they pretended to wrap up and returned to him to hold, pending delivery of the furs. Later he found the package contained only $7.

Motion to Direct Verdict Overruled

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., May 19. (By the Associated Press.)—Judge J. M. Woods today over-ruled a motion to direct a verdict of not guilty in the case of William Blizard, mine union official charged with treason as a result of the armed march last summer, against Logan county, a non-union stronghold in the coal fields of the state.

Former Dry Agent in Critical Condition

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 19.—Thomas F. McAuliffe, former chief prohibition enforcement agent of Connecticut, is in a critical condition at a local hospital, where he recently underwent a third operation for a "diseased condition of the jaw." Mr. McAuliffe as chief prohibition enforcement agent was arrested last October on a charge of accepting a bribe from an alleged bootlegger. He was indicted and held for trial in $15,000 bonds. Later McAuliffe was arrested by federal authorities and indicted by a federal jury. A date for trial was set but McAuliffe's illness has prevented his case from coming to trial.

Auto Runs Down Girls Under Umbrella

STAMFORD, Conn., May 19.—Mrs. Myra Casard of Hunting Ridge, returning home through North Stamford in her automobile with her children who attend a private school, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Eaton of Chicago, late yesterday, struck and mortally hurt Evelyn Austin, and probably fatally hurt Jessie Price. It was raining at the time, the young girls were under an umbrella and Mrs. Casard says that when she warned with a horn blast they stepped into the path of the machine.

Glotzbach Cancels Counter Divorce Suit

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Floyd Glotzbach, chauffeur of Delmonte, Cal., today instructed his attorney to cancel his divorce petition filed several weeks ago as a counteraction to the suit brought by his wife, Miss Margaret Matzenauer, grand opera singer. Her suit was instituted in New York, after their separation. Glotzbach said he would not oppose her efforts to get a divorce.

MASS MEETING ON SOUTH COMMON SUNDAY

All arrangements have been completed for the mass meeting to be held in the South common Sunday afternoon. The meeting will be opened by John Hanley, president of the Lowell Textile council, and the principal speaker will be John Campos of Fall River, a man well posted in labor affairs, who will address the gathering in the Portuguese language. Other speakers will be Charles E. Anderson, president of the Trades and Labor council, and General Organizer H. L. Workman of America. Tomorrow morning John Hanley and ten or more young women connected with the local textile strike will go to Pittsfield, where they will be in charge of a "rosebud" day for the benefit of the local strikers. The affair will be conducted under the auspices of the Central Labor union of that city.

DANCING POPULAR AT THE KASINO

The Kasino opened for dancing Wednesday evening and, judging by the expression of the large crowd of dancers who attended, the season is destined to be the most successful in the pavilion's history. Tonight and tomorrow night dancing will be in order, and undoubtedly the usual week-end crowds will be present to enjoy the splendid floor and music. The floor has been pronounced the best in the city, and those who were present on the opening night were unanimous in their praise of the orchestra. The reduced rate on tickets contributed greatly to the convenience of the dancers, owing to present conditions, and the excellent service afforded all patrons is another big feature. The large number of entrances and exits allow the dancers to get on the floor at the beginning of each dance and enjoy themselves to the utmost, and at the end of the dance there is no holdup caused by delay in leaving the floor. The next dance may begin almost immediately. Altogether, the management is entirely satisfied with the prospects for the season, and feel that the Kasino will be the favorite pleasure resort throughout the summer.

Can Others Give You as Much For

Men's and Young Men's Made-to-Order SUITS

Here are the main features of my $22.50 offer—read them carefully—then judge for yourself.

At $22.50 I offer a choice of more than eighty different patterns in greys, fawns, and browns—the popular colors this spring. All together you have the choice of more than one hundred all wool patterns which include Blue Serge, silk and wool chevrons, homespuns, tweeds, tartan checks, club checks, Pin stripes and mixtures. Your suit will be made any style you desire, except frock coat or full dress. I will use genuine American linen canvas for coat foundation and work all buttonholes with silk thread. The cloth you select will be part of the lot of 2,000 yards I recently bought, which is all cold water shrunk and means that your suit will keep its shape for a long time. If after your garment is finished you are not absolutely satisfied with it and do not believe it equal to any suit selling up to $32.50, just say so, and you can keep your money and I keep the clothes. If you can show me any other tailor that gives you as much for your money as I do, I will stake you to the best feed in town.

TO END 12 HOUR DAY

President Suggests Abolition at Dinner Attended by Leaders in Steel Industry

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Complete abolition of the 12-hour working day in the steel industry was discussed at a dinner conference at the White House last night, to which President Harding had invited 41 representatives of the iron and steel industry, and Secretaries Mellon, Hoover and Davis.

Almost to the hour of the meeting the guests were without information as to the subject to be taken up. After an informal meeting at a local hotel, Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, went to the White House and was closeted with President Harding. On leaving the White House he would make no comment.

White House Statement
George E. Christian, secretary to the president, issued the following statement from the White House on the dinner:

"The president had dining with him a company of nearly 50 representatives of the iron and steel industry and Secretaries Mellon, Hoover and Davis. No announcement of the purpose of the dinner was given to the guests in advance.

"After dining, the president stated that he wished to know better the men comprising his company of guests and to very informally discuss with them the complete abolition of the 12-hour working day in the steel industry. He explained frankly that there was no intention of government interference in private business, but that we are about to witness a great industrial revival and the one hope of abolishing the excessively long working day was to do it before the full swing is resumed.

"The president explained that he had discussed the matter with individual heads, and found much favorable sentiment, but there is a conviction that the abolition is impracticable without substantially unanimous action by all the employing forces in the iron and steel industries. Hence the dinner and the attending opportunity to discuss the proposal amid free and frank expression on the question of such import to industrial America."

"The statement added that the dinner was 'another development of the president's belief that conference affords a way to accomplishment.'"

YOUNG MAN MURDERED

Envelops Murder of Unidentified Man

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 19.—New elements of mystery today enveloped the murder of the unidentified young man whose body was found near here last Tuesday.

Sheriff George J. Warner of Westchester county was informed that a telegram signed with his name had been received by the city marshal of Haverhill, Mass., and that the message declared the dead man was supposed to be Clarence Peters of Haverhill.

Sheriff Warner asserted he had never sent such a telegram, and that no identification had been reported to him. It was possible, he said, that such a telegram had been sent in his name by a deputy, but it was probable that such action would have been reported to him.

The body was found on a lonely road near the northern end of the Kensico reservoir north of White Plains. The man had been killed by a gunshot wound in the chest.

HONOR PASTOR OF
HIGHLAND CHURCH

Rev. Joseph P. Kennedy, newly appointed pastor of the Highland Union M. E. church was tendered a reception of welcome at the church last night by the Methodist Episcopal ministers of this city and many members from his own church.

Despite the inclement weather, the vestry was crowded and all took advantage of the opportunity to personally greet the pastor and his family. After the reception, supper was served and this was followed by an excellent program of speaking and entertainment.

The reception opened shortly after 6.30 o'clock and in the receiving line were Rev. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, Donald Kennedy, their son, and Miss Edith Kennedy, their daughter; also Rev. J. L. Cairns of St. Paul's, Mr. E. Rev. Leslie C. Rocke of the Central M. E., Rev. J. F. Speck of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Rev. Richard Peters of the Highland Congregational church, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Large and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Pitch. During the reception Miss Mabel Sullivan, church organist, played several compositions.

At the close of the reception all fled into the dining room, which was appropriately decorated, and enjoyed an appetizing supper served by the Ladies Aid. There was music by an orchestra composed of Arthur E. G. Booth and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hughes. Following the supper there were songs by Miss Susan Reconstern, after which there were addresses of welcome by the ministers present.

Mrs. O. G. Johnson, president of the Ladies Aid society, had general supervision over the entire affair, and assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. W. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Agnes Porter, Mrs. M. W. Winters, Mrs. J. M. Washburn, Mrs. John Kunsman, Mrs. Halsey Hook and Mrs. J. M. Kendrick.

The dining room was in charge of Mrs. Henry Maguire, who was assisted by Mrs. E. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Perrington, Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Plummer, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Farrell and Mrs. Ella Richardson.

Milton Washburn had charge of the ushers and was assisted by Edgar Movis, Carroll Brown, Vinton Brown, Harry Henderson, Alfred Timmins and Donald Hilton.

PINCHOT'S MAJORITY IS SLIGHTLY INCREASED

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—Gifford Pinchot's majority over Attorney General George M. Alter for the republican gubernatorial nomination was slightly increased today.

Unofficial figures from 7641 election districts out of 7931 in the state gave him a margin of 8418.

The vote was: Pinchot, 499,070; Alter, 490,422.

The National Humane Review, the official publication of the American Humane association contains the following interesting tribute:

"Mr. Charles F. Richardson completed 25 years as agent of the Lowell Humane society at Lowell, Mass., March 9, last. Mr. Richardson has worked early and late to make the Lowell society one of the best in Massachusetts and has been particularly successful in his work for boys. He was appointed juvenile probation officer some years ago, after serving in that capacity voluntarily before the establishment of the juvenile probation system by the state. Mr. Richardson's friends in Lowell joined in congratulating him on his anniversary, and it is the wish of the Review that he will live to celebrate his 50th anniversary with the society."

ANNUAL MEMORIAL
DAY EXERCISES

At the request of the Grand Army Veterans, Rev. Percy D. Thomas, pastor of the First Congregational church, will be the principal speaker at the annual Memorial Day exercises on Sunday, May 28, and will deliver the customary memorial address. Members of the Memorial Day committee will complete details and plans for the observance at a meeting early next week.

Orders of the day will be issued the first of the week by Chief Marshal Dudley L. Page and Chief of Staff Walter R. Jeyes. These orders will designate the organizations which are to appear in line for the parade on Memorial Day, and the methods to be used in the city's cemeteries in decorating graves.

PINAFORE CAST
IS ENTERTAINED

At Cole's Inn last evening the Teachers' Organization entertained the cast of the operetta, "H.M.S. Pinafore," given in the Opera House April 17 and a roast chicken supper, an impromptu entertainment in which one and all participated and general dancing helped to make the occasion most enjoyable for all present.

Heartily thanks to all who participated in the production, principals and members of the chorus as well, were extended by Miss Caroline A. Downey, president of the organization and toastmistress of the evening. Brief remarks were heard from Director Fred O. Hunt, a guest of honor. The pleasant event was in the hands of Miss Alice O'Brien, chairman of the program committee, and Miss Downey.

TURNING AUDITORIUM OVER TO THE CITY

The Memorial Auditorium commission cannot make any definite plans for turning the new building over to the city and no arrangements of any sort can be made unless the city council at once votes an appropriation of $20,000 to care for the main tankhouse, said Mayor Brown today.

He said that he does not understand why the city council did not take action on orders that were before it last night, orders transferring money from the surplus to an appropriation for auditorium maintenance.

"What is more," said the mayor, "it is absolutely dangerous to leave that beautiful new building without proper care. It is imperative that an even temperature be maintained within the building for at least a year, until the structure is thoroughly 'set,' but unless some money is forthcoming, deterioration is bound to set in and the city will pay a heavy penalty."

The mayor reiterated that nothing can or will be done relative to a public acceptance or opening of the building until the council acts to provide money necessary for its maintenance. This amount is in the neighborhood of $20,000 and would be adequate to maintain it until the first of January, 1923.

MEETING OF THE LOWELL AD CLUB

At next week's meeting of the Lowell Ad club, to be held in the quarters of the Girls City club in the Howe Building Wednesday at 11.15 p. m., all new members and friends are expected to be present. Dinner will be served and will be followed by an entertainment.

The principal speaker will be William P. (Bill) Baker, ex-chief clerk of the Providence Town-Criers, the leading advertising club of that city. Mr. Baker will tell in interesting style how an ad club "does it."

The meeting promises to be the best ever held by the club, and many original features will be introduced and are expected to take those present by storm.

Mandamus Case Decision

Continued
Redmond Welch from office on January 3, events rapidly shaped themselves toward court proceedings, though it was not until several weeks later that mandamus action was started.

Nomination of MacBrayne
The mayor nominated W. C. MacBrayne for superintendent, but the council refused confirmation and immediately thereafter the mayor named him as temporary chief. Redmond Welch, under the right given him in the charter, demanded a public hearing and this was granted by the council.

The hearings, at which scores of witnesses were summoned, including members of the clergy and many policemen and superior officers of the local department, dragged out over several weeks. They were held in the council chamber and in historic Memorial hall and were attended by unprecedented crowds.

After the last session of the hearings, when arguments for both sides had been presented by City Solicitor Edward J. Tierney, representing Mayor Brown and Albert S. Howard, representing the deposed superintendent, the mayor and acting Superintendent MacBrayne, through Attorney John M. O'Donoghue, instituted mandamus proceedings in the supreme court. A hearing on the matter was held first before Justice Jenny and later sent along to the full bench. This was in March.

Fall Term of December

The complete decision of the mandamus case written by Chief Justice Rugg is as follows:
The present charter of the city of Lowell becomes operative on the second day of January, 1923.
The petitioner, Brown, as mayor of Lowell, on January 3, 1923, nominated the petitioner, MacBrayne, to be superintendent of police. This nomination was within the power of the mayor, under Section 22, Part 1 of the charter, but it was subject to confirmation by a majority of all members of the city council. The nomination was laid on the table by the city council as soon as received, and has not further been acted upon. On the same day the petitioner, Brown, removed from the office of superintendent of police, Redmond Welch, who was lawfully holding that office and had held it for about ten years immediately preceding. Reasons were stated in the removal order, which was filed with the city council. It is provided by Section 15 of the charter that the terms of office of numerous city officials, including the superintendent of police, shall terminate at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of the first Monday in January, 1923. They shall continue in office, however, until their successors have been appointed, confirmed and qualified. In Section 22, Part 1, are these words: "The mayor shall have the power to suspend or remove from office any administrative head of a department for cause which in his judgment he may deem sufficient and shall file with the city council, through the city clerk, his reasons therefor. The administrative head of a department removed by the mayor, may within forty-eight hours after said notice of removal has been received, file with the city clerk a demand for a

"Dry" Navy Cuts Rum Smuggling

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Ships of the prohibition navy are blocking the sea lanes to the Atlantic coast against rum smugglers. Commissioner Haynes said today. Mr. Haynes indicated that the prohibition vessels were well distributed along the eastern coast line. Rum-running has decreased since the organization of the fleet, he declared, particularly along the Florida coast, while one of the prohibition ships recently stopped and searched 24 suspicious looking craft in one day without discovering any liquor.

BELIEF MURDER AND ROBBERY COMMITTED

MONTEFELIER, Vt., May 19.—The blood-stained clothing of William A. Gay, a Hancock farmer, and his automobile, found in a field on the outskirts of this city, early today, caused the police to search for his body in the belief that a murder and robbery had been committed. The wallet found with the clothing was empty.

A hole made by a bullet of .38-calibre in the back of the automobile seat indicated that he had probably been wounded by shots.

Mrs. Gay came here today expecting to meet her husband, who was to have stayed at Williamstown last night.

FINED FOR CONSPIRACY TO IMPORT LIQUOR

BOSTON, May 19.—Captain Bonita Amaro of Saugus, skipper of the rum-running schooner Golden West and Tony Carbone of Plymouth, a member of the crew, who were convicted last January of conspiracy to import liquor, were fined $500 by Federal Judge Peters in the federal court today. The other convicted man, Filippo Bruno, the owner of the vessel and the promoter of the enterprise, is now in Italy, but is expected to return here.

COUPLE TO LIVE AS "ADAM AND EVE"

WASHINGTON, May 19.—A modern "Adam and Eve," Carl A. Sutter and his wife, will leave here on Saturday for the woods of northern Maine where, according to their avowed intention, they will live for six weeks without clothes, weapons, or fire, as primitive man and woman. A reporter will accompany the pair to a village on the edge of the forest and will meet Sutter each day to hear the story of their experiences.

Sutter and his wife, who spent some time at a lonely camp near here last winter, have appeared in Vandalia in a rifle shooting act.

tore down, and Ricketta decided to run for safety, hoping to get in under the partial protection of Easthampton. On the Amagansett bars, however, the little boat struck.

Easy Prey to Battering Seas
Built more for speed and long cruising than for strength, the eagle boat was easy prey to the battering seas and it was only a few moments after the attack that the commander realized his danger and sent up rockets.

A coast guard sent in the alarm and life savers from the Georgia station near Amagansett station, launched their boat. They got close enough to the battered ship to tow a line, but because of the pounding of the waves dared not go alongside.

With the line, to which a pulley was attached, held by the life-savers, who returned to shore, Ricketta launched a raft. Taking five men to a trip, the raft was pulled ashore 12 times until all the crew had been saved. Once a sailor was washed overboard, but he was rescued when he clutched the wooden pulley rope. The men got some of their supplies ashore by tying them to the raft.

CAN YOU SPOT A "USED CAR" WHEN YOU SEE, HEAR OR RIDE IN ONE?

Neither can anybody else. For a Used Car in the broadest sense is nothing more than a new car which has been used. When you wear a new suit for the first time, it becomes a "Used" suit, and so with your shoes, hats, watch, piano or anything else you might own. But because they are "Used" does not depreciate their REAL value so awfully much.

public hearing before the city council and shall be privileged to be represented by counsel and present witnesses at such hearing. By Part 3 of the same section, power is conferred upon the city council after a hearing, by a two-thirds vote of all its members, to reinstate a removed officer.

Pursuant to this provision, Welch demanded a public hearing, which was not finished when these petitions were filed.

"The object of these petitions is to require the city council to refrain from taking further action in relation to the reinstatement of Welch."

"Welch has petitioned to become a party to these petitions, and has filed a brief. He is a third person who has or claims a right or interest in the subject matter, so that the court may permit him to appear in mandamus proceedings. (Citations.) The writ of mandamus may be used to try title to a municipal office. (Citations.) It is sufficient for the purpose of the present case to permit him to act as amicus curiae. (Citations.) His brief and argument have been carefully considered."

No Automatic Ouster

"The regular term of office of Welch as superintendent of police terminated on the third Monday, in January, 1922. But the office did not then become vacant, because the same section of the charter which declared the point of time of termination, extended or prolonged his former term of office until his successor should be appointed, confirmed and installed. (Citations.)"

"The statute did not work an ouster. The term had come to an end, but the former incumbent continued to hold by virtue of his immediately preceding appointment, until such time as his successor should become a party under the new charter to take his place, when he would automatically be displaced. It is within the power of the legislature to extend and to change the tenure of a city charter."

"The plain effect of the words of section 15, already quoted, is to prevent the existence of a vacancy in the office by continuing as a de jure officer the present incumbent, whose term otherwise has come to an end, until his successor, appointed as a permanent officer under the charter, should be ready to take over the duties of the office. This status was to be avoided. It is a practical position to preserve the good order of the community by extending in office continuously the head of a police department. There was no vacancy in the office such as would have existed in case of death, resignation, removal, suspension or other supervening cause. The fixed term of office simply came to an end, so that in accord with the visions of the charter a new officer could be named as successor, but in the meantime the previous superintendent continues in office. (Citations.) It follows that there was no vacancy in the office as superintendent of police arising from the terms of section 15. Hence the power to make a temporary appointment to that office without confirmation by the city council under section 43, part 2, did not rest in the mayor by reason of the terms of section 15."

Holdovers May Be Removed

"The mayor, however, removed Welch from office under Section 36, Part 1. The same power is referred to in Section 43, Part 2. This removal was within the power of the mayor, set forth in those two sections. Although there is room for doubt on this point, a sound construction of the statute on the whole is that a prolongation of the previous term wrought by the words of Section 15 does not have the effect of exempting such holdover officers from the general power of removal by the mayor. The force of that section puts the officers whose terms thus are extended."

Decorate Graves of 40,000 U. S. Soldiers

PARIS, May 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—The graves of 40,000 American soldiers will be decorated by the Paris Post of the American Legion on Memorial Day. This is 24,000 fewer than the number decorated last year, the reduction being due to the return of bodies to the United States. All the bodies have now been concentrated in six permanent American national cemeteries, with the exception of 60 places where relatives have asked that the bodies be undisturbed.

Found Guilty of Assaulting His Wife

LAWRENCE, May 19.—Ardash Garabedian, found guilty of assaulting his wife, Rosie, with intent to kill her on February 28, as she was leaving her work in a local mill, was today sentenced in superior court to serve from four to eight years in state's prison.

Big Liquor Raid at Saugus, Maine

SAUGUS, May 19.—Police officers today seized three large stills, 26 gallons of liquor and mash enough to make 2100 gallons more, in an early morning raid in a barn near the home of Bernard Maura, in the Oakland section. Entering the home of Maura, they found three and one-half gallons of whiskey and arrested him.

Southwest Storm Warning Issued

NEW YORK, May 19.—A southwest storm warning, Delaware Breakwater to Block Island, R. I., was issued today by the weather bureau. The storm, central over southern Lake Huron, is of marked intensity and will be attended by strong south and southwest winds.

ed on the same footing as all other officers in respect to removal. It of- fers them no special immunity and confers on them no tenure superior to that of other city officers. There are no limitations expressed in Sec- tion 36, Part 1, and Section 43, Part 2, on the broad power of the mayor to remove city officers. Therefore the mayor had power to remove Welch from office. "It results from these conclusions that the city council was acting pursuant to its charter obligations in granting a public hearing to Welch. He duly filed his demand, therefore and was entitled to it as a right. It is the duty of the city council to continue that hearing. It will be within its jurisdiction after that hearing to reinstate Welch in the office of superintendent of police by a two-thirds vote of all its members. Upon the passage of such a vote the order of removal made by the mayor will become invalid.

"The temporary appointment of the petitioner MacBrayne as superintendent of police by the mayor, after his removal of Welch, is valid only as a temporary appointment, according to the tenure established by Section 43, Part 1."

"In each case the entry may be petition dismissed."

Truthful Advertising

does not simply mean that if you advertise anything at a low price, you have it, that you are wholly truthful. It is one thing to create an impression and another thing to fulfill absolutely the impression you have created. In other words, when we say we have an article or a food product, such as a leg of lamb or a roast of beef, at such a price, you may rely upon it that we have NO OTHER PRICE a little bit HIGHER and SUPPOSED to be a little better. That is our way of doing business—only one kind.

tion to work. He was not a graduate of a law school, but so thoroughly assimilated the fundamentals and rudiments of his chosen profession in the office of Judge Charles S. Lilley that the structure erected thereon was unto himself a monument.

Born in Pittsfield, Mass., Dec. 20, 1858, the son of John F. and Teresa Dunbar, he gained his elementary education in the schools of that town. He later entered Amherst college and was graduated in the class of 1880.

He came to Lowell the following year and at once entered the law office of Mr. Lilley. He was admitted to the Massachusetts bar in 1893 and shortly after, when Mr. Lilley went to the superior bench, Mr. Dunbar took over a great deal of his general practice. This practice steadily expanded under his careful management and it was not until 1905, when John Jacob Rogers was admitted to the bar, that he formed a partnership firm. For a number of years thereafter the firm occupied offices in the Hildreth building, moving only last year to a new suite of rooms in the Five Cent Savings Bank building.

In 1896 Mr. Dunbar married Mary Carney Rogers, daughter of the late Jacob Rogers. No children were born of this union.

As his law business increased with the advancing years, Mr. Dunbar extended his interests in many other directions. He was a republican in politics, but sought office only on one occasion. In 1908 he was defeated by General Ames for the republican nomination for congressman from this district.

He went four times as a delegate to national republican conventions, in the years 1904, 1908, 1916 and 1920, the conventions which nominated McKinley, Roosevelt, Hughes and Harding.

Executive positions in industrial and financial corporations he held almost without number. He was president of the Boot mills and the Appleton Co., a director of the Newmarket Mfg. Co. of Newmarket, N. H., a director of the Middlesex Co. of the Union National bank, of the Traders & Mechanics Insurance Co. and the Shaw Stocking Co.; trustee of the Five Cent Savings bank, the Hiram Mills estate, the Ayer Home and the Lowell General hospital; vice president of the Lowell Gas Light Co., treasurer of the Stony Brook railroad and counsel for the Locks and Canals, the Merrimack Co. and most of the other textile corporations with which he was connected. For a number of years he served as a member of the board of trustees of the Lowell Textile school.

Mr. Dunbar's fraternal affiliations were limited to membership in the Lowell Lodge of Elks. His clubs were the Eastern Yacht, and the Yoric-Veepers Country and Longmeadow Golf clubs of this city.

He was a member of the Lowell Bar and the bar associations of Middlesex county and Massachusetts and the American Bar association. Also he was a member of the council, or execu-utive committee of the county association.

Ever since coming to Lowell, Mr. Dunbar was actively interested in the First Unitarian church and after it was merged with the High Street Congregational church as All Souls.

The present church building in East Merrimack street was erected under his constant supervision for as chairman of the building committee, he fathered the project from beginning to end. The present church organ is the gift of his family.

Besides his wife, his father, John F. Dunbar, and a brother, Harry A. Dunbar, both of Pittsfield, survive him.

Funeral services will be held on next Sunday afternoon at the home in Andover street at 4 o'clock.

Governor's Tribute

Commenting upon Mr. Dunbar's death today Gov. Channing Cox said:

"In the death of Hon. Frank B. Dunbar, the whole commonwealth has suffered a distinct loss. An eminent lawyer, a successful business man, a public-spirited citizen with a long and honorable record of useful service, has passed on at a time when men of his capacity are much needed."

Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall of the superior court said: "The Middlesex bar has sustained a distinct professional loss. In the death of Mr. Dunbar, he brought to the practice of the profession, learning, combined with large experience. To those who knew him personally he was an attractive, social companion. He was a leading citizen of Lowell, which city shares with the profession profound regret in his death."

Bar Association Meeting

At the opening of this morning's session of the district court, Judge Thomas J. Enright announced that a meeting of the Lowell Bar association would be held tomorrow morning in the court room at 10 o'clock to take action on the death of Mr. Dunbar.

ANNUAL CRUISE OF N. Y. YACHT CLUB

NEW YORK, May 18.—The annual cruise of the New York Yacht club is to be more of a deep sea affair this summer than last year's jaunt, which was sailed between Glen Cove, L. I., and Newport, with the rendezvous of the fleet at the Long Island station and races for the Astor cups and the king's cup held off Newport.

This year the New York yachtsmen will rendezvous at the Long Island port on Aug. 1, cruise around Cape Cod and south of Marblehead, Mass.

The sea route along the New England shore rather than the sheltered waters of Long Island sound, will bring practically all of the many members of the Eastern Yacht club of Marblehead, who also are of the burgee of the New York organization, into the fleet this year under Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt.

The Astor cup races for sloops and schooners will be held Aug. 2 off the Newport anchorage. Squadron runs will start Aug. 4 from Newport to Mattapoisett, Mass.

HOUSE PASSES

PENSION BILL

BOSTON, May 18.—Without debate or opposition, the Massachusetts house of representatives yesterday passed to be engrossed the bill providing for retirement allowances based on annuity and pension contributions for employees of the city of Boston and Suffolk county.

The bill to provide security to the public for personal injuries caused by motor vehicles was ordered to a third reading, with the understanding it would be considered at greater length on the next stage.

Mr. Hull of Leominster, in charge of the measure, said that after it becomes operative no person can operate an automobile until he has given security of a bond for damages for personal injuries. It does not cover property damages, he said.

Mr. Lane of Boston said that taxicab drivers had told him that it is impossible for them to get insurance without paying rates so high as to be prohibitive.

Mr. Brimbleton of Newton presented a petition from Wilbur E. Trussell and others for the establishment of a state manatorium or hospital for the treatment of persons afflicted with cancer. It was referred to the committee on rules.

Mr. Lane of Boston presented a petition for a law to permit the cultivation of land on Sunday between 2 and 6 p. m. by owners or lessees for the raising and harvesting of agricultural products, the privilege to ob-

Remarkable Conference Ends

of Great Britain in his valedictory speech to the Genoa economic conference today said the conference had gathered "fine crops" namely the meeting to be held at The Hague, the non-aggression pact, and the reports of the finance, transport and economic commissions which he said alone justified the holding of the conference.

These results must be incorporated into living practice, however, the premier added, in order to aid in restoring European vigor and prosperity.

Ovation for Premier

Mr. Lloyd George received great applause when he arose to deliver his address. He was in fine form and good humor.

"We are now at the end of the most remarkable conference ever held in the history of the world," he said. "The Genoa conference will forever be an inspiring landmark in the pathway of peace."

He proposed resolutions of thanks to Premier Facta and Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy and paid glowing tributes to the hospitality of the Italian people.

Warning to Russia

Mr. Lloyd George called attention to the bad effect the Russian memorandum had had on the world, and he warned the Russians that if they desired to win success at The Hague it would be better for them not to enter eloquent presentations of the doctrine of repudiation of debts. Such a course was unwise when one wanted to borrow more money, he remarked.

Europe, said the premier, was anxious to help Russia, but Russia must accept the code of honor which Europe had an inheritance from centuries of hard working, honest people.

Final Session

GENOA, May 18. (By the Associated Press).—The last session of the Genoa conference was called to order today by the chairman, Premier Facta of Italy.

M. Colrat of the French delegation, presented the report of the economic commission which was adopted with the understanding that reservations by certain powers would be recorded.

The report emphasized the urgency of organized and coordinated efforts for the distribution of the world's labor so as to ameliorate the present industrial conditions. As many of the unemployed as possible, it was stated, should be diverted to agricultural pursuits, and useful public works should be developed to provide employment for others. The report recommended that all the nations rally the convention relating to unemployment adopted by the international labor conference in Washington.

Dr. Walter Rathenau, German foreign minister, discussing the report, declared it would be impossible to reconstruct Europe without the aid of the United States. He concluded with the statement that Germany had contributed to a rapprochement with Russia, and that she hoped the work she had begun would be the basis for peace between the east and the west.

Peace What World Demands

"Peace is what the world demands," he asserted.

M. Tchitcherine, the Russian soviet foreign minister, created some surprise in his address when he declared that the Russian delegation was dissatisfied with the economic report because it was not broad and comprehensive enough in its political orientation to be useful. He said the attitude toward labor was narrow and unsatisfactory.

M. Tchitcherine urged the eight hour day as fundamental in all reconstruction work. He also objected to the failure of the report to consider cooperative societies. He said the Russians did not recognize the international labor bureau of the league of nations, and he deplored the absence in the report of any mention of protection for workmen by legislation.

M. Tchitcherine likewise objected to the absence of Russia from the committee which dealt with labor problems.

Reply to Russian Objection

M. Colrat referring to M. Tchitcherine's objection to the Russian's absence from the committee dealing with labor problems, M. Colrat declared it was not true that the Russians had been excluded from that body. He added: "We felt that the Russians came so rarely to the meetings that they were unqualified to share in the discussions. The head of the Russian delegation is little justified, considering the present economic condition of his country to give lessons to other countries."

Foreign Minister Schanzer submitted to the meeting of experts and the text of the non-aggression agreement which would permit the discussion there with the Russians to take place in an atmosphere of mutual confidence, and especially in the spirit of pacification which he said had inspired the Genoa conference.

"The torch of this conference must not be extinguished," he declared. "Genoa passes it on to The Hague."

PROBE MARRIAGE OF MOVIE STARS

Investigation of Valentino-Hudnut Marriage to Be Carried to Mexico

To Determine Whether Criminal Proceedings on Charge of Bigamy Should be Taken

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 19.—Investigation of the marriage of Rodolph Valentino, film actor, to Winifred Hudnut, known professionally as Natacha Rambova, while according to California laws, he still was the husband of Jean Acker, film actress, was to be carried today to Mexico, Lower California, where the ceremony was performed last Saturday.

Dkt. Alt., Woolwine and Tom McClelland, one of his deputies, planned to go to the Mexican border town, learn all possible facts in the case and determine whether criminal proceedings on the charge of bigamy, should be taken against Valentino.

On the way to Mexico, the officials expected to stop at Palm Springs and Genito, where the actor and Miss Hudnut are said to have passed some time after leaving Mexico and before returning to Los Angeles. Valentino is believed to be in Los Angeles, but Miss Hudnut is thought to be en route to New York to her father, Richard Hudnut, a perfume manufacturer.

At the district attorney's office, emphasis was laid on the "intent" of Valentino.

"If he left this country a few days after getting a divorce," said Mr. McClelland, "was married in Mexico and then returned to the benefit of the laws here, he clearly intended to evade the law here. It makes no difference if the woman he married has left for the east."

Federal authorities also are investigating the actor's marriage. Frank M. Sturgis, of the department of justice, said the department desired to know whether in bringing Miss Hudnut back to California where he already had a legal wife, after the ceremony at Mexico, the actor had violated the Mann white slave act.

Mr. Sturgis stated also the depart-

15-YEAR-OLD NEGRO BURNED AT STAKE

DAVISBORO, Ga., May 19.—Charles Atkins, a negro 15-year-old, one of four taken into custody yesterday in connection with the killing of Mrs. Elizabeth Kitchens, 30 years old, was burned at the stake last night.

The lynching occurred at the scene of the murder and followed an alleged confession from the 15-year-old prisoner. He was tortured over a slow fire for 15 minutes and then, shrieking with pain, was questioned concerning his accomplices.

Atkins was said to have implicated another negro boy but to have exonerated his own brother whose name had been connected with the crime in a statement made soon after his arrest.

Members of the mob, comprising nearly 2000 people, then raised the body again, fastened it to a pine tree with iron chains and re-lighted the fire. More than 200 shots were fired into the charred body.

After the lynching the mob started out on a search for the negro Atkins had named as his accomplice.

Mrs. Kitchens, who served as a rural mail carrier, was robbed and slain early yesterday about four miles from Davisboro.

Found Hanging
CONROE, Tex., May 19.—The body of a young negro was found by Grimes county farmers swinging to a tree by the roadside near Blainville, yesterday.

The negro, known by the name of Early, apparently was lynched.

He was taken by officers Monday night when screams of a young white girl, whom it was reported he was attempting to attack, aroused the neighborhood. He was placed in jail at Anderson, but escaped Tuesday night.

ment was interested in the marriage at Tijuana, Lower California, Oct. 3, 1921, of Frank Mayo, motion picture actor to Dagmar Godowsky, daughter of Leopold Godowsky, the pianist, four days after obtaining an interlocutory decree of divorce here.

A marriage contracted by Henry B. Walthall also is said to be under investigation by federal agents.

PASTOR FOR CONGRESS
MANCHESTER, N. H., May 19.—Rev. Herbert R. Whitlock, pastor of the People's Baptist church of this city, announced yesterday his candidacy for congress. Since the textile strike began here February 13, Mr. Whitlock has supported the cause of the operatives, addressing mass meetings of strikers and assisting in strike organization.

AGAINST LADY RHONDDA

Committee on Privileges of Lords Decides Petition Had "Not Been Made Out"

LONDON, May 19. (By the Associated Press).—By a vote of 20 to 4 the committee on privileges of the house of lords decided today that Lady Rhondda's claim and petition to sit in the house of lords had "not been made out."

Lady Rhondda's petition to sit in the house of lords was granted by the committee on privileges March 2, but when the decision was reported to the house late in March, it was referred back to the committee on motion of Lord Birkenhead, the lord chancellor, who declared there were many serious legal points to be considered before the question was passed upon by the house as a whole.

Lady Rhondda, daughter of the late Viscount Rhondda, Great Britain's wartime food controller, is one of the leading figures in the business world of Great Britain, having succeeded her father, long known as the British "coal king" in the direction of numerous of his large business enterprises.

WOULD BAN LIQUOR ON ALL AMERICAN SHIPS

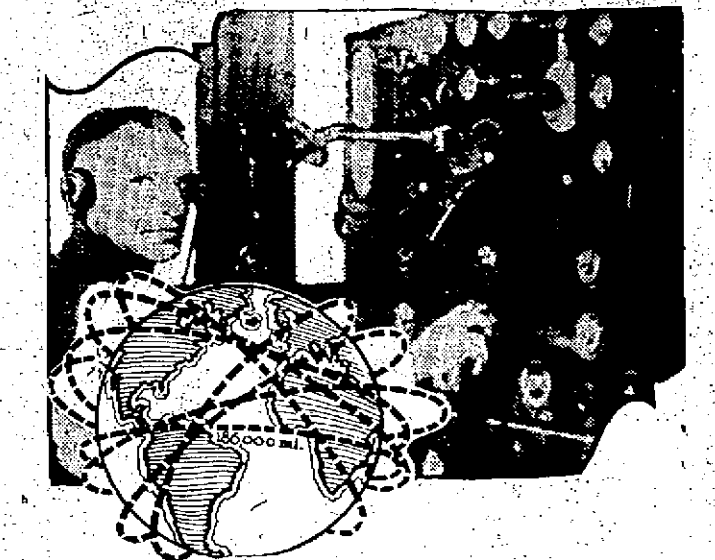

BOSTON, May 19.—Intoxicating liquor should be banned from every ship flying the American flag, Frank C. Hall, manager of a hotel here, told members of the Massachusetts Hotel Association at their convention yesterday.

"Ships flying the Stars and Stripes," he said, "are deluged with liquor which makes a publicity point for the shipping interests and also for foreign agents who include the 'wet' argument in their inducements to tourists to spend their money abroad in a war-torn Europe, while America with her vast wealth of mountains and valleys, sprinkled with luxurious hotels, goes begging."

"I have it on excellent authority that the shipping trade is active in defeating the tourist trade of this country to foreign shores. Hotel men must inquire into the cause."

Radiographs

AT THE CONTROL BOARD OF THE U. S. RADIO STATION AT THE PRESIDIO, SAN FRANCISCO

Around the world in a fraction of a second! That's the amazing possibility offered by radio—the flashing of a message to the farthest end of the globe almost instantaneously. Radio waves travel as fast as light waves, say scientists. That's 186,000 miles a second. Which means that a radio message sent from a point in the United States would encircle the globe nearly 7½ times in one second. That is impossible by telegraph because there is no direct line around the earth. It takes hours to reach a point where several cables are used in transmission. It takes only about one-fifteenth of a second for a message to be flashed from the powerful government station at the Presidio in San Francisco to the opposite side of the globe. This radio station has the equipment to do it, too. There are only a few others like it in the world. France is building a radio station that it is believed will be able to encircle the earth with its messages. Another similar station is in the process of building on Long Island, New York. Not satisfied with the earth, scientists are said to be experimenting on apparatus that they hope may flash signals to the moon and Mars.

SWITCH CHANGES FROM TUBE TO CRYSTAL

By R. L. DUNCAN
Director, Radio Institute of America
If you have passed from the crystal detector stage to that of the vacuum tube, do not throw your old set into the discard. It may be used with the larger set in one circuit.

By the use of a double-pole, double-throw switch, you will be able to shift from one set to the other—using the old crystal detector for nearby broadcasting and the vacuum tube for more distant reception.

Look up according to the diagram:

- No. 1—Loose coupler or variocoupler with "A" representing the primary and "B" the secondary.
- No. 2—Variable condenser of about .0005 microfarads shunted across the secondary.
- No. 3—Crystal detector, galena preferably.
- No. 4—Small fixed condenser.
- No. 5—Head phones of high resistance.
- No. 6—Double-pole, double-throw switch.

GORDON LOSES FIGHT FOR REINSTATEMENT

BOSTON, May 19.—Ex-Capt. Herbert Gordon of the Cambridge police, known as the right hand man for ex-District Attorney Nathan A. Tuttle, lost his chance for reinstatement yesterday when Judge Stone in the East Cambridge district court dismissed a petition for a writ of review on the evidence he placed before the trial board of the Cambridge police department which board found cause for dismissing him.

Judge Stone found that the charge that Captain Gordon tried to induce "Poco" Bennett to pay money for a parole was not sustained. There was one of the most serious charges brought against Captain Gordon.

The court also threw out without consideration the first count against the captain.

On the third count, that of using his official position to obtain a divorce in a divorce case, the court found against the petitioner.

The charge that he engaged in stock transactions with money supplied him by a firm that came into contact with the district attorney's office was sustained. There is no appeal from the decision.

AFTER WAR PROFITEERS

As the days go by, the republican party seems to be getting more and more involved in controversies calculated to bring about its ultimate defeat. For nearly two years the party has conducted investigations of war contracts at considerable expense and now after hearing some extravagant claims as to alleged corruption, congress has appropriated $500,000 for the prosecution of profiteers in war contracts. Representatives Johnson and Woodruff have made sweeping charges against the department of justice and have claimed that the stupendous sum of $125,000,000 will be recovered from the 2 1/2 cases now in the hands of the department. These cases have to do with 150,000 war contracts in which it is claimed there were fraudulent payments.

Now that Attorney-General Daugherty has been furnished with the necessary funds to conduct the prosecutions, it remains to be seen to what extent he can substantiate the extravagant claims made by certain republican congressmen. On the other hand, Samuel Untermyer has made a scathing attack upon the United States attorney general, announcing the breakdown in the anti-trust prosecution begun a short time ago and declaring that it is hard to believe that Mr. Daugherty's proposed campaign against war profiteers can be anything more than a flash in the pan. Untermyer is a prominent figure in New York and his words will attract nationwide attention. Democrats have little confidence in the statements made by the republican leaders who made charges of reckless management and wholesale profiteering on war contracts. It would be too much to expect that such stupendous operations as those conducted during the war could be carried through without more or less dishonesty by contractors. The haste with which everything was done made such a condition unavoidable. If there had been plenty of time to flicker over bids and to investigate contractors and their methods, money might undoubtedly have been saved. But the war was on and the situational manner possible. That is what was actually done and the republicans are welcome to all political capital they will make from the proposed prosecutions. If investigation shows that any number of war contractors cheated the government, none will wish more heartily to see them punished than will the democrats.

MUNICIPAL EXTRAVAGANCE

Before the legislature is a resolution, the purpose of which is to adopt some method of checking municipal extravagance which has grown to such an extent during the past two decades, that taxes at present are four times as high as then. This increase in taxation is not confined to municipalities as we find it in the governments of state and nation. Indeed the tax burdens from these sources fall heavily upon the municipal governments and if the latter be investigated as proposed, it will be found that the high tax rates are not entirely due to local extravagance. Under our new charter there have been some new offices created, notably the board of public service; and it can be said that no other feature of the charter has so demonstrated its worth as it has for the systematic direction and development of street work. The budget and auditing committee receive $500 each or half what the members of the public service board individually receive and they, too, earn their stipend and much more in holding up bills that should not be paid. There are few, if any, cities in the state in which extravagance in some form cannot be found; but some are guilty of wilful extravagance that should promptly be checked. The pension system as now conducted is becoming a great drag upon cities; but there seems to be little desire to check the freedom with which men are retired on pension. In several cities, too, there is much extravagance in connection with the school departments because of the great number of new activities entrusted upon the schools under the guise of patriotism, or the training in citizenship. It is true, that we have had a long spell of poor business and that most cities made an effort to start some form of public work to afford employment to those who were idle. An investigation that would bring extravagance, mismanagement and other abuses to light, would serve to "rivel public attention on the annual budget and to convince the unthinking public that it is for their benefit to have good, clean, economic but progressive government."

CHINESE THEATRES

Chinese movie fans are keenest for Wild West films, according to Lynn W. Meekins, foreign-trade scout for American movie magnates. Oriental theatrical taste, he says, runs to blood-and-thunder—though the Chinese are the most peaceful people on earth, despite occasional uprisings against bandit "war lords" and enemies of the Chinese republic. You understand the psychology of that. It is like the mild, meek man who does on red-blooded adventure stories. Most of us worship our opposites. China has less than 100 movie-theatres and admission averages 30 cents in American money. No movie theatre have been built there for five years. But the Chinese are almost as crazy over movies as they are over phonographs. There is a gigantic opportunity there for our film exporters. China, with enormous undeveloped natural wealth, holds similar opportunities for nearly every other industry. The Orient is our coming export market. It will consume Europe as a buyer of American goods, if they ever get able to pay our prices. Mr. Meekins also reports that there is nearly as much noise in a Chinese theatre as in a roller shop—a combination of wild music and the unceasing babble of voices. In front of every seat is a shelf for tea and peanuts. Some of our own theatres are not so very much different owing to the number of persons who comment upon everything presented for the benefit of their neighbors or who laugh as if desirous of attracting the attention of everybody else in the audience.

HELPING THE COMMUNISTS?

Secretary Denby of the navy has protested against the use of the United States radio service at the opening of the headquarters of the National Women's party at Washington on May 21 on the ground that many of the leaders in the women's party have given voice to communistic ideas and have promoted propaganda which would overthrow the government of this country. Here is a statement from Secretary Denby that:

"There is scarcely a woman's magazine which is not subtly undermining the belief in American institutions; and, knowingly or unknowingly, a large number of women's organizations are serving the communists for purposes. The work being done by the National Women's party, the Women's Trade Union League, the Voluntary Parenthood Association, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, and the League of Women Voters, would all fit the picture of the pieces of the communists like the pieces of a picture puzzle. Many of these organizations have international directorates."

It is well to bring such matters to public attention so that well meaning women will not be misled into supporting any movement calculated to undermine our institutions.

THE SCHOOL STRIKE

Westport, a little town out New Bedford way—one that has seldom figured in the public prints, has suddenly become famous and all because of a strike by the pupils of the high school. The strikers did not resort to violence. They threw no bombs and used no firearms. Nobody was killed or injured as a result, but goodness gracious, they kicked up an awful rumpus, because their teacher, a Mr. Cox, was dismissed suddenly by the school board and another teacher put in his place. It seems that Cox was inhumane, something the board would not tolerate in a teacher; but the whole school went on strike which evolved slightly of insubordination, yet the board reversed itself two to one and reinstated the discharged principal. The "ono" was Dr. Hurtt, who resigned on the ground that he could not be a party to a dictatorship of the juvenile proletariat. Westport should dismiss its school board and place the schools in charge of a committee of high school pupils to be conducted on the soviet plan. What a glorious privilege is home rule for such communities as Westport!

GARBAGE HOOD

Perhaps the people who risk their lives by drinking moonshine will take warning from the following item:

"KANE, Pa., May 18.—Federal agents who raided the supposed hideout of Alvin Karpis, on the outskirts of the city the other day, declared they found the place to be a well-equipped distillery, and that portions of the garbage its owner had gathered from the refuse cans in the vicinity had gone into the manufacture of whiskey and not into hog troughs. Fifty gallons of garbage-diluted whiskey were seized, with nearly 100 gallons of prepared mash."

Cases have been found in Lowell in which garbage was used from which to produce alcohol. Is it any wonder that those who drink moonshine take desperate chances?

DISCUSSING WEBSTER

One might expect that everything in connection with the dedication of the Daniel Webster Highway on the line between Lowell and Nashua by the latter city, would be in harmony with Webster's ideas. Yet one of the tablets set on great blocks of granite bore an inscription which was supposed to be Webster's words, but it was incorrect. It read: "Union and Liberty, one and inseparable, now and forever." It should have been: "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable."

"I don't give a huck-a-dint, I don't care a tuppenny damn," and "By Jove!" are some of the elegant slang phrases which Lady Astor left as reminders of her boasted culture. The first phrase was used in expressing her disregard of the unintelligent woman and later to some friends she volunteered the information that it is another form of the familiar "fucker's dam."

Many unintelligent women would blush to use such vulgar and uncouth expressions. Lack of intelligence is not the worst thing in the world.

After all, United States Commissioner Hays did not see fit to adjudge the Brockton Azala of England guilty of moonshining on the flimsy evidence adduced. The search warrant was obtained on the ground that the liquor officers scented alcohol in the vicinity of the azala. But an azala is not conclusive evidence of a violation of the Volstead act.

SEEN AND HEARD

Our experience is that pride goeth without a fall.
Love laughs at locksmiths; but only grins at the bill collector.
The great handicap about being a grand opera singer is getting born in some foreign country.
"Cyclones go 555 yards a second"—news item. But hasn't the size of the yards anything to do with it?
Thought For Today
By persisting in a habit of self-denial, we shall, beyond what I can express, increase the inward powers of mind and shall produce that cheerful and eagerness of spirit as will fit us for all good purposes; and shall not have lost pleasure.—Henry More.

Mistaken Identity

As a steamer was leaving the harbor of Athens a well-dressed young passenger approached the captain and pointing to the distant hills required: "What is that white stuff on the hills, captain?" "That is snow, madam," replied the captain. "Well," remarked the lady, "I thought so myself, but a gentleman has just told me it was Greece."—Kind Words.

Doctor of Music

A certain organist was so proud of his degree that he was careful to put "Mus. Doc." after his name on every possible occasion. To him came a small boy, "Please, sir, aren't you a doctor of music?" "Yes, my boy," replied the organist. "Can you put it straight, please?"

He Did Things

"What position did you hold in your last place?" asked the merchant. "I was a deer, sir," replied the customer. "Well," said the merchant, "when my employer wanted anything done he would tell the cashier, the cashier would tell the bookkeeper, the bookkeeper would tell the clerk and the clerk would tell me." "And what would happen then?" "Well, sir, as I hadn't any one to tell it to, I'd do it."

Population Shrank

Stephen Leacock, during his recent lecture tour abroad, appeared at a popular seaside resort on the south coast of England. The hall was full, but the audience was conspicuously small. Mr. Leacock thus began his address: "It has been 43 years since my last appearance in this hall. Neither the sea nor the sky seems quite as blue as I remember them, but I am quite sure, judging by the size of the audience tonight, that the population of the city has shrunk at least one-third."

A Word a Day

Today's word is criterion. It's pronounced—kri-teer-i-on, with accent on the second syllable. It means—a rule or test, by which facts, principles, opinions and conduct are tried. In forming a correct judgment respecting them. It comes from—a Greek word signifying "a means of judging." It's used like this—"A friend-tried, dispassionate pending plans for an enlarged import duties on toys. To police the criterion of an honest tariff bill is to be found in answering the question—does it distribute the booty equally?"

Wonderful Invention

Jackson was giving an exhibition to his friend Jones of his latest invention, which was to solve all domestic difficulties. Its title was the "Automatic Domestic." Into his mouth Jackson put a dozen or so forks and knives and pressed button No. 1. After a short but noisy interval they came out all nicely cleaned and polished. To work of potatoes was the next item. Button No. 2 was pushed, and after another noisy spell out they popped all peeled and ready for cooking. "Elmer!" cried Jones. "The third 'turn' was a number of dirty plates. A noisy and button No. 2 was pressed. An extremely noisy interval ensued, and out came the plates in fragments. "Absolutely perfect!" yelled Jones, and went home laughing.

May

May is such a pretty girl—She has a smile in her hair—The pink of apple blossoms And the white of summer pear—She has the most lovely scent That any girl could use—She owns a gorgeous sunset sky Of many different hues—She robs her horse of all his green—That's most becoming, too—Although the changes in her gown Are really very few.

May is such a clever girl—

She knows the way to blend The colors in her centrepiece—That blue and white we want—She's truly very kind of heart And trims the poorest lots With something an exquisite as that blue forget-me-not. But when her lovely centrepiece Is all complete and fine, Her sister June will come along And change the whole design.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The item which appeared in this column on Wednesday of this week, suggesting that some Lowell organizations, such as the Chamber of Commerce or the Lowell Ad Club might do a great deal of good by convincing touring parties entering the city from the direction of Tewksbury and Andover that they should enter by way of High and East Merrimack streets, rather than through Church and Appleton streets, as routed by the 1922 Blue Book, has been received with hearty approbation by officials of the two organizations mentioned. Since the routing through the less frequented streets cannot be changed in the official guide book, until next year, it is felt that little can be done to remedy the matter, but both the chamber and Ad Club are willing to do what they can. It appears that this routing is of recent arrangement, since the Blue Book for 1920 advised the East Merrimack street route, which tends to show visitors the business sections of the city. A suggestion has been heard, however, that the means of directing tourists from the chamber and Ad Club might be adopted, although the expense is great. In fact there is a great electric sign at a branch of the highway with the words "This Way to Portland." Humiliated thereon, which leads visitors off the road advised, by the Blue Book, and through the business district.

I have often heard it said that such and such a person who is ill will not die until his time comes. I don't believe in the idea of a fixed destiny that settles the time that any person is to die. The human body may be compared to a suit of clothes. With proper care it will last a long time, but if roughly used, like anything else, it will soon wear out. Whether a person lives to a good old age or not depends first of all upon the physical constitution and secondly upon the modes of life, whether they are those that promote health or those that lead to disease and invite an early death.

The white lines indicating the crossings on various streets, should teach the people to cross at right angles and not diagonally as most of them do. It is also a great protection against accidents on the streets to cross only when the pedestrian has just as much right on the public street as the person who drives an automobile, but it is not a question of right, but one of safety. Where the auto is stopped along a street, it is rather risky for a person to step from the sidewalk without seeing that his path is clear. What is known as "jay walking" is responsible for a great many accidents in which pedestrians are knocked down or run over by motor vehicles.

CHATS WITH REX BEACH ON GREAT-OUT-DOORS

BY MORRIS ACKERMAN
"Everyone who hunts the feathered migrants knows with what complete effectiveness the treaty with Canada has saved our migratory waterfowl," says Rex Beach.

"While the treaty and federated law has done its wonderful part, still, in my opinion, the discontinuance of market hunting along the Carolina coasts has been equally as effective."

"While hunting near my Ocracoke ducking grounds, along the North Carolina coast, last fall, I saw more brant than ever before. Talking with many of the old-time native hunters down there, I learned that never before in their lives had they seen as many of these birds."

"The wild swan, under several years' protection, has greatly multiplied. Why, in one flock I saw over 300 to 400 birds. You can imagine what the increase of this big fellow means in cleaning up food in the duck and geese grounds."

"I should say that there are three times the number of waterfowl along the Carolina coasts as was the case five years ago. Unless an epidemic comes along, which is always a possibility, the increase in waterfowl will, in the near future, present another problem, that of an over-supply."

At Ocracoke, Beach has perhaps the most complete equipment of any hunter along the coast. From battery box to houseboat, none of his cut is a makeshift rather than a necessity. He has been able for this reason, to hunt, as well as make his observations, in places unknown to the common variety of Nimrods.

"It has taken not a little 'convincing' on the part of Mr. Beach and others that it is more profitable to the former as marks hunters to spare their time as there are no better guides anywhere and the waterfowl shooter is sure of some great sport as a result," says Beach.

PELLETIER SNUBBED AT K. OF C. MEETING

BOSTON, May 19.—Ten thousand Knights of Columbus and their friends witnessed a dramatic incident at Mechanics building last night at a reunion and dance under the auspices of the Back Bay Council of the order. Significant speeches through the evening had law and order for their keynote and Judge Thomas H. Dowd of the municipal court, the speaker of the evening, had emphasized that no man is bigger than the government, that the courts and other instruments of law should not be lightly held, that all members of the order should ally themselves against the forces of disorder and stand firmly for the government.

As the program was reaching the end, to the surprise of the audience, former District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier, escorted by William J. Patton, and other friends came down the floor. The audience broke forth into applause. Dr. Francis D. Donoghue, who was presiding, rapped for order with his gavel. The applause continued until Mr. Pelletier and his escort had taken seats on the platform. Mr. Donoghue announced that dancing would begin immediately after the next speaker.

Of the invited guests only Major-General Clarence R. Edwards went over to shake Mr. Pelletier by the hand. Judge Dowd and other speakers ignored the presence of the supreme advocate of the order and left the platform. Friends of Mr. Pelletier gathered about him and he remained until the end of the festivities.

The invited guests of the council had received ovations and applause as they arrived and as they departed. Dr. Donoghue stated that Mr. Pelletier had not been specially invited to attend.

CAPE COD CANAL BILL REPORTED

WASHINGTON, May 19.—A bill providing for the purchase by the government of the Cape Cod canal was reported favorably to the house yesterday from the committee on interior and foreign commerce by Chairman Winslow. The bill provides for the payment of $11,500,000 for the canal, of which $5,500,000 is to be appropriated, to be paid to the owners, and the government is to take over $5,000,000 of bonds. The report recommends the widening and deepening of the canal also.

SUES GOVERNMENT FOR LOSS OF HUSBAND

BOSTON, May 19.—A hearing will be given in the equity session of the United States district court at 10 o'clock next Monday on the action brought by Ann Dolan vs. the United States of America.

The plaintiff, who is 37 years old, alleges that she has never seen her husband since he went to the Civil war as a member of the old 68th regiment of New York. She alleges the government has been guilty of fraud in dealing with her regarding her husband's absence, and seeks damages for loss of his companionship and support for 57 years.

OFFICER GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

PROVIDENCE, May 19.—The act of an officer in shooting at an automobile for the purpose of arresting its occupants because they are suspected, or are guilty of a misdemeanor, is unlawful and subjects him to the penalty of anything that the bullet of that revolver may bring about.

This declaration was made by Judge Hahn in superior court yesterday during his charge to the jury which has been hearing the trial of Joseph M. D'Asenado, police constable of Bristol, who was charged with manslaughter after he had shot and fatally injured Ernest R. C. Cluette of Attleboro, Mass., in Bristol, July 31, last. The jury returned a verdict of guilty yesterday afternoon and recommended clemency.

MUST END SOVIETISMFirst Essential Step Toward Economic Restoration in Russia, Says U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—An elaborated statement of the American viewpoint as to the expert discussion of Russian economic problems at The Hague, cabled by the state department formed the basis of Ambassador Child's conference with Senator Schuyler and Premier Lloyd George yesterday in Genoa.

The communication, however, merely made more positive, if possible, the conviction of the Washington government that Russia must rid herself of sovietism as the first essential step toward economic restoration.

It was made plain that while the United States does not desire to impede in any way an inquiry by international experts as to what is the matter in Russia and is prepared to join in any plan purely for the purpose of making such an inquiry, Washington officials are certain that the result would be only to show that the chief economic barrier to Russian restoration is sovietism.

Until the doctrine of government which are woven through the Russian memorandum of May 11 have been overturned and Russia is governed under the same economic theories, whatever the form of her government, that prevailed throughout the rest of the world she cannot, in the American view, expect again to set up trade and commerce relationships with world at large.

Obviously, it was pointed out yesterday, the United States government will not consider any question of a loan to a government on principle that avowedly would deny any recognized form of security for the loan. It is useless for the Russian delegation at Genoa or anyone else to believe that even recognition in a diplomatic way of the soviet government would lead to such action, it was said. And if public funds are not to be available for such a loan, American private capital would be still less willing to venture into Russia, it was pointed out.

At the same time, the Washington government was said to believe that an economic diagnosis of Russia's affairs by an international group of experts including German and Russian specialists in commercial matters, railroads, industry or other similar questions possibly might be in order to form a basis for international conversations as to Russia on which all were agreed as to the facts. The outstanding fact thus to be developed, however, in the American viewpoint, will be that sovietism itself is the element that blocks the road of Russia's return to the family of nations.

The point that blocked American participation in the Genoa conference and again stood in the way of American acceptance of the invitation to The Hague it has now been explained fully to the conference in Genoa, was that the whole proceeding began with negotiations of a political character, involving, at least, an implied forecast that the soviet government might be recognized by other powers. These negotiations preceded any exhaustive economic inquiry, whereas the American view is that they should have been preceded by the inquiry.

Not only has the American viewpoint been reemphasized to Genoa through Ambassador Child's amplified form, but it is now known that diplomatic representatives of the powers here have taken a hand in the matter and forwarded very full explanations of the situation in Washington after conferences with Secretary Hughes.

Because of the nature of these communications, there would be little surprise in informed diplomatic circles in Washington if the basis of the experts' meeting at The Hague were completely revised before it is approved by the plenary session of the Genoa conference, where it will be taken up today.

It was learned here that the degree of confusion existing in Genoa regarding the attitude of America was much greater than had been thought possible and the action of the sub-committee of the conference relative to The Hague meeting, taken in connection with the messages received here from negotiations in Genoa, are regarded by officials as clearly exhibiting such a misunderstanding that when the truth is made known, some modification of that action will be indicated.

HOLD SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

About 200 voters, including many women, attended the special town meeting which was in the town hall, Chelmsford Centre, last evening. The meeting was opened by Town Clerk Justin L. Moore and Walter Perham was elected moderator.

The warrant contained 15 articles and of that number four were dismissed and one was defeated. Article one, calling for an appropriation of $188.28 for the payment of bills of the school department, was adopted. The sum of $1200 was voted as an additional appropriation for the vocational school, the original amount asked being $2442.73. The sum of $26.83 was voted to pay outstanding bills of the fire department.

For the purchase of arsenate of lead for the moth department the sum of $500 was voted. The article calling for an appropriation of $1200 for the purchase of gravel for raising the grade of the street car tracks, was carried. The sum of $5000 was voted for the construction of the Great road, this being one-third of the expense, the balance to be borne by the commonwealth and the county. Article seven calling for an appropriation of $4000 for the purchase of a motor truck for the highway department, was defeated.

The following committee was appointed to act with the selectmen to investigate and report later as to the advisability of a water system for the whole town. For the installation of electric lights in the East Chelmsford school the sum of $75 was voted. The transportation charges of the assessors amounting to $150 were ordered paid and the sum of $50 was voted for constructing a walk at the South Row school house.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

The much-discussed and long-looked-for bout between Phiney Boyle and Young George Gardner for the lightweight championship of Lowell will be staged tonight at the Crescent rink under the auspices of the Moody A.C.

This will mark the first local championship bout in many years and naturally the friends and supporters of both boys are all "hot up" over the fight. Boyle has been performing before local fans a great many years. He has had his ups and downs, meeting and defeating some of the best lightweight in his section, and also suffering defeat at the hands of many others. He's a remarkable boxer when right, but a wondrous workman when wrong. His backers and handlers aver that he's "on high" for tonight and they look to see him breeze through the winner.

Young Gardner, nephew of the famous George Jimmy and Billy, is much younger than Boyle. He has been boxing for a number of years, however, and while he lacks the actual ring experience of Boyle, he has picked up much knowledge of the game from his uncles and has been in training since. He has trained with many high class boxers, including Jack Malone, Eddie Shevlin, Willie Corbett, and others, and has been coached and instructed by the Gardner brothers and Joe Thomas. He is also in a very good position to win, as he has a very good natural ability, and he should attain much success in the profession.

Gardner and Boyle finished their training yesterday while tonight's bout is at catch weights, both are reported to be close to the lightweight limit.

The other bouts on tonight's program are: Kid Desrochers vs. Frankie Johnson, Benny O'Neil vs. Tommy Lane, and Eddie Moriarty vs. Young Ketchell.

"Billy" McMahon, who played second base for the C.M.A.C. in the Twilight league last season, is far removed from local diamond activities.

Thirty-two cars are entered for the tenth annual 500-mile international sweepstakes on the Indianapolis motor speedway May 30. The field is the largest since engines not exceeding 153 cubic inches piston displacement became the rule.

Of the winners of the nine past years the Indianapolis track three have retired from the sport, one is dead, and the fifth, Rene Thomas, was unable to complete his plans to bring over a French car this year. The remaining four are entered again. They are Ralph de Palma, Howard Wilcox, Tommy Milton and Jules Goux.

de Palma, who won in 1915, after two trials with a Buick, is now to drive a Duesenberg Straight-Eight. Wilcox pins his faith to a Peugeot, which he won in 1913. Milton, the victor a year ago with a Chevrolet Frontenac-Eight, has had a car built in Los Angeles, not yet named. Goux, winner in 1916, has entered two Buicks. He will drive one himself but has not yet picked a teammate.

Among other notable entrants are W. Douglas Hawkes, who will pilot the first Bentley car ever brought from England for an American race; Jimmy Murphy, who won the 1921 French Grand Prix, despite two broken ribs; Roscoe Sartin, last year's Indianapolis runner-up; Jack Currier and Glenn Howard, who will drive the first flyovers ever entered in the world's greatest auto race; I. P. Peterman, winner of the stock car races at Uniontown, and Eddie Hearne and Ralph Milton, veterans of the first race ever run over the Hoosier speedway and, in the case of Milton, like Wilcox, a participant in every contest on the same track since then.

The cars entered are seven more in number than a year ago, when Milton came within 22 of a second of equalling the track average of 58.81 miles an hour, established by de Palma in 1915 with a much larger engine. In the past 11 months the drivers have managed to increase their car's speed by 10 miles an hour, and many predictions are made that this year's winner will set a record.

The prizes aggregate $100,000, of which the track offers $50,000 in gold.

WHY KEN WILLIAMS, HOME RUN HITTER, CHANGED HIS STYLE

Season's Leading Swatter Used to Aim at Certain Fields—Present Idea Is to Hit Out of Them

BY KEN WILLIAMS

One of the things that has helped considerably in my home-run making is the fact that I have altered my style at the plate.

Up to last year I always tried to hit to all fields. Last season I would go for a stretch of games always taking a free swing, and if unable to make home run I would hit back to my style of trying to hit to all fields.

My Cobb, Tris Speaker, George Staller and Eddie Collins are left-handed sluggers. They hit the ball hard, usually on the line, but never get the distance that Ruth puts into his swing.

HIT TO ALL FIELDS

Yet I seriously doubt if it would be possible to get four more scientific hitters than the quartet I have mentioned. Cobb, Speaker, Staller and Collins hit to all fields.

The general impression among the fans is that left-handed batters are dead right-field hitters. That may be true with the slugger type, but it doesn't hold good for the scientific type.

Batters like Collins, Cobb, Staller and Speaker hit balls on the outside harder than do a majority of the right-handed hitters. This is due to a keen eye and the proper timing of the ball. When a ball is pitched inside to them they can pull it equally hard to right field.

Not a Home-Run Style

Until the season of 1921 I tried to follow along the lines I have mentioned, hitting to all fields, according to the style of pitching that I was called upon to face.

That style of hitting, however, does not make for home runs. Hitting home runs is not a scientific feat. It is good judgment and proper timing of pitching, plus brute strength.

To make home runs you must take a healthy swing and proper timing of the ball. That is what I am doing this year and why I am getting home runs. My purpose is not to try to hit to certain fields; rather to hit it out of the field.

"Burr; go ahead!" New York fans will hold their breath.

Ruth and Meusel have been practicing from 1920 to 1921, every morning at the Polo grounds, a great pitcher and a great of ambitious fielders have kept an grating murmur out toward the fences, making the workout snappy.

Each morning the exiles began by playing "base" tossing the ball to each other. They then go for a bit of chasing fungo flies. But the emphasis was on the batting.

CONTROL IS PITCHER'S GREATEST ASSET

BY BILLY EVANS

I have often asked some of the game's greatest pitchers what they regarded as their most valuable asset. The reply has always been the same—control.

Mathewson had a great fadeaway, a fine curve and a wonderful fast ball. Yet batters who have faced Mathewson will tell you that he wasn't a hard man to hit except in a pinch.

With the bases empty, Mathewson always had over the plate, and you had to take your swing, or listen to the constant calling of strikes. Mathewson was almost unhit-able. He always had something in reserve.

Some ten years ago I worked an intricate series in which Mathewson struck out 14 men. His fadeaway was breaking perfectly that day, and when he used his fast ball he always seemed to have the opposition crossed up.

Had Great Control

That evening in conversation with Mathewson I remarked that he had shown me more stuff than I had seen in a long time. I don't believe I ever will forget his answer.

"Yes, I surely had great control today," he replied. "I was able to place that ball just where I wanted it."

Mathewson attributed his great pitching to his remarkable control rather than to his deceptive fadeaway and puzzling fast ball.

I have discussed pitching with Rubo Waddell, Cy Young, Chief Bender, Ed Walsh, Grover Alexander, Minor League, and many of the other great pitchers, and with them the question of control was always uppermost.

Case of Ed Walsh

Take the case of Ed Walsh for instance. Walsh was a spitball pitcher. There have been many spitball pitchers with just as good a splitter as Walsh, yet none has met with anything like the success that smiled on the former White Sox star.

Last winter at the meeting of the two major leagues in New York I bumped into Walsh, who, by the way, is now doing very well as an umpire. We were talking over some of the great games that he had pitched. Someone remarked that Walsh's spitball was a great pitcher's asset.

"My spitball was the regular sort, but I could control it. When I was pitching to a batter I never saw any part of him except his knees. My one aim was to break my splitter at his knee."

Hard to Hit

"No spitball can be hit very successfully if broken at the knee. The ball is breaking down and the batsman

N. E. INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES

WORCESTER, May 18.—Whether Massachusetts Institute of Technology, after an erratic preliminary season, can accomplish a sixth consecutive victory over a dozen other colleges in the events of track and field will be largely decided in the preliminary events today of the 36th annual New England intercollegiate championship games. They will be held on the grounds of Worcester Polytechnic institute late this afternoon, the meeting returning to this city after an absence of about 15 years.

Victory is agreed lies between the engineers and the team of Boston college, which last week won the Eastern intercollegiate title at Springfield, Brown, Bowdoin, Williams, Wesleyan, Amherst and Bates went to the final events of this conference, teams including many athletes of qualifying caliber.

Teams representing New Hampshire State, Colby, Boston University, Maine, Holy Cross and Vermont were also represented.

More than 515 entries have been made, the largest number in the history of the association.

These entries include seven of last year's champions, who, in several instances, are considered certain to be hard pressed to retain their laurels.

Tech has lost from last year's team, six veterans, who were responsible for 33 of the 46 points that brought them victory.

Skies were overcast today, but it was expected that the weather would clear in time for the preliminary events of the late afternoon and for the finals tomorrow.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP Here's Your Decision

With runners on second and third and one man out, the batsman hits a long fly to left field. The runner on third believes it will be caught and holds his base. The runner on second finally makes up his mind that the ball will not be caught and dashes for third. The ball is caught and the runner who failed to hold second is not set back, retreating the slide. In the meantime the runner on third who held his base has crossed the plate before the third out is made. The query of course is always the same. Does the runner count? It most certainly does. If the runner on third who held his base has crossed the plate before the third out is made. The query of third out is made.

WHEN YOU SCORE A BALL GAME REMEMBER—

If a base runner is called out for running out of line or for interference, assists should be credited to every player who handled the ball prior to the umpire ruling out. Only one assist is given each player no matter how often he handles the ball.

DRESSSEL CALLS ON PRES. HARDING

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Ellis Loring Dressell, formerly American commissioner and charge d'affaires at Berlin, paid President Harding an informal call prior to departing for his home in Boston yesterday. Although the White House has made known that it would like to have Mr. Dressell accept a diplomatic post because of his service in Germany in negotiating the American-German peace treaty, he stated that he does not expect to serve further in a diplomatic capacity.

Mr. Dressell has been in Washington several days. He luncheon and discussed German affairs with Secretary Hughes and Under-Secretary of State Phillips Wednesday and explained yesterday that this is his first real visit home in seven years. He has not decided whether or not he will accept a full report on his advice in Germany, since he has been reporting to the state department at regular intervals.

ONLY ONE MAJOR GAME YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, May 19.—Dizzy Veece's chaves and Dutch Ruether's pinch hitting prowess enabled the Senators of Brooklyn to defeat the Cardinals of St. Louis, 7 to 5, yesterday in the only major league game untouched by rain.

The release of Howard Berry to the Indianapolis American Association club left the Princeton nine, otherwise Harvard's entries are virtually the same as those that defeated Yale last week.

LOWELL KENNEL CLUB

In connection with the dog show of the Lowell Kennel club, which will be held at the Crescent rink on May 30, the committee announces four special classes for all breeds of puppies. One class will be for puppies up to three months of age, a second from three to six months, a third from six to nine months, and a fourth from nine to 12 months. The entry list is now open.

Mrs. Margaret Hmank, 107-year-old colored woman of Philadelphia, is probably the oldest woman voter in the country.

This picture shows the completion of the powerful swing that Williams takes at the ball. It shows how the player who gets distance to his drives has the same follow through as used by the golfer. The stance of Williams in this picture is as interesting as the others. It will be noted in all the pictures that a proper stance and follow through are most necessary to success.

RUTH EXPECTED BACK TOMORROW

All That is Necessary is Wire From Judge Landis Saying "Go to It"

Suspension of "Babe" and Bob Meusel Expires Tomorrow

NEW YORK, May 19.—If the sun shines tomorrow and the telephone wires between New York and Chicago don't break down just before midnight tonight, Babe Ruth will be trying to hit his first home run of the championship season when the game between the Yankees and the St. Louis Browns gets under way at the Polo grounds.

Many a Manhattan heart is a-quiver today as hour piles upon hour stretching time toward the mystic midnight when a sleep-eyed messenger boy will amble out of the Yankee clubhouse with a message addressed to Commissioner Kenesaw S. Landis, respectfully asking if Ruth and Bob Meusel, who was suspended with him, can be reinstated after their six weeks' exile.

From the moment the last leaves the office until another returns with a reply from Chicago, saying briefly:

PREPARING REVISED HARVARD CREW

CAMBRIDGE, May 19.—In an effort to prepare the revised Harvard varsity crew for the race with Cornell next week, George S. Munford, a former varsity oarsman and coach, and now a member of the advisory committee on rowing, has been called upon to assist Coach Herber Howe, supervisor of rowing.

Munford has been given charge of the afternoon workouts and races with special attention to elimination defects in co-operation between oarsmen.

TAIRFF ISSUE IN FALL SAYS UNDERWOOD

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Asserting that senate republicans or most of them, had decided to accept the pending tariff bill as reported by the finance committee, Senator Underwood of Alabama, the democratic leader, declared today in the senate that he wanted the record on this measure so clear that this would be the issue in the fall campaign and that the people could pass judgment on the bill.

"They (the republicans) are not going to consider the various items as presented," Senator Underwood said, "and the only jury to which we (the democrats) can appeal is the jury that must pay the taxes."

He was discussing a paragraph in the bill dealing with duties on pigments for paints. He said this was one of the items that the people could understand and that it could be made clear that the only purpose was to "build up a tariff wall to increase the profits of the producers."

"It has been stated repeatedly here in the debate on this bill that the taxes on the various items in this chemical schedule were so small that the people would not feel them. This tax does come home to the people. It comes to the home itself."

Duties Unjustified
He said the duties proposed could not be justified from a standpoint of revenue or because the industry could not exist without them as the producers had prospered under much lower rates. He called attention to the 1920 exports of finished paints amounting to $2,000,000 while imports totaled only $2,000,000 and added:

"I suppose the doubling of the tax is to keep that $2,000,000 out entirely." The pigments under discussion were crude ores and oxides. The committee rate of one-eighth of a cent a pound on the crude was approved and in defending this rate Senator Underwood said it was half of that in the house bill and in the Payne-Aldrich law. On some crude ores, he said, the duty was less than the Underwood rates.

Discussing the 20 per cent duty on oxides, which was approved by the senate, Senator Underwood said a large per cent of paint contained linseed oil and that the farmers of North Dakota producing linseed held that a high tariff was absolutely necessary to protect them. The Utah senator pointed out that the committee rate was one-third less than the Payne-Aldrich rate and that a linseed oil differential was involved.

20 Percent on Oxides
Senator Underwood said the question of linseed oil should be taken care of in the paint and not in the oxide schedule and that the linseed oil content could not be justly considered rates on oxides.

The committee originally recommended a duty of 25 per cent, but receded from its amendment, allowing the house rate of 20 per cent, to stand after the senate voted down an amendment by Senator Underwood to continue the present law rate of 10 per cent. Previously the senate had approved rates on various other color pigments. The committee proposal for a 25 per cent rate on varnish was the subject of an attack by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, who also criticized the votes on paint and said it appeared that the senate agricultural tariff bloc was in a "dent" to support the committee rates generally in exchange for protection on agricultural products. "I have been wondering about the farm bloc," he added. "We've been dealing in products the farmer needs and have been increasing the tariff on every one. Where, O, where is the farm bloc?"

Noting the presence of but a few senators, Mr. Norris added that absent senators "appeared to come in blindly and vote increases that we know are increasing the expense the common people must pay."

"I can't explain it any other way," he added. "There must be some understanding. It is not fair. A bill built on that kind of a bargain is its own death. Some senators are going out this fall before the farming communities and will not be able to defend the votes they have cast today."

Varnish Rate 25 Percent
Replying to Senator Norris, Senator McCumber, republican, of North Dakota, in charge of the bill, said it might be there were no importations of varnishes now but that the bill was framed to be effective for a number of years. He denied that there would be an increase of 25 per cent in the varnish because of the 25 per cent duties proposed.

With respect to the effect of the proposed tariff on farmers, Senator McCumber said the agriculturists in this state had not asked that everything they need be admitted duty free, but only that they have equal protection with other industries.

An amendment by Senator Norris to make the duty on varnishes 10 per cent instead of 25 percent was rejected on a rollcall, 17 to 42. The committee rate of 25 percent then was disagreed to on recommendation of Senator McCumber, and the house rate of 25 percent was approved.

Also, at the request of the committee, the senate disagreed to the committee rate of 35 cents per gallon and 35 percent ad valorem on spirit varnishes containing 5 percent or more of methyl alcohol, leaving the rate on this at 25 percent ad valorem, as proposed by the house.

Thousands of women built the Fortress Crawford

OF course it was actually designed and cast and put together in "the finest stove factory in the world" — the plant of Walker & Pratt at Watertown.

But thousands of women built it — housewives like yourself, and like the one in the picture.

Whenever they cooked a meal they helped build it.

Whenever a woman wished she could control her kitchen range with a single damper, whenever she wished she could hide the coal and ash hods, whenever the coal range was too hot in summer, and she wished she had a gas range too — whenever she discovered an improvement in baking and broiling and roasting and boiling, she helped plan the Fortress Crawford.

The Crawford Factory tested all her suggestions. There are 200,000 Crawfords in New England, giving good service, so you see there were a lot of ideas.

And the Fortress is the result: for coal only or with gas, single damper control, marvelous heat-circulation, concealed hods, protected gas-cocks, every possible detailed improvement that could cut down your time in the kitchen.

Come in and see it, and let us help you help yourself with a new Fortress in your kitchen.

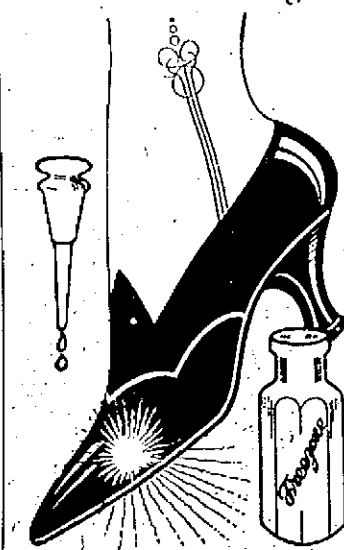

A. E. O'HEIR & CO., 15 Hurd St., Lowell, Mass. carry all sizes and styles of Crawford Ranges in stock and sell them for cash or will arrange terms to suit you.

N. E. Ex-Service Men Suffering From Nervous Diseases, Says Blake

BOSTON, May 18.—Fourteen thousand New England foreign service men are suffering from nervous diseases as a result of their war experiences, and 60 new cases are being sent to the hospital each month, Captain William J. Blake, acting director of the New England district of the veterans' bureau, told the New England division of the American Red Cross at its spring conference today.

Captain Blake said many of the neuroathetic cases were traceable to poison gases and many medical men who formerly thought the gases principally affected the lungs now considered that they were causing delayed injurious action on the spinal cord and brain cells.

Neuroasthenia is increasing, said Captain Blake and the full effect of the war in the form of nervous diseases will not be felt until 1926.

RULES SWEET CHOCOLATE CANDY AND NOT FOOD

BOSTON, May 18.—Sweet chocolate is candy and not food, according to a decision given today by the United States circuit court of appeals.

The court reversed the ruling of Judge Morton in the federal district court. The suit was brought by the Walter Baker Co. of this city against John F. Malley, former internal revenue collector, to recover $55,222, which the company had paid under protest, on the internal revenue decree that sweet chocolate was candy. Judge Morton held that as sweet chocolate contained both sugar and chocolate it came within the class of a food. "When the treasury department appealed the case,"

Circuit Judge Anderson, who wrote the appellate court opinion, says that not only must the ingredients composing the product be taken into consideration but that the internal revenue had when it imposed the candy tax should be reckoned with its conclusions. "The distinction turns not so much on the composition of the article as on the way or form in which it is sold and upon the use made of it by purchasers."

5000 Bombard Dry Agents Who Swooped Down on Baltimore Saloon

BALTIMORE, May 18.—Several thousand persons crowded the streets around "Joe" Kelley's saloon in this city for six hours last night, bombarded dry officials with bricks and upset a large section of Baltimore before the saloon was cleared of two truckloads of liquor.

The crowd, which at one time numbered 5000 persons, persisted in harassing the dry raiders. Calls for the fire apparatus and numerous taxicabs were sent by persons determined to hinder the raid.

It was not until nearly midnight that the dry raiders succeeded in driving away with the two trucks of contraband.

BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT WIRE DESPATCHES

NEWARK, N. J., May 18.—Federal Judge Holland today signed an order directing the Emergency Fleet Corporation of the United States, operating board and the Green Star Ship Co. to show cause at Trenton, Monday, why the steamships Maine, Woonsocket and Sagadahoc, should not be sold to the National City Bank of New York.

PORTLAND, Me., May 18.—Eight members of a joyous wedding party are at the Maine General hospital, two of them dangerously injured, as a result of an automobile in which they were riding to the station to bid farewell to the bride couple, colliding with a street car. PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 18.—Settlement out of court in the case of Edward T. Bannon, New Bedford, Mass., lawyer, against Charles J. Manchester, Jr., of this city and Auburn, based upon the plaintiff's contention that he had been defrauded in a gambling house said to have been operated by the defendant was announced today by counsel for both sides. The suit was brought in United States district court for $75,000 damages.

CONVICTION OF HOLMES AND WESTON STANDS

BOSTON, May 18.—The full bench of the supreme court today ratified a superior court decision declaring Robert D. Weston and Hector M. Holmes guilty of receiving papers stolen from the law office of Daniel H. Coakley.

Several weeks ago the court overruled exceptions of the defendants, and a rehearing has been requested. In a letter to Chief Justice Rugg, Edward C. McEwen, counsel for the defense, asserted that the court's opinion was in conflict with a decision of its own made in January, 1919. The opinion, written by Judge Janney, made no change in the verdict previously reached, but said that although Judge Fessenden erred in not instructing the jurors to cast aside in their deliberation improper considerations that had been presented to them, the defendants nevertheless were not entitled to a new trial because no error in law had arisen.

CITY OF LOWELL.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
In City Council.

ORDER.

To appropriate the sum of Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($25,000) for the purpose of construction of macadam pavement or other road material, under specifications approved by the Massachusetts Highway Commission, in the City of Lowell, and to provide the amount necessary to meet said appropriation a city debt is hereby authorized, and the City Treasurer is hereby empowered and directed to issue therefor under authority of and in compliance with Chapter 44, General Laws, coupon bonds or certificates of indebtedness in exchange for any and every determining, denominated on their face "City of Lowell Macadam Additional Loan, 1922," to the amount of Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($25,000), payable by such annual payments and bearing such rate of interest as may be fixed by the City Treasurer with the approval of the Mayor. Other particulars as to the form, issuance and sale of said bonds shall be determined by the City Treasurer.

FURTHER ORDERED: That the City Treasurer shall issue registered certificates in exchange for any and every coupon bond, in compliance with the provisions of Chapter 44, General Laws, Chapter 107, and the City Treasurer shall in addition thereto.

By order of the City Council,
STEPHEN FLYNN, Clerk.

BAR NEW POLITICAL PARTIES IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, May 18.—No new political parties can be legalized in Russia for a number of years and the communist party must continue to keep its ranks closed except in those strictly sympathetic to the government, said the author of Lenin's biography. He is a fiery revolutionary crusader and in the soviet regime has been dictator of Petrograd.

"Our party has the monopoly of legality," he said. "The danger of this monopoly is that a number of people are getting into the party who would go into the petty bourgeoisie parties if such existed."

"They are not coming into the party with bad intentions, and are honest enough but living in bourgeois views. They are an active part of the population who like to participate in the economic and political life of the country. We shall surely be the monopolists of the legality of any party in this country for a number of years to come."

M. Zinoviev said it would be difficult to clear out this element of the party but, as the labor class must "do in" the bourgeoisie, the party's difficulties are not how great, in restoring Russia, should not permit any undue measures that would lead to the restoration of the Menshevik or other bourgeoisie.

More serious attention must also be paid to the press. Mr. Zinoviev declared, as the bourgeoisie writers are trying to get an independent press and, even journalists, registered as employees of the newspapers, now permitted to operate (all government controlled) are mostly of the old, intelligent class.

FIREMEN RISK LIVES IN FIGHTING BLAZE

BOSTON, May 19.—For a short time last night firemen, fighting a fire on the fourth floor of the building at 49 Fulton street, in the wholesale grocery district, occupied by the Beakon Grocery company, were placed in a dangerous position when flames shooting out of a window practically enveloped the ladder from which they were directing a line of hose. The firemen were attached to Engine 4, quartered in Bulfinch street.

Despite the intense heat, together with the all but suffocating smoke which poured out, they held the position and kept the fire within bounds until lines were placed in operation at the rear of the building from fire escapes, and on the front from a deck run.

District Chief Cornelius J. O'Brien, who was in charge of the fire, complimented the members of the company for their work and stated that only their gameness in sticking to the line under the conditions prevented the fire from curling outward and up the floors of the concern.

For a time the fire was a dangerous one and it was only through fire skill and the bravery of the firemen that it was kept under control.

The damage from the fire will be several thousands of dollars. An exact estimate was not possible at the time. Considerable damage was done by smoke and water, although Chief O'Brien stopped his men in the outside fighting and had lines brought into the building to fight the fires at close quarters, when such a course was possible.

No cause could be assigned last night.

Entertainment numbers were given and refreshments were served.

Garfield Relief Corps
The regular meeting of James A. Garfield Women's Relief Corps, 33, was held last evening with President Alice Schofield in the chair. Routine business was transacted and the members were invited to attend the supper of the corps on Memorial day, which will be given for the corps and post members and their families. The meeting was brought to a close with a salute to the flag. In the afternoon whist was played and at 5 o'clock supper was served. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Myrick.

THE NEW INDUSTRIAL CENSUS PLAN

CHICAGO, Ill., May 19.—That the present industrial census plan does not permit of accurate comparisons of import was asserted in a draft of a new plan which the Illinois Manufacturers' association has presented to Secretary Hoover.

"A mere examination of statistics of imports for 1920 and 1921," it was asserted in a report from the association, "shows numerous cases where the units of quantity have doubled and the monetary comparison shows a decrease in trade. In some cases the variation has been as much as 200 per cent." The new plan, it is represented, "will take the tariff out of the realm of guesswork and produce," besides giving the United States government in case of war essential information on industrial resources which it does not now possess. The association maintains that "census statistics of manufacture can be made of enormous value to America's industries at practically no increase of cost."

The plan is "premised on the theory that the dollar is not the correct unit to employ," as a measuring index "to gauge all industry's vital trade statistics." It is recommended that statistics be based on quantity of production as the primary unit—pounds, yards, gallons or pairs, for example—with dollars as supplementary information.

Another measure of an industry's output in time of national defense, according to the recommendations, is the number of key machines operated. By key machine is meant the machine used in industry more than any other, as the furnace in a glass factory or the kiln in a pottery.

The plan was evolved by George R. Meyer, chairman of the census committee of the association, and was unanimously approved by the board of directors. Mr. Meyer has discussed the plan with Assistant Secretary of Commerce C. H. Houston and Thomas O. Marvin, chairman of the tariff commission. The recommendations have also been submitted to Chairman Martin B. Madden of the house committee on appropriations, to the members of the house committee on ways and means and to the senate committee on finance.

PLAN TO GIVE FARMS UNEMPLOYED

STOCKHOLM, May 19.—Before long the Swedish unemployed may have a chance to become independent farmers. When they recently expressed the desire to obtain small farms of their own where they might work till old age without being subjected to enforced idleness, their request sounded at first like wishing for the moon.

But not so to the ministers of agriculture, who immediately ordered an investigation into the possibilities of forming a farm colony in the province of Scania. If the plan is found feasible the government may purchase land to be parceled among the unemployed. The project would, of course, involve more than acquiring the land. The government will have to build cottages on the farms, and supply its indigent citizens with livestock, farm implements and living expenses for the first year.

The farm project is one of the most important and interesting of many attempts for relieving the unemployment troubles of the country. Last winter several thousand jobless were given instruction in almost any branch of learning in which they were interested. Large appropriations were set aside for doles and for public works at which the otherwise unemployed would be able to earn a living, and it was hoped that conditions would soon become better. Nevertheless, unemployment is still the most serious problem of Sweden despite a slight decrease in the number of idle.

The jobless still number more than 150,000, of whom about 55,000 receive aid. This number is higher than was expected and in order to keep within the budget, the unemployment commission and the government have had to cancel during the summer unemployment aid to unmarried men and women, all farm workers and fish-men. It is believed that these classes can shift for themselves during the summer and pick up enough work to keep them going. Married men with families still draw stipends, while relief work of all kinds is being planned. The unemployment commission is laying plans for extensive forest work in co-operation with the forestry board and the state domains department. Furthermore, about $200,000 has been diverted from the unemployment fund for buying paving stones to be placed at the disposal, free of cost, of certain towns and highway boards for the improvement of streets and roads, thus affording employment to considerable numbers.

CITY COUNCIL

HOLDS MEETING

Opposition to Gasoline Filling Station Opposite Edison Cemetery Entrance

No Action Taken on Nominations of Albert F. Hogue or William F. McGreevey

The city council last night confined itself strictly to routine business, although at times it was of such a nature as to lift the proceedings slightly above the routine class. A hearing on a petition to establish a gasoline filling station opposite the entrance to the Edison cemetery brought out several remonstrants, including the board of cemetery commissioners and one or two other matters were spiced up to enliven the session.

No action was taken on either the nomination of Albert F. Hogue for purchasing agent, or William F. McGreevey for inspector of wires, and no new nominations were forthcoming from the office of the mayor. Also, there were no signs of any orders designed to transfer money from surplus overlay accounts to appropriations for auditorium, or to pay the salary of the registrar of the employment bureau, or to extend the White Way lighting system in Gorham street.

Representatives of the school department and the high school building commission asked that cognizance be taken of the interior condition of the older high school building, which is in need of repair in many respects.

The council was called to order at 8:25 o'clock by Pres. Patrick J. Haggerty. Assistant Clerk William J. McCarthy handled the business in the absence of Clerk Stephen Flynn. Councilors Gonest and Sadler were not present at roll call. Both came in later.

Chairman James H. Riley of the school committee, Supt. Hugh J. Molloy and Dr. Lambert and Dr. Lamoureux of the high school building commission were present in the interests of a proposition to renovate the old high school building.

Chairman Riley said that next fall the splendid new building will be open for use and it is desired to have the interior condition of the old building compare somewhat favorably with the new.

Mr. Riley suggested that the councilors make some arrangement whereby an inspection of the old building might be made, to allow the body to obtain information of what needs to be done at first hand.

Work That is Needed

Supt. Molloy stated that the work necessary does not bulk large in dollars and cents. He expressed the thought that if the ceilings are redecorated, the woodwork and stucco renewed that it would be all the work necessary.

Chairman of the building commission spoke along similar lines. The matter was referred to the special committee on public property and the city solicitor.

Hearing on Gas Station

A hearing was held on the petition of Daniel Shea for a gasoline filling station at Gorham and Carlisle streets.

Hon. James E. O'Donnell appeared for the petitioner and said that he desired to hear any remonstrants to the petition and reserve the right to enter an appeal later if desired.

The first speaker was William H. Rigby, chairman of the board of cemetery commissioners. He stated that he represented his board and many lot owners as well. There is nothing meretricious in the board's position in the matter, said Mr. Rigby, and added that the same opposition would develop no matter what building or business was planned for the corner in question.

Take Land For Square

Mr. Rigby put forth the proposition that the city acquire the triangular lot of land and make of it a public park or square. He added that it would be an admirable square to name in honor of a Lowell boy from that neighborhood who was killed in the world war.

Michael Stack spoke on a remonstrant and said that he believed another gasoline station there would make a blind and dangerous corner. He spoke of the great amount of motor traffic that passes the place in question.

Attorney O'Donnell questioned Mr. Stack and brought out the fact that the latter had operated a store at the corner and within a week has opened a gasoline filling station.

Charles B. Anderson appeared for his father, who owns property in Gorham street opposite the corner and the proposed location of the gasoline station. He stated that he did not appear as a remonstrant, but more to urge the acquisition of the plot by the city.

Mr. O'Donnell asked that no definite action be taken on the petition at the present meeting.

Mr. Rigby said that a park at the spot is not to be seriously thought of inasmuch as it would not be large enough, but that it would be a place to be paved and properly designated.

Councilor McMahon said that he did not favor the petition and is in favor of expanding the city's park and square system as much as possible.

Councilors Adams, Sadler and Gallagher spoke on the matter and each expressed the desire to have all the councilors view the spot before voting on the petition.

On motion of Councilor Gallagher it was voted that this view be taken next Tuesday afternoon.

Objection to New Pole

At a hearing on a petition of the Lowell Electric Light Corp. for a pole in Myrtle street, between Park and Myrtle streets, William A. Hogan appeared for Mrs. Agnes Campbell of 21 Myrtle street, who claimed that the proposed pole would stand directly in front

EXHIBITION AT Y. M. C. A.

Annual Demonstration Last Night of the Physical Department of the Y.W.C.A.

The annual demonstration of the physical department of the Young Women's Christian association was held last night in the Y.M.C.A. and, according to the spectators who have witnessed past performances, the exhibition was one of the best in the history of the association. The crowd packed into every available seat, while a great many spectators were forced to stand.

Generally this annual demonstration means the closing of the gymnastic work at the Y.W.C.A. but this year the activities will be extended until June 10 when the combined associations of New England will hold a big track meet in Cambridge.

Miss Mildred MacIntyre, who took charge of the local gymnastics work this year, surely deserves a great deal of credit for the fine exhibitions of the several different classes. Miss MacIntyre was presented a silver whistle.

Miss Dorothy Leach, the association's pianist, was presented a large bouquet of carnations.

The participants included little tots whose ages ranged from 5 years upward and in fact the work of these children was one of the features of the carnival. Every number on the program was worthy of commendation, but some were better than others. "Two numbers which showed a great deal of training were the dumbbell drill, by the Tuesday class and the Indian club drill by the Monday class.

The program opened with a Portland fancy by the adult classes. This folk dance expressed the joy of activity for its own sake and the love of co-operation with others in these exercises of rhythmic beauty. The following number was "mimetic" by a class of children.

The children also took part in a ribbon dance which contained many intricate steps that were well executed. The Tuesday class furnished its dumbbell drill and made the entire team make the slightest slip.

A shuttle relay and a dumbbell relay were put on by members from all classes and showed just how the girls amuse themselves when not restricted by physical exercises. The next number included three dances. "Circles" was portrayed by seven little tots, while a jockey dance was demonstrated by 12 older girls, members of the high school class. "Circles" was a Russian Cossack dance.

The members of the Monday class, by the way, were given a class. This was greeted by a storm of applause which lasted long after the girls had left the floor. A drill was also highly commended.

Apparatus work on the horizontal bars and Swedish horse were given by both members of the junior and adult classes. A series of dances were well executed by Anna Hebert, Alice Burrill, Alice O'Brien, Marion Curtin, Norma Clark, Edwina, Clara Mallon, Ceila Kelley, Miss Taylor, Bertha Choquette and Elizabeth Joyce.

The final number included a march around the building by the association song "Pack Up Your Troubles." The presentations followed with the Misses MacIntyre and Leach surrounded by all classes.

of her premises. Mr. Hogan asked that the petition be given leave to withdraw. The petition was referred to the inspector of wires and the city solicitor.

A hearing was held on the petition of the Lowell Electric Light Corp. for a pole in Myrtle street, between Park and Myrtle streets, William A. Hogan appeared for Mrs. Agnes Campbell of 21 Myrtle street, who claimed that the proposed pole would stand directly in front

The council passed the following orders, renaming squares and street intersections in honor of Lowell boys who were killed in the world war. That the city acquire the triangular lot of land and make of it a public park or square. He added that it would be an admirable square to name in honor of a Lowell boy from that neighborhood who was killed in the world war.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Judge Decides In Favor of Counsel Following Dispute Over Liquor Case

After being refused a further continuance of a hearing on a liquor case by Captain George Palmer, head of the liquor and vice squad, Attorney William A. Hogan, counsel for Demetrius Pappasostas, appealed to Judge Thomas J. Keene for his decision on the case this morning. His request was granted. In making the appeal, Attorney Hogan flayed the captain and his workers in no light manner. He said that in his 30 years of practice he had not met with such treatment. He also said that the fact that the liquor squad has "tasted blood" it is ready for the killing.

When called to the bench by Judge Keene, and asked why he did not want to continue the case, Captain Pappasostas said that Pappasostas had attempted to make the liquor squad laughing stock of the city.

The case on which Attorney Hogan asked for continuance is one which has twice been continued and is the result of a raid made several weeks ago. Other continuances were requested owing to the fact that the defendant had a case pending in the superior court. The superior court found Pappasostas guilty last Wednesday.

Attorney Hogan said this morning that he had been in Cambridge working on the other case, that he had no time to prepare for the present case and that was the main reason why he was asking to have it pushed back on the court list. May 25 was the date finally set for trial.

Troubles of Stephen

Stephen Duranleau caused more or less trouble in the court room while testifying in his own defense, to the charge of non-support brought by his wife. He said that on one occasion he had given his wife $1.50 with which to buy some clothing for their four children. He averred that the wife later returned with two cheap pairs of stockings, some other small articles and a large jar of "vanishing cream".

The court asked why some way couldn't be devised to divide the money among the pair so as to have things run smoothly. Stephen then said that he had tried nearly every method. He cited the instance of the woman whom he brought home his evening gown and gave the entire amount to his frau. Then, he alleged, that he was severely called down because he appropriated a thin dime for his own personal use. And to further show how he was being misused he claimed that he did not work yesterday, but went home and told his wife to take the afternoon off and stay at home. This enjoyment, according to Stephen, consisted of a trip to the clerk of court's office where a warrant for non-support was obtained against him. The case was continued for two weeks. In the meantime the probation officer will attempt to use his influence to induce the couple to make up their minds.

Other Offenders

Thomas Garland, who made his fourth appearance for drunkenness within one year, was sentenced to serve one month in the house of correction. The sentence was suspended for one year. The court told Garland that it was his last chance and that he was saved from a direct sentence this time only by the intervention of his employer. The court made it plain that even his employer would be unable to save him the next time.

Robert Anderson, charged with four counts of larceny by means of passing worthless checks on the Old Lowell National bank, pleaded guilty to the offense. His sentence was suspended for one week. The dates and amounts of the checks are as follows: May 12, $10; May 13, $15; May 15, $25; May 16, $20.

FIRE DEPT. BASEBALL TEAM

The Lowell fire department second shift baseball team was organized this morning at a meeting of players held at the Central fire station with Manager William F. Christie in the chair.

Although Mr. Christie had signified his intention of not being a candidate for the position of manager, the players insisted that he assume charge of the organization and he finally consented. Peter Reagan was re-elected captain and the team was made up of the following players: Frank Donnelly, Jack Hurley, A. Symonds, J. Thomas, Stephen Callahan, Daniel O'Connor, John Gray, Joseph Reilly, Warren White, Paul Healy, Bartholomew Mullin, Eddie Farrell, Frank Gray, David L. Brown, Edward Tigher, R. R. Williams, Corbett, B. Brown, George Crawford, William Chalm and M. Gorman.

It was announced that the team will be given a try-out on the South common some day next week. Several requests for games have been received from fire and police department teams in various parts of the state and New Hampshire and they were all referred to the manager.

CONTRACT FOR SHEET ASPHALT

Public Service Board Recommends Contract Be Given Keene, N. H., Firm

Thomas & Murphy Will Do Work at Cost of $1.65 per Square Yard

If Mayor George H. Brown carries out the recommendation of the board of public service, this year's contract to supply the city with sheet asphalt and asphaltic concrete, will be awarded to the firm of Thomas & Murphy of Keene, N. H., who have moved to do the work at a cost of $1.65 per square yard.

This recommendation was made by the board late yesterday to the mayor after it had discussed the matter at great length with representatives of the Framingham Construction Co. and the Plant Engineering Co. in both sets of bids received and opened by the city for this work the Thomas & Murphy Co. was the second lowest bidder.

Present at the meeting of the board were Frank P. McGinnis, manager of the Plant Co., and Chester Williams, former county commissioner, treasurer of the Framingham Co. J. Joseph Honessy, local attorney for the Plant Co. also was in attendance.

It was the feeling of the board members that the bid of the Plant Co. $1.35 per square yard, is too low to give certification of a first class job. The attitude toward the Framingham Co. was that inasmuch as the concern did not present a bid in the second set called for and had brought injunction proceedings against the city, no award could be made unless all bids were again rejected and a third set asked for.

Therefore, out of all the discussion, came the compromise—the recommendation that the work be awarded to Thomas & Murphy. According to Supt. Harry Doherty this concern will be ready to begin asphaltic operations in the city within 16 days.

The Central bridge matter came before the board for the eleventh time, with John M. O'Donoghue, representing the Engineering Service and Construction Co., who was inasmuch as both the construction company and Lewis E. Moore, consulting engineer, were in accord over the proposition to have the gunning of the bridge laid out by contract to the Traylor-Dewey Co. of Allentown, Pa. The board instructed the contracting company to submit an estimate of the cost of gunning both the surface of the bridge and the underpinnings and as soon as this figure is received, work will be hastened to complete the structure.

City Auditor Daniel F. Martin brought the matter of a deficit in the water department to the attention of the board. It amounted to $8,837 and in the mind of the auditor it is being carried along as a debit charge. Allegedly, the board instructed Supt. Robert Gardner to confer with the city auditor and city solicitor in having the proper order of transfer drawn up for presentation to the city council.

The board gave its approval to an order for $40,000 for bridge repairs. City Engineer Kearney presented several sets of plans for the reconstruction of the Lundberg street bridge, which has been closed to traffic for some time. The board's attention also was called to the condition of the Cabot street bridge over the North river canal and the Aiken street river bridge.

A committee of the local Teamsters' union, headed by Michael Regan, appeared before the board regarding its recent action in voting that teamsters be paid only for the time they worked and not for rainy days. Mr. Regan said that the teamsters "put in much more time daily than they are paid for and that on rainy days there was work to do indoors. It was voted to have the superintendent provide work for teamsters in stormy weather, so that they would surely be entitled to compensation.

It was announced that the team will be given a try-out on the South common some day next week. Several requests for games have been received from fire and police department teams in various parts of the state and New Hampshire and they were all referred to the manager.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

At a recent meeting of the American Legion auxiliary many new members were initiated. Plans were made to decorate the graves of the deceased members, who died during the past year, and especially the Lowell Legion auxiliary, 101st Ladies' Auxiliary, 101st Infantry, Co. M, and Liberty Square Association, who, by their many kind words of sympathy and beautiful offerings, both spiritual and floral, helped to lighten the burden of our sorrow upon the death of our beloved son and brother, Corporal Thomas Manning. To each and everyone we are deeply grateful and their kind words will be remembered and never forgotten.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 19.—The report of the superintendent of the Women's auxiliary to the Southern Presbyterian church which was submitted to the general assembly here showed that in every phase of its work the auxiliary had been successful during the decade since it was authorized by the assembly of 1913.

Foreign mission study classes, it was reported, now number 1753 and the home mission study classes 1511, giving a total number of 3264 mission study classes, with a total membership of 43,957. The auxiliary reported also 1922 Bible study classes, with a membership of 26,575; 2657 prayer bands, with a membership of 26,533; 3235 family altars and 10,262 others. The increase in mission study classes during the year was 564, in the Bible study classes, 442, and in the prayer bands, 412.

Additional items of the educational work of the auxiliary are a summer conference, which is held annually at Montreat, N. C., and which was attended in 1921 by more than 500 women; three conferences for colored women, one at Tusculum, Ala., one at Christiansburg, Va., and one at Atlanta, Ga., and a school for colored girls at Tusculum. The women's auxiliary is also active in conferences in the interest of young people's work which are held in a number of synods each year.

WILSON SAYS HE HAD NEARLY LOST ALL HOPE

Spent Much Money But Stubbhorn Stomach Trouble Hung On Until He Got Tanlac, Declares Well Known Roxbury Business Man

"At one time I had but little hope of ever getting well, but by the help of Tanlac my troubles are gone and I am like a new man," said Nathan P. Wilson, of the firm of Nelson, McCooty & Wilson, 78 Cabot st., Roxbury, Mass. "I seldom ate more than one light meal a day, and even then gas from my stomach pressed on my heart and nearly cut off my breath. I had such severe pains I could scarcely stand up, and could never get a good night's sleep. I spent so much money only to get worse I had become discouraged, but my first few doses of Tanlac brought relief and four bottles have put me in shape to where I am feeling fine. I could not do otherwise than praise Tanlac highly." Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. —Adv.

MORE SALARY TO JUDGES

Senate Would Allow Judges to Accept Increase Without Sacrificing Pension

BOSTON, May 19.—The state senate yesterday reconsidered its vote of May 16 whereby it referred to the next annual session a bill providing that the salary of the chief justice of the state supreme court shall be increased to $12,500 and the salaries of the other justices of that court to $12,000, but that the pension for each shall be the same as the salary of the chief justice. The salary of the chief justice is now $10,500 and that of the other justices is $10,000 each. After reconsideration had prevailed, the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Senator Gibbs said the commonwealth made a contract with the judges when they were appointed to give them a pension on their term salaries. Since their appointment, their salaries have been increased, but the bill only calls for pensions on their old salaries, he declared.

The judges gave up lucrative practices to enter the public service of the state and they should be properly paid for their services, Senator Gibbs said. Moving picture stars, baseball players and athletic coaches are paid large salaries, reaching up to $1,000,000 a year, yet the state will not pay the judges of our courts, he said.

Senator Reed of Taunton referred to Senator Gibbs as the "deliberator of consistency" and said that when the bill was before the senate last week the vote was 21 against the proposition and 14 for it. "The conduct which has been going on since the body reached its untrammelled verdict is reprehensible," he said.

Senator Gould of Milford said the standard of the courts of other states is not as high as this state and the opinions of the justices of the supreme court of this state are quoted more than the opinions of any other state.

There is a possibility of losing some of the justices on the supreme bench, Senator Gould said. Judges appointed to the bench in the future will not be entitled to pensions, but will receive the increase of $2000, making the salary $12,800, he pointed out.

Senator Stone of Hopedale said that if the question was submitted to the people he felt the bill would be killed. Senator Casassa of Roxbury said the only members of the senate whom he knew were to change their vote, were those who were misinformed when the vote was last taken on the bill. He said it is not true that the judges of the supreme court were willing to take the increase two years ago and forfeit their pensions. He said the younger members of the superior courts agreed to the change, but the older judges of the superior court refused to accept the raise and surrender their pensions as did likewise the judges of the supreme court.

Senators McDonnell and Carey of Boston opposed the bill and Senator Parkhurst of Winchester favored it. Two Rollcalls Taken

On reconsideration the vote was yes 15, no 11, and on a rollcall was yes 21, no 13, and reconsideration prevailed.

Senator Reed then raised a point of order that the bill reported is beyond the scope of the petition, and President Allen ruled the point not well taken.

On the question of ordering the bill to a third reading, the vote was, yes 12, no 15, and on a rollcall, 20 yes, 12 no, with three pairs.

Previous to calling the roll on the question of ordering the bill to a third reading, Senator Casassa raised the point of order that Senator Putnam of Lowell could not announce a pair with Senator Churchill of Plymouth because the latter was in the chamber.

Senator McLane announced that Senator Churchill requested him to have the latter recorded. Senator Casassa then withdrew his objection, but Senator Carey raised the same point of order. Senator Churchill then stepped out the door from in back of the curtain near the door, and President Allen announced that he had no power to prohibit the announcement of pairs when a member was absent from the chamber.

The rollcall on the question of ordering the bill to the third reading was:

Yes—Babb, Bliss, Carlick, Casassa, Chamberlain, Clark, Cooke, Gibbs, Gould, Leonard F. Hardy, Walter A. Hardy, Monk, Moulton, Naphen, Nelson, Parkhurst, Pearson, Turbull, Wells, Welch—20.

No—Austin, Carey, Donovan, Egbert, Green, Griswold, McDonnell, Quinn, Reed, Shea, Trefry, Widdelligh—12.

Pairs—Yes, Emery, Halliwell, Churchill; no, McLane, Butler, Putnam.

Aimed at "Jay Walkers"

An amendment aimed at "jay walkers" was put upon the bill to prohibit operators of motor vehicles from driving within six feet of a person alighting from or boarding an electric car. The amendment, offered by Senator Wells of Boston, provides that any pedestrian who unreasonably obstructs a motor vehicle by lingering within the street or pretending to board a street car shall be subject to the same penalties as the operator of a motor vehicle who drives within six feet of a person about to board or alight from a car.

A motion to refer the bill to the next annual session was rejected and the bill was passed to be engrossed as amended.

The senate refused to substitute for an adverse committee report a bill to give the public utilities commission further supervision over companies selling gas or electricity to distributing companies.

The senate rejected the bill directing the state department of health to investigate and report relative to supplying water to the city of Fall River. Senator Walter McLane of Fall River stated the city of Fall River desired to try and work out a plan without interference from the state board.

Speaker Young Apologizes

Speaker B. Loring Young wrote a letter to the senate, expressing regret that any member of the senate was barred from entering the house chamber yesterday afternoon, during his attack on Mayor Curley. Speaker Young said the rules permit members of the senate all the privileges of the floor, and any action of doorkeepers in refusing admittance to the chamber was an error.

He said that, early in the session he issued orders that the public be excluded from the chamber after all seats were taken, but he never intended to have the order apply to senators because of their rights under the rules.

He said he cannot perceive why any doorkeeper should have interpreted his order to apply to the members of the senate. He said that such an incident will not happen again and would not have occurred yesterday had the matter been called to the attention of Representative John C. Hull of Loominster, who was in the chair.

The communication was received and will be printed in the senate journal.

The committee on banks and banking reported ought not to pass on the initiative petition of Simon Swig, vice president of the Tremont Trust company, regarding savings banks to give depositors the rights and privileges now conferred upon members of such corporations.

SPRING GUARDS REMOVED

A detail of men under the direction of the engineering department, yesterday removed the storm guards on Central bridge. Because of the incomplete bridge work, the guards had been left in position, but the long delayed work, together with the latest demands of Centralville residents, led to their removal yesterday.

Among the odd birds of Australia are the black swan, the lyre bird, the honeyeater and the brush turkey.

ON THRESHOLD OF NEW ERA

is Finding Itself," Says

Must Not Destroy American
Other Lands

WASHINGTON, May 19.—President Harding, speaking yesterday before the chamber of commerce of the United States, declared that the country "at this very moment is on the threshold of a new era," that business is reviving and the "country is finding itself." The government, he said, was greatly interested in restoration of normal world business and economic conditions and he added that there was no disposition on its part to hold aloof from other nations. American industry, however, he said, should not be destroyed to build up the commerce of other lands.

He declared there was no one constructive thought in the mind of the administration at the present which took rank over that of a desire to establish firmly and successfully an American merchant marine. He doubted, he said, if the world war would have occurred had the United States possessed a merchant marine commensurate with its commercial importance.

Business the Reflex
"If there is any one realization," he said, "which fixes itself more firmly than another in the mind of one charged with great responsibility, it is the conviction that the business life of the republic is the reflex of all its good fortunes. I think I can venture to say that the commerce and civilization go hand in hand; and were it not for commerce there would be no civilization."

"From the viewpoint of one in authority and having responsibility comes another consideration. Commerce finds its place in all our considerations. Undoubtedly it has much to do with the bringing about of the world war, and I think I can say just as confidently that it was never once forgotten in the negotiation of peace. It is so inextricably associated with all we do that commerce is always foremost in the life of any people."

Determined to Be Foremost
"We in America—I am sure it is not unreasonably to say it—are commercially a great people, and we ought to be. God blessed us most bountifully in resources. The citizenship of this republic is the finest of every people in the world, almost, and I like to say I believe we are unequalled in genius, we are incomparable in our industry, and we have the talent and the determination—the rigorous determination—to be commercially one of the foremost nations of the world."

"While I am speaking very briefly I wish to speak, ladies and gentlemen, for a commerce with a conscience. If I were to bring only one admonition to you I would like to charge you men and women of influence and responsibility with the task of eliminating from American commerce those who do not have a conscience, whose conscienceless practices bring that commerce which sometimes attends our American activities."

"Something has been said, and I think opportunistly said, that we want a period in America with less government in business and more business in government. If the commerce of America were always conscientious there never would be a single excuse for government in American business. There is not an agency in American life which can so quickly put an end to abuses and offenses in American commerce as those who are conspicuous in the leadership of that commerce."

Industry Cannot Go Back
"It will not do to pursue the activities with which we Americans are so eminently connected without a mindfulness of everybody involved. Commerce cannot be adjusted alone to the ability of the captains of industry. There must always be a thought of the great mass without whom there could be no productivity on the one hand and little consumption on the other."

"And I beg to remind you that the great world war, like every other war which preceded it, but more notably the great world war, because of its incalculable immensity, has left a state in human affairs quite different from any that ever preceded it."

"The war would have been a complete waste, it would have been an utter sacrifice of every effort if we did not find the great human procession on a little higher plane than that which it followed before. And American commerce must keep that in mind. There never will be a time when you can go back completely to the old order of American industry and exchanges in trade."

On Threshold of New Era
"I say this because at the very moment we are on the threshold of a new era. Undoubtedly there is more than a mere business revival in sight. Our country is finding itself again. We are fundamentally right and we do not intend ever to be discouraged for a long time."

"Business is reviving and we are soon to resume our onward way and I admonish you of the larger responsibility to keep in mind the new state of human affairs and the awakened aspirations of men."

"I do not think that any business can permanently succeed that is not honest. And I do not think any enterprise ought to succeed that is not honorable. And if you will combine honesty and honor that enterprise which makes such a slogan will stand unchallenged before the world."

"There is one fundamental that we ought never forget. No law can ever be enacted or any substitute ever found for the reward of merit. It is the essence of our social life; it is fundamental in our religious life. And

Commerce With a Conscience
"While I am speaking very briefly I wish to speak, ladies and gentlemen, for a commerce with a conscience. If I were to bring only one admonition to you I would like to charge you men and women of influence and responsibility with the task of eliminating from American commerce those who do not have a conscience, whose conscienceless practices bring that commerce which sometimes attends our American activities."

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre
to Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray hair, unattractive folks, aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. Tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Adv.

I am quite sure that there can be no abiding reward without merit and I am equally sure that there can be but little of merit without prospect of reward.

Russians' Incentive to Work Gone
"Not so very long ago there came into the executive offices a very distinguished visitor, whose homeland is Russia. He was talking of conditions existing there and expressing a hope for its restoration, to which we can all very cordially subscribe, and he said:

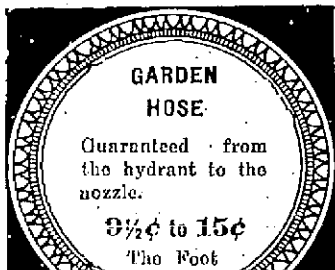

"Mr. President, it will never be brought about until the existing system is abandoned. I know persons of simple honesty and ready industry, who have heretofore always been eager to work and produce, but under a system where they retain only that which is necessary for their subsistence and the surpluses are taken from them, the inspiration to produce has been destroyed."

"He said, 'Russia can never be restored until the communistic idea is put aside and the rewards for righteous human activity are restored to the citizenship of that land.'"

BENEFIT DANCE FOR STRIKERS

The benefit dance of the textile strikers, held last night in Merrimack and Graton halls, met with an unusually large attendance.

Because of the mixed assemblage of young and old couples, one hall was devoted to the former and another to the latter. Among the entertainers were Jennie Martin, clog dancer, and "The Kennedys," piano and whistling.

The mayor and acting superintendent of police visited the scene in the course of the evening. John Hanlon was general manager. Mrs. Annie Roagan, treasurer, and Edward Sullivan, floor director.

INTER-SCHOOL TRACK MEET
ANDOVER, May 19.—Andover's chances of winning the Harvard inter-school track meet at Cambridge, Saturday, were considered lessened today by the loss of E. M. Wolfe in the hammerthrow and L. G. Welbeck in the broad jump. The athletes have been declared to be over the age limit.

Now Is The Time to Think of Screens

Fly time is coming—it's time now to get out the old screens and look them over—and it's time, too, to think of the screen cloth that was used in making them.

COPPER

If your screens are made of iron or steel, you're apt to find plenty of holes to patch and a big job of painting to do. If they are of "bronze" (which is usually brass) you may see, here and there, a strand missing. But, if they were made of Jersey Copper Screen Cloth—they'll be clean and undamaged—ready to put in your windows.

Think of this when you are buying new screens, or screen cloth for repainting old ones. Buy the best that you can get—Jersey Copper Screen Cloth—it costs a little more (from 25c to 30c a window), but it lasts for longer and needs no painting or patching to keep it as the job.

Arrested For Alleged Flim Flam Game

SPRINGFIELD, May 18.—Traced to Worcester by the local police, Benjamin Stein of New York, wanted on a charge of obtaining $2500 from a local fur dealer by a flim flam game, was arrested today. Samuel Solomon of this city, also is being held in $3500 bonds for trial following his arrest here. Samuel Futterman, a fur dealer, complained Wednesday that he met the two who said they would sell him a lot of furs cheap. He gave them $2500, which they pretended to wrap up and returned to him to hold, pending delivery of the furs. Later he found the package contained only $7.

Motion to Direct Verdict Overruled

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., May 18. (By the Associated Press).—Judge J. M. Woods today overruled a motion to direct a verdict of not guilty in the case of William Blizard, mine union official charged with treason as a result of the armed march last summer, against Logan county, a non-union stronghold in the coal fields of the state.

Former Dry Agent in Critical Condition

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 18.—Thomas F. McAuliffe, former chief prohibition enforcement agent of Connecticut, is in a critical condition at a local hospital, where he recently underwent a third operation for a "diseased condition of the jaw." Mr. McAuliffe as chief prohibition enforcement agent was arrested last October on a charge of accepting a bribe from an alleged bootlegger. He was indicted and held for trial in $15,000 bonds. Later McAuliffe was arrested by federal authorities and indicted by a federal jury. A date for trial was set but McAuliffe's illness has prevented his case from coming to trial.

Auto Runs Down Girls Under Umbrella

STAMFORD, Conn., May 18.—Mrs. Myra Casard of Hunting Ridge, returning home through North Stamford in her automobile with her children who attend a private school, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Eaton of Chicago, late yesterday, struck and mortally hurt Evelyn Austin, and probably fatally hurt Jessie Price. It was raining at the time, the young girls were under an umbrella, and Mrs. Casard says that when she warned with a horn blast they stepped into the path of the machine.

Glotzbach Cancels Counter Divorce Suit

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Floyd Glotzbach, chauffeur of Delmonte, Cal., today instructed his attorney to cancel his divorce petition filed several weeks ago as a commutation to the suit brought by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Matzenauer, grand opera singer. Her suit was instituted in New York, after their separation. Glotzbach said he would not oppose her efforts to get a divorce.

MASS MEETING ON SOUTH COMMON SUNDAY

All arrangements have been completed for the mass meeting to be held in the South common Sunday afternoon. The meeting will be opened by John Hanley, president of the Lowell Textile council and the principal speaker will be John Campos of Fall River, a man well posted in labor affairs, who will address the gathering in the Portuguese language. The other speakers will be Charles E. Anderson, president of the Trades and Labor council, and General Organizer Thomas J. Reagan of the United Textile Workers of America. Tomorrow morning John Hanley and ten or more young women connected with the local textile strike will go to Pittsfield, where they will be in charge of a "rosebud" day for the benefit of the local strikers. The affair will be conducted under the auspices of the Central Labor union of that city.

DANCING POPULAR AT THE KASINO

The Kasino opened for dancing Wednesday evening and, judging by the expressions of the large crowd of dancers who attended, the season is destined to be the most successful in the pavilion's history. Tonight and tomorrow night dancing will be in order, and undoubtedly the usual week-end crowds will be present to enjoy the splendid floor and music. The floor has been pronounced the best in the city, and those who were present on the opening night were unanimous in their praise of the orchestra. The reduced rate on tickets contributed greatly to the convenience of the dancers, owing to present conditions, and the excellent service afforded all patrons is another big feature. The large number of entrances and exits allow the dancers to get on the floor at the beginning of each dance and enjoy themselves to the utmost, and at the end of the dance there is no holdup caused by delay in leaving the floor. The next dance may begin almost immediately. Altogether, the management is entirely satisfied with the prospects for the season and feel that the Kasino will be the favorite pleasure resort throughout the summer.

Can Others Give You as Much For

Men's and Young Men's Made-to-Order SUITS $22.50

Here are the main features of my $22.50 offer—read them carefully—then judge for yourself.

At $22.50 I offer a choice of more than eighty different patterns in greys, tans, and browns—the popular colors this spring. All together you have the choice of more than one hundred all wool patterns which include Blue Serge, silk and wool chevots, homespuns, tweeds, tartan checks, club checks, Pin stripes and mixtures. Your suit will be made any style you desire, except frock coat or full dress. I will use genuine American linen canvas for coat foundation and work all buttonholes with silk thread. The cloth you select will be part of the lot of 2,000 yards I recently bought, which is all cold water shrunk and means that your suit will keep its shape for a long time. If after your garment is finished you are not absolutely satisfied with it and do not believe it equal to any suit selling up to $32.50, just say so, and you can keep your money and I keep the clothes. If you can show me any other tailor that gives you as much for your money as I do, I will stake you to the best feed in town.

TO END 12 HOUR DAY

President Suggests Abolition at Dinner Attended by Leaders in Steel Industry

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Complete abolition of the 12-hour working day in the steel industry was discussed at a dinner conference at the White House last night, to which President Harding had invited 41 representatives of the iron and steel industry, and Secretaries Mellon, Hoover and Davis.

Almost to the hour of the meeting the guests were without information as to the subject to be taken up. After an informal meeting at a local hotel, Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, went to the White House and was closeted with President Harding. On leaving the White House he would make no comment.

White House Statement
George B. Christian, secretary to the president, issued the following statement from the White House on the dinner:

"The president had dining with him a company of nearly 60 representatives of the iron and steel industry and Secretaries Mellon, Hoover and Davis. No announcement of the purpose of the dinner was given to the guests in advance.

"After dining, the president stated that he wished to know better the men comprising his company of guests and to very informally discuss with them the complete abolition of the 12-hour working day in the steel industry. He explained frankly that there was no intention of government interference in private business, but that we are about to witness a great industrial revival and the one hope of abolishing the excessively long working day was to do it before the full swing is resumed.

"The president explained that he had discussed the matter with individual heads and found much favorable sentiment, but there is a conviction that the abolition is impracticable without substantially unanimous action by all the employing forces in the iron and steel industry. Hence the dinner and the attending opportunity to discuss the proposal and free and frank expression on the question of such import to industrial America."

"The statement added that the dinner was another development of the president's belief that conference affords a way to accomplishment."

YOUNG MAN MURDERED

Envelops Murder of Unidentified Man

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 19.—New elements of mystery today enveloped the murder of the unidentified young man whose body was found near here last Tuesday.

Sheriff George J. Werner of Westchester county was informed that a telegram signed with his name had been received by the city marshal of Haverhill, Mass., and that the message declared the dead man was supposed to be Clarence Peters of Haverhill.

Sheriff Werner asserted he had never sent such a telegram, and that no identification had been reported to him. It was possible, he said, that such a telegram had been sent in his name by a deputy, but it was probable that such action would have been reported to him.

The body was found on a lonely road near the northern end of the Kensico reservoir, north of White Plains. The man had been killed by a gunshot wound in the chest.

Rev. Joseph P. Kennedy, newly appointed pastor of the Highland Union M. E. church was tendered a reception of welcome at the church last night by the Methodist Episcopal ministers of this city and many members from his own church.

Despite the inclement weather, the vestry was crowded and all took advantage of the opportunity to personally greet the pastor and his family. After the reception, supper was served and this was followed by an excellent program of speaking and entertainment.

The reception opened shortly after 6:30 o'clock and in the receiving line were Rev. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, Donald Kennedy, their son, and Miss Edith Kennedy, their daughter; also Rev. J. L. Cairns of St. Paul's M. E. Rev. Carl P. Meister of Centralville M. E. Rev. Leslie C. Bookes of the Central M. E. Rev. J. F. Speel of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Rev. Richard Peters of the Highland Congregational church, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Large and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fitch. During the reception Miss Mabel Sullivan, church organist, played several compositions.

At the close of the reception all fled into the dining room, which was appropriately decorated, and enjoyed an appetizing supper served by the Ladies Aid. There was music by an orchestra composed of Arthur R. G. Root and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hughes. Following the supper there were songs by Miss Signe Reenstern, after which there were addresses of welcome by the ministers present.

Mrs. O. O. Johnson, president of the Ladies Aid society, had general supervision over the entire affair, and assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. W. R. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Agnes Porter, Mrs. M. W. Winter, Mrs. J. M. Washburn, Mrs. John Kuneman, Mrs. Halsey Rock and Mrs. J. M. Kendrick.

The dining room was in charge of Mrs. Henry Maguire, who was assisted by Mrs. B. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Perrington, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Farrell and Mrs. Ella Richardson.

Milton Washburn had charge of the ushers and was assisted by Edgar Mevins, Carroll Brown, Vinton Brown, Harry Henderson, Alfred Timmins and Donald Hilton.

PINCHOT'S MAJORITY IS SLIGHTLY INCREASED

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—Gifford Pinchot's majority over Attorney General George E. Alter for the republican gubernatorial nomination was slightly increased today.

Unofficial figures from 7663 election districts out of 1934 in the state gave him a margin of 5648.

The National Humane Review, the official publication of the American Humane association contains the following interesting tribute:

"Mr. Charles F. Richardson completed 25 years as agent of the Lowell Humane society at Lowell, Mass., March 9, last. Mr. Richardson has worked early and late to make the Lowell society one of the best in Massachusetts and has been particularly successful in his work for boys. He was appointed juvenile probation officer some years ago, after serving in that capacity voluntarily before the establishment of the juvenile probation system by the state. Mr. Richardson's friends in Lowell joined in congratulating him on his anniversary, and it is the wish of the Review that he will live to celebrate his 50th anniversary with the society."

ANNUAL MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES

At the request of the Grand Army Veterans, Rev. Percy E. Thomas, pastor of the First Congregational church, will be the principal speaker at the annual Memorial Day exercises on Sunday, May 28, and will deliver the customary memorial address. Members of the Memorial Day committee will complete details and plans for the observance at a meeting early next week.

Orders of the day will be issued the day of the exercises. Chief Marshal Dudley L. Page and Chief of Staff Walter R. Jeyes. These orders will designate the organizations which are to appear in line for the parade on Memorial Day, and the methods to be used in the city's cemeteries in decorating graves.

PINAFORE CAST IS ENTERTAINED

At Cole's Inn last evening the Teachers' Organization entertained the cast of the operetta, "H.M.S. Pinafore," given in the Opera House April 17 and a roast chicken supper, an impromptu entertainment in which one and all participated and general dancing helped to make the occasion most enjoyable for all present.

Heartily thanks to all who participated in the production, principals and members of the chorus as well, were extended by Miss Caroline A. Downey, president of the organization and toastmistress of the evening. Brief remarks were heard from Director Fred O. Blunt, a guest of honor. The pleasant event was in the hands of Miss Alice O'Brien, chairman of the program committee, and Miss Downey.

Powder-puffs, cigaret-cases, and coin purses are concealed in the handles of the newest parasols.

"Dry" Navy Cuts Rum Smuggling

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Ships of the prohibition navy are blocking the sea lanes to the Atlantic coast against rum smugglers, Commissioner Haynes said today. Mr. Haynes indicated that the prohibition vessels were well distributed along the eastern coast line. Rum-running has decreased since the organization of the fleet, he declared, particularly along the Florida coast, while one of the prohibition ships recently stopped and searched 24 suspicious looking craft in one day without discovering any liquor.

BELIEF MURDER AND ROBBERY COMMITTED

MONTPELIER, Vt., May 18.—The blood-stained clothing of William A. Gay, a Hancock farmer, and his automobile, found in a field on the outskirts of this city, early today, caused the police to search for his body in the belief that a murder and robbery had been committed. The wallet found with the clothing was empty. A hole made by a bullet of .38-calibre in the back of the automobile seat indicated that he had probably been wounded by shots. Mrs. Gay came here today expecting to meet her husband, who was to have stayed at Willamstown last night.

FINED FOR CONSPIRACY TO IMPORT LIQUOR

BOSTON, May 19.—Captain Beattie Amare of Saugus, skipper of the rum-running schooner Golden West, and Tony Carbone of Plymouth, a member of the crew, who were convicted last January of conspiracy to import liquor, were fined $500 by Federal Judge Peters in the federal court today. The other convicted man, Filippo Bruno, the owner of the vessel and the promoter of the enterprise, is now in Italy, but is expected to return here.

COUPLE TO LIVE AS "ADAM AND EVE"

ABINGTON, May 19.—A modern "Adam and Eve," Carl A. Sutter and his wife, will leave here on Saturday for the woods of northern Maine where, according to their avowed intention, they will live, for six weeks without clothes, weapons or fire, as primitive man and woman. A reporter will accompany the pair to a village on the edge of the forest and will meet Sutter each day to hear the story of their experiences. Sutter and his wife, who spent some time at a lonely camp near here last winter, have appeared in vaudeville in a rifle shooting act.

PHILIPPIA June Maria Holcomb was recently declared a perfect baby, defeating 25 others in a Panama Canal zone contest.

REGATTA ON HOUSTONIC DREHLY, Conn., May 19.—Crews of Yale, Cornell and Princeton were to practice on the Houstonic river today, for tomorrow's regatta. Three regulars of the Yale shell are out with injuries.

Two Vessels Pounded Ashore

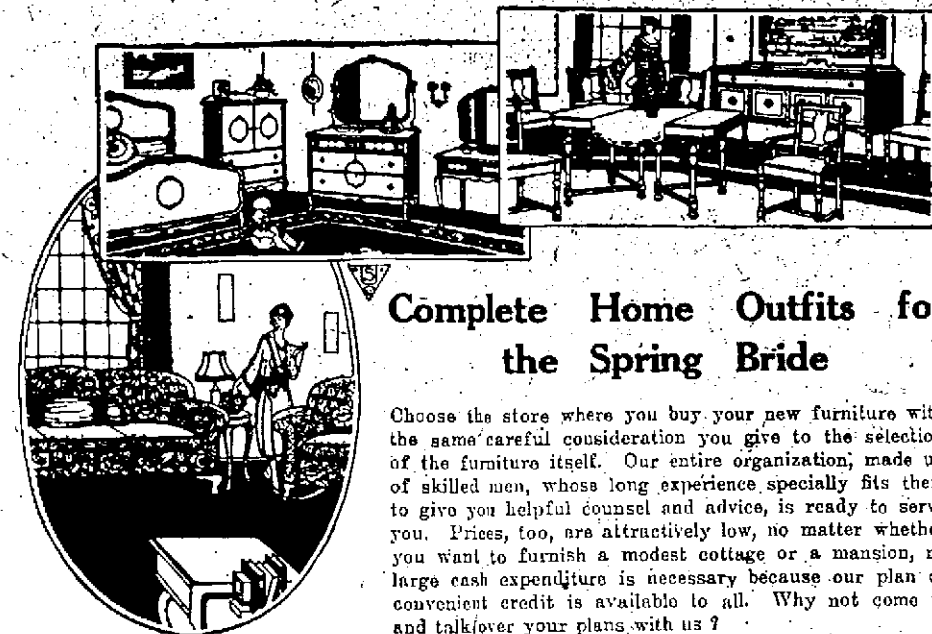

Continued
tore down, and Ricketta decided to run for safety, hoping to get in under the partial protection of Easthampton. Off the Amagansett bars, however, the little boat struck.

Easy Prey to Battering Seas
Built more for speed and long cruising than for strength, the eagle boat was easy prey to the battering seas and it was only a few moments after she struck that the commander realized his danger and sent up rockets. A coast guard sent in the alarm and life savers from the Georgia station near Amagansett station, launched their boat. They got close enough to the battered ship to toss a line, but because of the pounding of the waves dared not go alongside. With the line, to which a pulley was attached, held by the life-savers who returned to shore, Ricketta launched a raft. Taking five men to a ship, the raft was pulled ashore 12 times until all the crew had been saved. Once a sailor was washed overboard, but he was rescued when he clutched the sunken pulley rope. The men got some of their supplies ashore by tying them to the raft.

SANDWICH, England, May 19. (By the Associated Press.)—Miss Joyce Wethered, the British amateur golf champion, won the women's open golf championship today, defeating Miss Cecil Leitch, the open titleholder, 9 up and 7 to play.

CAN YOU SPOT A "USED CAR" WHEN YOU SEE, HEAR OR RIDE IN ONE?

Neither can anybody else. For a Used Car in the broadest sense is nothing more than a new car which has been used. When you wear a new suit for the first time, it becomes a "Used" suit; and so with your shoes, hats, watch, piano or anything else you might own. But because they are "Used" does not depreciate their REAL value so awfully much.

Mandamus Case Decision

public hearing before the city council and shall be privileged to be represented by counsel and present witnesses at such hearing. By Part 3 of said statute, brief notice is conferred upon the city council after a hearing, by a two-thirds vote of all its members, to reinstate a removed officer.

Pursuant to this provision, Welch demanded a public hearing, which was not finished when these petitions were filed.

"The object of these petitions is to require the city council to refrain from taking further action in relation to the reinstatement of Welch.

"Welch has petitioned to become a party to these petitions, and he has filed a brief. He is a third person who has no claim of right or interest in the subject matter, so that the court may permit him to appear in mandamus proceedings. (Citations.)

The writ of mandamus may be used to try title to a municipal office. (Citations.) It is sufficient for the purposes of the present case to permit him to act as amicus curiae (Citations). His brief and argument have been carefully considered.

No Automatic Ouster.
"The regular term of office of Welch as superintendent of police terminated on the third Monday in January, 1922. But the office did not then become vacant, because the same section of the charter which declared the point of time of termination, extended or prolonged his former term of office until his successor should be appointed, confirmed and qualified.

"The statute did not work an ouster. The term had come to an end, but the former incumbent continued to hold by virtue of his immediately preceding appointment until such time as his successor should become ready under the new charter to take his place, when he would automatically be displaced. It is within the power of the legislature to extend and to change the tenure of a city charter.

"The plain effect of the words of section 16, already quoted, is to prevent the existence of a vacancy in the office by continuing as a de jure officer the present incumbent, whose term otherwise has come to an end, until his successor, appointed as a permanent officer under the charter, should be ready to take over the duties of the office. This effect was to be avoided. It is a practical position to preserve the good order of the community by extending in office continuously the head of a police department. There was no vacancy in the office as would have existed in case of death, resignation, removal, suspension or other supervening cause. The fixed term of office simply came to an end, so that in accord with the provisions of the charter a new officer could be named as successor, but in the meantime the previous superintendent continued in office. (Citations.)

It follows that there was no vacancy in the office as superintendent of police arising from the terms of section 16. Hence the power to make a temporary appointment to that office without confirmation by the city council under section 43, part 2, did not rest in the mayor by reason of the terms of section 16.

Holdovers May Be Removed.
"The mayor, however, removed Welch from office under Section 36, Part 1. The same power is referred to in Section 43, Part 2. This removal was within the power of the mayor as set forth in these two sections. Although there is room for doubt on this point, a sound construction of the statute on the whole is that a prolongation of the previous term wrought by the words of Section 16 does not have the effect of exempting such holdover officers from the general power of removal by the mayor. The force of that section put the officers whose terms thus are extended.

Decorate Graves of 40,000 U. S. Soldiers

PARIS, May 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—The graves of 40,000 American soldiers will be decorated by the Paris Post of the American Legion on Memorial Day. This is 24,000 fewer than the number decorated last year, the reduction being due to the return of bodies to the United States. All the bodies have now been concentrated in six permanent American national cemeteries, with the exception of 60 places where relatives have asked that the bodies be undisturbed.

Found Guilty of Assaulting His Wife

LAWRENCE, May 19.—Ardash Garabedian, found guilty of assaulting his wife, Rosie, with intent to kill her on February 28, as she was leaving her work in a local mill, was today sentenced in superior court to serve from four to eight years in state's prison.

Big Liquor Raid at Saugus, Maine

SAUGUS, May 19.—Police officers today seized three large stills, 20 gallons of liquor and mash enough to make 2100 gallons more, in an early morning raid in a barn near the home of Bernard Maura, in the Oakland section. Entering the home of Maura, they found three and one-half gallons of whiskey and arrested him.

Southwest Storm Warning Issued

NEW YORK, May 19.—A southwest storm warning, Delaware Breakwater to Block Island, R. I., was issued today by the weather bureau. The storm, central over southern Lake Huron, is of marked intensity and will be attended by strong south and southwest winds.

ed on the same footing as all other officers in respect to removal. It orders them no special immunity and confers on them no tenure superior to that of other city officers. There are no limitations expressed in Section 36, Part 1, and Section 43, Part 2, on the broad power of the mayor to remove city officers. Therefore the mayor had power to remove Welch from office. "It results from these conclusions that the city council was acting pursuant to its charter obligations in granting a public hearing to Welch. He duly filed his demand, therefore and was entitled to it as a right. It is the duty of the city council to continue that hearing, it will be within its jurisdiction after that hearing to reinstate Welch in the office of superintendent of police by a two-thirds vote of all its members. Upon the passage of such a vote the order of removal made by the mayor will become invalid. "The temporary appointment of the petitioner Murthyne as superintendent of police by the mayor, after his removal of Welch, is valid only as a temporary appointment, according to the tenure established by Section 43, Part 3. "In each case the entry may be petition dismissed."

Truthful Advertising

does not simply mean that if you advertise anything at a low price, and have it, that you are wholly truthful. It is one thing to create an impression and another thing to fulfill absolutely the impression you have created. In other words, when we say we have an article or a food product, such as a leg of lamb or a roast of beef, at such a price, you may rely upon it that we have NO OTHER PRICE a little bit HIGHER and SUPPOSED to be a little better. That is our way of doing business—only one kind.

tion to work. He was not a graduate of a law school, but so thoroughly assimilated the fundamentals and rudiments of his chosen profession in the office of Judge Charles S. Lilley that the structure erected thereon was unto himself a monument.

Born in Pittsfield, Mass., Dec. 20, 1883, the son of John F. and Teresa Dunbar, he gained his elementary education in the schools of that town. He later entered Amherst college and was graduated in the class of 1890.

He came to Lowell the following year and at once entered the law office of Mr. Lilley. He was admitted to the Massachusetts bar in 1922 and shortly after, when Mr. Lilley went to the superior bench, Mr. Dunbar took over a great deal of his general practice. This practice steadily expanded under his careful management and it was not until 1920, when John Jacob Rogers was admitted to the bar, that he formed a partnership firm. For a number of years thereafter the firm occupied offices in the Hildreth building, moving only last year to a new suite of rooms in the Five Cent Savings Bank building.

In 1924 Mr. Dunbar married Mary Carney Rogers, daughter of the late Jacob Rogers. No children were born of this union.

As his law business increased with the advancing years, Mr. Dunbar extended his interests in many other directions. He was a republican in politics, but sought office only on one occasion. In 1906 he was defeated by General Ames for the republican nomination for congressman from this district.

He went four times as a delegate to national republican conventions, in the years 1904, 1908, 1916 and 1920, the conventions which nominated McKinley, Roosevelt, Hughes and Harding.

Executive positions in industrial and financial corporations he held almost without number. He was president of the Hootch mill and the Appleton Co.; a director of the Newmarket Mfg. Co. of Newmarket, N. H.; a director of the Middlesex Co. of the Union National bank, of the Textile & Mechanics Insurance Co. and the Shaw Stocking Co.; trustee of the Five Cent Savings bank, the Hiram Mills estate, the Ayer Home and the Lowell General hospital; vice president of the Lowell Gas Light Co. treasurer of the Stony Brook railroad and counsel for the Locks and Canals, the Merrimack Co. and most of the other textile corporations with which he was connected. For a number of years he served as a member of the board of trustees of the Lowell Textile school.

Mr. Dunbar's fraternal affiliations were limited to membership in the Lowell Lodge of Elks. His clubs were the Eastern Yacht, and the World, Vesper Country and Longmeadow Golf clubs of this city.

He was a member of the Lowell Bar and the bar associations of Middlesex county, and Massachusetts and the American Bar association. Also he was a member of the council, or executive committee, of the county association.

Ever since coming to Lowell, Mr. Dunbar was actively interested in the First Unitarian church and, after it was merged with the High Street Congregational church as All Souls, the present church building in East Merrimack street was erected under his constant supervision, for as chairman of the building committee, he fathered the project from beginning to end. The present church organ is the gift of his family.

Besides his wife, his father, John F. Dunbar, and a brother, Harry A. Dunbar, both of Pittsfield, survive him.

Funeral services will be held on next Sunday afternoon at the home in Andover street at 3 o'clock.

Bar Association Meeting

At the opening of this morning's session of the district court, Judge Thomas J. Enright announced that a meeting of the Lowell Bar association would be held tomorrow morning in the court room at 10 o'clock to take action on the death of Mr. Dunbar.

ver, a successful business man, a public-spirited citizen with a long and honorable record of useful service, has passed on at a time when men of his capacity are much needed.

Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall of the superior court said: "The Middlesex bar has sustained a distinct professional loss in the death of Mr. Dunbar. He brought to the practice of the profession, learning, combined with large experience. To those who knew him personally he was an attractive, social companion. He was a leading citizen of Lowell, which city shares with the profession profound regret in his death."

ANNUAL CRUISE OF N. Y. YACHT CLUB

NEW YORK, May 18.—The annual cruise of the New York Yacht club is to be more of a deep sea affair this summer than last year's jaunt, which was sailed between Gloucester, L. I., and Newport, with the rendezvous of the fleet at the Long Island station and races for the astor cups and the king's cup held off Newport.

This year the New York Yacht club will rendezvous at the Long Island port on Aug. 1, cruise around Cape Cod and scatter off Marblehead, Mass. The sea route along the New England shore rather than the sheltered waters of Long Island sound, will bring practically all of the racing members of the Eastern Yacht club of Marblehead, who also fly the burgee of the New York organization, into the fleet this year under Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt.

The Astor cup races for sloops and schooners will be held Aug. 2 off the Newport anchorage. Squadron runs will start Aug. 4 from Newport to Matinecock, Mass.

PENSION BILL

BOSTON, May 19.—Without debate or opposition, the Massachusetts house of representatives yesterday passed the pension bill providing for retirement allowances based on annuity and pension contributions for employees of the city of Boston and Suffolk county.

The bill to provide security to the public for personal injuries caused by motor vehicles was ordered to a third reading, with the understanding it would be considered at greater length on the next stage.

Mr. Hull of Leominster, in charge of the measure, said that after it becomes operative no person can operate an automobile without being given security or a bond for damages for personal injuries. It does not cover property damages, he said.

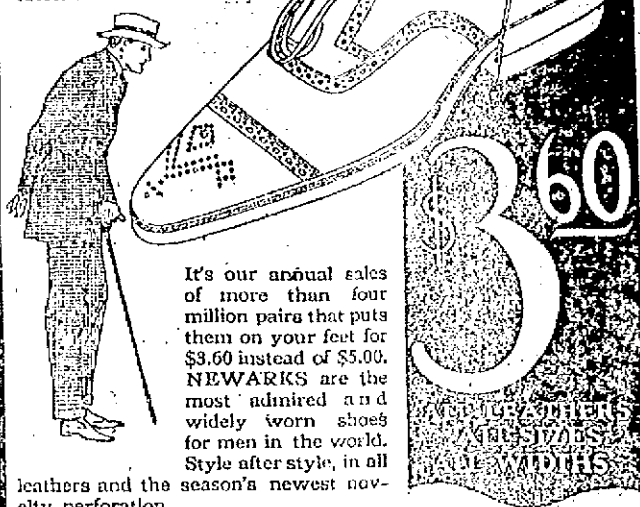

Mr. Lane of Boston said that taxicab drivers had told him that it is impossible for them to get insurance without paying rates so high as to be prohibitive.

Mr. Drimbleton of Newton presented a petition from Wilbur E. Trussell and others for the establishment of a state sanatorium or hospital for the treatment of persons afflicted with cancer. It was referred to the committee on rules.

Mr. Lane of Boston presented a petition for a law to permit the cultivation of land on Sunday between 2 and 5 p. m. by owners or lessees for the raising and harvesting of agricultural products, the privilege to obtain.

of Great Britain in his valedictory speech to the Genoa economic conference today said the conference had gathered "fine crops" namely the meeting to be held at The Hague, the non-aggression pact, and the reports of the finance, transport and economic commissions which he said alone justified the holding of the conference.

These results must be incorporated into living practice, however, the premier added, in order to aid in restoring European vigor and prosperity.

Ovation for Premier

Mr. Lloyd George received great applause when he arose to deliver his address. He was in fine form and good humor.

"We are now at the end of the most remarkable conference ever held in the history of the world," he said. "The Genoa conference will forever be an inspiring landmark in the pathway of peace."

reference to the hospitality of the Italian people.

Warning to Russia

Mr. Lloyd George called attention to the last effect the Russian memorandum had had on the world, and he warned the Russians that if they desired to win success at The Hague it would be better for them not to enter eloquent presentations of the doctrine of repudiation of debts. Such a course was unwise when one wanted to borrow more money, he remarked.

Europe, said the premier was anxious to help Russia, but Russia must accept the code of honor which Europe had as an inheritance from centuries of hard working, honest people.

Final Session

GENOA, May 19. (By the Associated Press).—The last session of the Genoa conference was called to order today by the chairman, Premier Facta of Italy.

M. Collet of the French delegation, presented the report of the economic commission which was adopted with the understanding that suggestions by certain powers would be regarded.

The report emphasized the urgency of organized and coordinated efforts for the distribution of the world's labor so as to maintain the present industrial conditions.

An array of the unemployed as possible, it was stated, should be directed to agricultural pursuits, and useful public works should be developed to provide employment for others. The report recommended that all the nations ratify the convention relating to unemployment adopted by the international labor conference in Washington.

Dr. Walter Rathenau, German foreign minister, discussing the report, declared it would be impossible to reconstruct Europe without the aid of the United States. He concluded with the statement that Germany had contributed to a rapprochement with Russia, and that it planned the work and began would be the basis for peace between the east and the west.

Peace What World Demands

"Peace is what the world demands," he asserted.

St. Piltchekin, the Russian soviet foreign minister, created some surprise in his address when he declared that the Russian delegation was dissatisfied with the economic report because it was not broad and comprehensive enough in its political attention to the world. He said the attitude toward labor was narrow and unsatisfactory.

M. Tschicherev urged the eight hour day as fundamental to all reconstruction work. He also objected to the failure of the report to consider co-operative societies. He said the Russians did not recognize the international labor bureau of the league of nations, and he declared the laborers in the report of any nation of protection for workmen by legislation.

M. Piltchekin likewise objected to the absence of Russia from the committee which dealt with labor problems.

Reply to Russian Objection

M. Collet in reply to St. Piltchekin's objection to the Russian absence from the committee dealing with labor problems, M. Collet declared it was not true that the Russians had been excluded from that body. He added: "We felt that the Russians came so late to the meeting that they were precluded from taking part in the discussions. The head of the Russian delegation is fully justified, considering the present economic condition of his country to give lessons to other countries."

Foreign Minister Schanzer submitted to the meeting the project for the Hague treaty of extradition and the text of the non-aggression agreement which would permit the discussion there with the Russians to take place in an atmosphere of mutual confidence, but especially in the part of pacifism which he said had inspired the Genoa conference.

The terms of this conference must not be exaggerated," he declared. "Russia passes it on to The Hague."

PROBE MARRIAGE OF MOVIE STARS

Investigation of Valentino-Hudnut Marriage to Be Carried to Mexico

To Determine Whether Criminal Proceedings on Charge of Bigamy Should be Taken

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 19.—Investigation of the marriage of Rodolph Valentino, film actor, to Winifred Hudnut, known professionally as Natacha Rambova, while, according to California laws, he still was the husband of Jean Acker, film actress, was to be carried today to Mexico, Lower California, where the ceremony was performed last Saturday.

Dist. Atty. Woolwine and Tom McClelland, one of his deputies, planned to go to the Mexican border town, learn all possible facts in the case and determine whether criminal proceedings on the charge of bigamy, should be taken against Valentino.

"On the way to Mexico, the officials expected to stop at Palm Springs and Centro, where the actor and Miss Hudnut are said to have passed some time after leaving Mexico and before returning to Los Angeles. Valentino is believed to be in Los Angeles, but Miss Hudnut is thought to be en route to New York to her father, Richard Hudnut, a perfume manufacturer.

At the district attorney's office, emphasis was laid on the "intent" of Valentino.

"If he left this country a few days after getting a divorce," said Mr. McClelland, "was married in Mexico and then returned to the benefit of the laws here, he clearly intended to evade the law here. It makes no difference if the woman he married has left for the east."

Federal authorities also are investigating the actor's marriage. Frank M. Sturges of the department of justice, said the department desired to know whether in bringing Miss Hudnut back to California where he already had a legal wife, after the ceremony at Mexico, the actor had violated the Mann white slave act.

Mr. Sturges stated also the depart-

15-YEAR-OLD NEGRO AGAINST LADY RHONDDA BURNED AT STAKE

Committee on Privileges of Lords Decides Petition Had "Not Been Made Out"

LONDON, May 19. (By the Associated Press).—By a vote of 20 to 4 the committee on privileges of the house of lords decided today that Lady Rhondra's claim and petition to sit in the house of lords had "not been made out."

Lady Rhondra's petition to sit in the house of lords was granted by the committee on privileges March 2, but when the decision was reported to the house late in March, it was referred back to the committee on motion of Lord Birkenhead, the lord chancellor, who declared there were many serious legal points to be considered before the question was passed upon by the house as a whole.

Lady Rhondra, daughter of the late Viscount Rhondra, Great Britain's wartime food controller, is one of the leading figures in the business world of Great Britain, having succeeded her father, long known as the British "coal king" in the direction of numerous of his large business enterprises.

Found Hanging. The body of a young negro was found by Grimes county farmers swinging to a tree by the roadside near Planersville yesterday. The negro, known by the name of Early apparently was lynched.

He was taken by officers Monday night when screams of a young white girl, whom was reported he was attempting to attack, aroused the neighborhood. He was placed in jail at Anderson, but escaped Tuesday night.

ment was interested in the marriage at Tijuana, Lower California, Oct. 3, 1921, of Frank Mayo, motion picture actor to Damaris Godowsky, daughter of Leopold Godowsky, the pianist, four days after obtaining an interlocutory decree of divorce here.

A marriage contracted by Henry B. Wallcut also is said to be under investigation by federal agents.

PASTOR FOR CONGRESS

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 19.—Rev. Herbert R. Whitlock, pastor of the People's Baptist church of this city, announced yesterday his candidacy for congress. Since the textile strike began here in January 19, Mr. Whitlock has supported the cause of the operatives, addressing mass meetings of strikers and assisting in strike organization.

WOULD BAN LIQUOR ON ALL AMERICAN SHIPS

BOSTON, May 19.—Intoxicating liquor should be banned from every ship flying the American flag, Frank C. Hall, manager of a hotel here, told members of the Massachusetts Hotel association at their convention yesterday.

"Ships flying the Stars and Stripes," he said, "are deluged with liquor which makes a publicity point for the shipping interests and also for foreign agents who include the 'wet' argument in their inducements to tourists to spend their money abroad in a war-torn Europe, while America with her vast wealth of mountains and valleys, sprinkled with luxurious hotels, goes begging."

"I have it on excellent authority that the shipping board is active in deflecting the tourist trade of this country to foreign shores. Hotel men must inquire into the causes."

AT THE CONTROL BOARD OF THE U. S. RADIO STATION AT THE PRESIDIO, SAN FRANCISCO

Around the world in a fraction of a second. That's the amazing possibility offered by radio—the flashing of a message to the farthest end of the globe almost instantaneously.

Radio waves travel as fast as light waves, say scientists. That's 186,000 miles a second. Which means that a radio message sent from a point in the United States would encircle the globe nearly 1 1/2 times in one second. That is impossible by telegraph because there is no direct line around the earth. It takes hours to reach a point where several cables are used in transmission.

It takes only about one-fiftieth of a second for a message to be flashed from the powerful government station at the Presidio in San Francisco to the opposite side of the globe. This radio station has the equipment to do it, too. There are only a few others like it in the world.

that it is believed will be able to encircle the earth with its messages. Another similar station is in the process of building on Long Island, New York.

Not satisfied with the earth, scientists are said to be experimenting on apparatus that they hope may flash signals to the moon and Mars.

Director, Radio Institute of America
If you have passed from the crystal detector stage to that of the vacuum tube, do not throw your old set into the discard. It may be used with the larger set in one circuit.

By the use of a double-pole, double-throw switch, you will be able to shift from one set to the other—using the old crystal detector for nearby broadcasting and the vacuum tube for more distant reception.

CRYSTAL AND VACUUM TUBE DETECTOR CIRCUIT

Look up according to the diagram: No. 1—Loose coupler or variocoupler with "A" representing the primary and "B" the secondary.

No. 2—Variable condenser of about .0005 microfarads shunted across the secondary.

No. 3—Crystal detector, galena preferably.

No. 4—Small fixed condenser.

No. 5—Head phones of high resistance.

No. 6—Double-pole, double-throw switch for changing from the crystal to the vacuum tube detector or vice versa.

No. 7—Grid leak and grid condenser.
No. 8—Detector tube.
No. 9—Filament rheostat.
No. 10—Six-volt "A" battery.
No. 11—A 2 1/2-volt "B" battery.

RADIO PRIMER

Filament—A thin wire of tungsten or other adopted substance for illumination by electricity in a vacuum tube. In the radio vacuum tube, the filament is used to emit millions of electrons, when lighted. This makes part of the action of a vacuum tube detector or amplifier.

GORDON LOSES FIGHT FOR REINSTATEMENT

BOSTON, May 19.—Ex-Capt. Herbert Gordon of the Cambridge police, known as the right hand man for ex-District Attorney Nathan A. Tutts, lost his chance for reinstatement yesterday when Judge Stone in the East Cambridge district court dismissed a petition for a writ of review on the evidence he placed before the trial board of the Cambridge police department which board found cause for dismissing him.

Judge Stone found that the charge that Captain Gordon tried to induce "Pete" Bennett to pay money for a parole was not sustained. This was one of the most serious charges brought against Captain Gordon.

The court also threw out without consideration the first count against the captain.

On the third count, that of using his official position to obtain evidence in a divorce case, the court found against the petitioner.

The charge that he engaged in stock transactions with money supplied him by a firm that came into contact with the district attorney's office was sustained. There is no appeal from the decision.

AFTER WAR PROFITEERS

As the days go by, the republican party seems to be getting more and more involved in controversies calculated to bring about its ultimate defeat. For nearly two years the party has conducted investigations of war contracts at considerable expense and now after hearing some extravagant claims as to alleged corruption, congress has appropriated $500,000 for the prosecution of profiteers in war contracts. Representatives Johnson and Woodruff have made sweeping charges against the department of justice and have claimed that the stupendous sum of $192,000,000 will be recovered from the 275 cases now in the hands of the department. These cases have to do with 150,000 war contracts in which it is claimed there were fraudulent payments.

Now that Attorney-General Daugherty has been furnished with the necessary funds to conduct the prosecutions, it remains to be seen to what extent he can substantiate the extravagant claims made by certain republican congressmen. On the other hand, Samuel Untermyer has made a scathing attack upon the United States attorney general, announcing the breakdown in the anti-trust prosecution begun a short time ago and declaring that it is hard to believe that Mr. Daugherty's proposed campaign against war profiteers can be anything more than a flash in the pan. Untermyer is a prominent figure in New York and his words will attract nationwide attention. Democrats have little confidence in the statements made by the republican leaders who made charges of reckless management and wholesale profiteering on war contracts. It would be too much to expect that such stupendous operations as those conducted during the war could be carried through without more or less dishonesty by contractors. The haste with which everything was done made such a condition unavoidable. If there had been plenty of time to check over bids and to investigate contractors and their methods, money might undoubtedly have been saved. But the war was on and the situation had to be met in the most practical manner possible. That is what was actually done and the republicans are welcome to all political capital they will make from the proposed prosecutions.

If investigation shows that any number of war contractors cheated the government, none will wish more heartily to see them punished than will the democrats.

MUNICIPAL EXTRAVAGANCE

Before the legislature is a resolution, the purpose of which is to adopt some method of checking municipal extravagance which has grown to such an extent during the past two decades, that taxes at present are four times as high as then. This increase in taxation is not confined to municipalities as we find it in the governments of state and nation. Indeed the tax burdens from these sources fall heavily upon the municipal governments and if the latter be investigated as proposed, it will be found that the high tax rates are not entirely due to local extravagance. Under our new charter there have been some new offices created, notably the board of public service; and it can be said that no other feature of the charter has so demonstrated its worth as it has for the systematic direction and development of street work. The budget and auditing committee receive $500 each or half what the members of the public service board individually receive and they, too, earn their stipend and much more in holding up bills that should not be paid.

There are few, if any, cities in the state in which extravagance in some form cannot be found; but some are guilty of wilful extravagance that should promptly be checked. The pension system as now conducted is becoming a great drag upon cities; but there seems to be little desire to check the freedom with which men are retired on pension. In several cities, too, there is much extravagance in connection with the school departments because of the great number of new activities grafted upon the schools under the guise of patriotism or the training in citizenship. It is true, that we have had a long spell of poor business and that most cities made an effort to start economy of public work to afford employment to those who were idle. An investigation that would bring extravagances, mismanagement and other abuses to light, would serve to "reet public attention on the annual budget and to convince the unthinking public that it is for their benefit to have good, clean, economic but progressive government."

CHINESE THEATRES

Chinese movie fans are keenest for Wild West films, according to Lynn W. Meekins, foreign-trade scout for American movie magnates. Oriental theatrical taste, he says, runs to blood-and-thunder—though the Chinese are the most peaceful people on earth, despite occasional uprisings against hostile "war lords" and enemies of the Chinese republic. You understand the psychology of that. It is like the mild, meek man who dotes on red-blooded adventure stories. Most of us worship our opposites.

China has less than 100 movie theatres and admission averages 25 cents in American money. No movie theatres have been built there for five years. But the Chinese are almost as crazy over movies as they are over phonographs. There is a gigantic opportunity there for our film exporters. China, with enormous undeveloped natural wealth, holds similar opportunities for nearly every other industry.

The Orient is our coming export market. It will eclipse Europe as a buyer of American goods if they ever get able to pay our prices. Mr. Meekins also reports that there is nearly as much noise in a Chinese theatre as in a roller shop—a combination of weird music and the unceasing babble of voices. In front of every seat is a shelf for tea and peanuts. Some of our own theatres are not so very much different—owing to the number of persons who comment upon everything presented for the benefit of their neighbors or who laugh as if deafened of attracting the attention of everybody else in the audience.

HELPING THE COMMUNISTS?

Secretary Denby of the navy has protested against the use of the United States radio service at the opening of the headquarters of the National Women's party at Washington on May 21 on the ground that many of the leaders in the women's party have given voice to communistic ideas and have promoted propaganda which would overthrow the government of this country. Here is a statement from Secretary Denby that "There is scarcely a woman's magazine which is not subtly undermining the belief in American institutions; and, knowingly or unknowingly, a large number of women's organizations are serving the communistic purpose. The work being done by the National Women's party, the National Trade Union League, the League for Birth Control, the Voluntary Parenthood Association, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, and the League of Women Voters, would all fit into the program of the communists like the pieces of a picture puzzle. Many of these organizations have interlocking directorates."

It is well to bring such matters to public attention so that well meaning women will not be misled into supporting any movement calculated to undermine our institutions.

THE SCHOOL STRIKE

Westport, a little town out New Bedford way—one that has seldom figured in the public prints, has suddenly become famous and all because of a strike by the pupils of the high school. The strikers did not resort to violence, they threw no bombs and used no firearms. Nobody was killed or injured as a result, but goodness gracious, they kicked up an awful rumpus because their teacher, Mr. Cox, was dismissed suddenly by the school board and another teacher put in his place. It seems that Cox was insubordinate, something the board would not tolerate in a teacher; but the whole school went on strike which savored slightly of insubordination, yet the board reversed itself two to one and reinstated the discharged principal. The "one" was Dr. Durl, who resigned on the ground that he could not be a party to a dictatorship of the juvenile proletariat. Westport should dismiss its school board and place the schools in charge of a committee of high school pupils to be conducted on the soviet plan. What a glorious privilege is home rule for such communities as Westport!

GARBAGE HOOD

Perhaps the people who risk their lives by drinking moonshine will take warning from the following item: "KANE, Pa., May 15.—Federal agents who raided the supposed pignery of Andy Orzechowski, on the outskirts of the city the other day, declare they found the place to be a well-equipped distillery, and that portions of the garbano refuse cans in the vicinity had gone into the manufacture of whiskey and not into hog troughs. Fifty gallons of garbage-distilled whiskey were seized, with nearly 100 gallons of prepared mash."

Cases have been found in Lowell in which garbage was used from which to produce alcohol. Is it any wonder that those who drink moonshine take desperate chances?

MISQUOTING WEBSTER

One might expect that everything in connection with the dedication of the Daniel Webster Highway on the line between Lowell and Nashua by the latter city, would be in harmony with Webster's ideas. Yet one of the tablets set on great blocks of granite bore an inscription which was supposed to be Webster's words, but it was incorrect. It read: "Union and Liberty, one and inseparable, now and forever." It should have been: "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable."

"I don't give a 'heck-a-damn! I don't care a 'tuppenny dump!" and "By Heck!" are some of the elegant slang phrases which Lady Astor left as reminders of her boasted culture. The first phrase was used in expressing her disregard of the unintelligent woman and later to some friends she volunteered the information that it is another form of the familiar "heck-a-damn." Many unintelligent women would blush to use such vulgar and uncouth expressions. Lack of intelligence is not the worst thing in the world.

After all, United States Commissioner Hays did not see fit to adjudge the Brooklyn Aerie of Eagles guilty of moonshining on the flimsy evidence adduced. The search warrant was obtained on the ground that the liquor officers seized alcohol in the vicinity of the aerie. But an odor is not conclusive evidence of a violation of the Volstead act.

Thought For Today

By persisting in a habit of self-denial, we shall, beyond what I can express, increase the inward powers of mind, and shall produce that cheerfulness and greatness of spirit which will fit us for all good purposes; and shall not have lost pleasure.—Henry More.

Mistaken Identity

As a steamer was leaving the harbor of Athens a well-dressed young passenger approached the captain and pointing to the distant hills inquired, "What is that white star on the hills, captain?" "That is snow, madam," replied the captain. "Well," remarked the lady, "I thought so myself, but a gentleman has just told me it was Greece!"—Kind Words.

Doctor of Music

A certain organist was so proud of his degree that he was careful to put "Mus. Doc." after his name on every possible occasion. To him came a small boy. "Please, sir, aren't you a doctor of music?" "Yes, my boy," "Well, Billy here has bent his tin trumpet. Can you put it straight, please?"

He Did Things

"What position did you hold in your last place?" asked the merchant. "I was a door, sir," "A door. What's that?" "Well, sir, you see, when my employer wanted anything done he would tell the cashier, the cashier would tell the bookkeeper, the bookkeeper would tell the clerk and the clerk would tell me. 'And what would happen then?' 'Well, sir, as I hadn't any one to tell it to, I'd do it.'"

Population Shrank

Stephen Leacock, during his recent lecture tour abroad, appeared at a popular seaside resort on the southern coast of England. The hall was a large one, but the audience was considerably small. Mr. Leacock thus began his address: "It has been 48 years since my last appearance in 2; neither the sea nor the sky seems quite as blue as I remember them, but I am quite sure, judging by the size of the audience tonight, that the population of the city has shrunk at least one-third."

A Word a Day

Today's word is criterion. It's pronounced—kri-to-ri-on, with accent on the second syllable. It means—a rule or test by which facts, principles, opinions and conduct are tried. In forming a correct judgment respecting them. It comes from a Greek word signifying "a means of judging." It's used like this—"A free-trade editor, discussing pending plans for increased import duties, says: 'To politicians the criterion of an honest tariff bill is to be found in answering the question—does it distribute the booty equally?'"

Wonderful Invention

Jackson was giving an exhibition to his friend Jones of his latest invention, which was to solve all domestic difficulties. Its title was the "Automatic Domestic." Into his mouth Jackson pushed a fork and a knife and pressed button No. 1. After a short but noisy interval they came out all nicely cleaned and polished. "Very good!" commented Jones. A quantity of potatoes was the next item. Button No. 2 was pushed, and after another noisy spell out they popped all neatly and ready for cooking. "Fine!" cried Jones. The third "turn" was a number of dirty plates. In they went, and button No. 3 was pressed. An extremely noisy interval ensued, and came the plates in fragments. Absolutely "crushed," yelled Jones, and went home laughing.

May is such a pretty girl—She fastens in her hair The pink of apple blossoms And the white of summer pear. She has the most elusive scent That any girl could use; She owns a gorgeous sunset sky Or many different hues. She robes herself in softest green—That's most becoming, too. Although the changes in her gown Are really very few.

May is such a clever girl—She blends the colors in her centrepiece Just so, they won't offend. She's truly very kind of heart And thinks the poorest lot. With something as exquisite As the blue forget-me-not. But when her lovely centrepieces Are all complete and done, Her sister June will come along And change the whole design.—By NAN THURRELL REED in the New York Times.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The item which appeared in this column on Wednesday of this week, suggesting that some Lowell organizations, such as the chamber of commerce or the Lowell Ad club might do a great deal of good by conducting tours of parties entering the city from the direction of Tewksbury and Andover that they should enter by way of High and East Merrimack streets, rather than through Church and Appleton streets, as routed by the 1822 Blue Book, has been received with hearty appreciation by officials of the two organizations mentioned. Since the routing through the less frequented streets cannot be changed in the official guide book until next year, it is felt that little can be done to remedy the matter, but both the chamber and advertising club are willing to do what they can. It appears that this routing is of recent arrangement, since the Blue Book for 1920 advised the East Merrimack street route, which tends to show visitors the business sections of the city. A suggestion has been heard, however, that the means of diverting tourists from the official route used in the Blue Book, might be adopted. Although the expense is great, in fact there is a great electric sign at a branch of the highway with the words "This Way to Portland" illumined therein, which leads visitors off the road advised by the Blue Book, and through the business district.

I have often heard it said that such and such a person who is ill will not die until his time comes. I don't believe in the idea of a fixed destiny that settles the time that any person is to die. The human body may be compared to a suit of clothes. With proper care it will last a long time, but it is roughly worn out. Whether a person lives to a good old age or not depends first of all upon the physical constitution and secondly upon the modes of life, whether they are those that promote health or that bring disease and invite an early death.

The white lines indicating the crossings on various streets, should teach the people to cross at right angles and not diagonally as most of them do. It is also a great precaution against accidents on the streets to cross only where crossings are marked. It is true that the pedestrian has just as much right on the public street as the person who drives an automobile, but it is not a question of right, but one of safety. Where the autos are shooting along a street it is rather risky for a person to step from the sidewalk without seeing that his path is clear. What is known as "jay walking" is responsible for a great many accidents in which pedestrians are knocked down or run over by motor vehicles.

CHATS WITH REX BEACH ON GREAT-OUT-DOORS

BY MORRIS ACKERMAN

"Everyone who hunts the feathered migrants knows with what complete effectiveness the treaty with Canada has saved our migratory waterfowl," says Rex Beach.

"While the treaty and federated law has done its wonderful part, still, in my opinion, the discontinuance of market hunting along the Carolina coast has been equally as effective. 'While hunting near my Ocracoke ducking grounds, along the North Carolina coast, last fall, I saw more brant than ever before. Talking with many of the old-time native hunters down there I learned that never before in their lives had they seen as many of these birds."

"The wild swan, under several years' protection, has greatly multiplied. Why, in one flock I saw from 300 to 600 birds. You can imagine what the increase of this big fellow means in cleaning up food in the duck and goose grounds. 'I should say that there are three times the number of waterfowl along the Carolina coast as was the case five years ago. Unless an epidemic comes along, which is always a possibility, the increase in waterfowl will, in the near future, present another problem, that of an over-supply."

At Ocracoke, Beach has perhaps the most complete equipment of any hunter along the coast. From battery box to household none of his outfit draws more than nine inches of water. He has been able, for this reason, to hunt, as well as make his observations, in places unknown to the common variety of Nimrods. It has taken not a little "convincing" on the part of Mr. Beach and others that it is more profitable to be former market hunters to spend their time as guides rather than killers. "But today there are no better guides anywhere and the waterfowl shooter is sure of some great sport as a result," says Beach.

PELLETIER SNUBBED AT K. OF C. MEETING

BOSTON, May 18.—Ten thousand Knights of Columbus and their friends witnessed a dramatic incident at Mechanics building last night at a reunion and dance under the auspices of the Back Bay Council of the order. Significant speeches through the evening had laid and order for their keynote and Judge Thomas H. Dowd of the municipal court, the speaker of the evening, had emphasized that no man is bigger than the government, that the courts and other instruments of law should not be lightly held, that all members of the order should align themselves against the forces of disorder and stand firmly for the government.

As the program was reaching the end, to the surprise of the audience, former District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier, escorted by William J. Paton, and other friends came down the floor. The audience broke forth into applause. Dr. Francis D. Donoghue, who was presiding, rapped for order with his gavel. The applause continued until Mr. Pelletier and his escort had taken seats on the platform. Mr. Donoghue announced that dancing would begin immediately after the next speaker.

Of the invited guests only Major-General Clarence R. Edwards went over to shake Mr. Pelletier by the hand. Judge Dowd and other speakers ignored the presence of the knaves advocates of the order and left the platform. Friends of Mr. Pelletier gathered about him and he remained until the end of the festivities. The invited guests of the council had received ovations and applause as they arrived and as they departed. Dr. Donoghue stated that Mr. Pelletier had not been specially invited to attend.

CAPE COD CANAL BILL REPORTED

WASHINGTON, May 18.—A bill providing for the purchase by the government of the Cape Cod canal was reported favorably to the house yesterday from the committee on interstate and foreign commerce by Chairman Winslow. The bill provides for the payment of $1,500,000 for the canal, which $5,000,000 is to be appropriated, to be paid to the owners, and the government is to take over $6,000,000 of bonds. The report recommends the widening and deepening of the canal also.

SUES GOVERNMENT FOR LOSS OF HUSBAND

BOSTON, May 18.—A hearing will be given in the equity session of the United States district court at 10 o'clock next Monday on the action brought by Ann Dolan vs. the United States of America.

The plaintiff, who is 37 years old, alleges that she has never seen her husband since he went to the Civil war as a member of the 68th regiment of New York. She alleges the government has been guilty of fraud in dealing with her regarding her husband's absence, and seeks damages for loss of his companionship and support for 37 years.

OFFICER GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

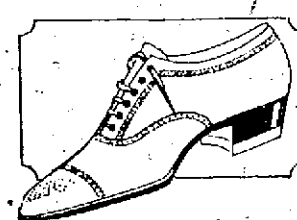

PROVIDENCE, May 18.—The act of an officer in shooting at an automobile for the purpose of arresting its occupants because they are suspected, or are guilty of a misdemeanor, is unlawful and subjects him to the penalty of anything that the bullet of that revolver may bring about.

This declaration was made by Judge Hahn in superior court yesterday during his charge to the jury which has been hearing the trial of Jesse M. D'Aseredo, police constable of Bristol, who was charged with manslaughter after he had shot and fatally injured Ernest R. C. Cluette of Attleboro. The jury returned a verdict of guilty yesterday afternoon and recommended clemency.

MUST END SOVIETISMFirst Essential Step Toward Economic Restoration in Russia, Says U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—An elaborated statement of the American viewpoint as to the expert discussion of Russian economic problems at The Hague cabled by the state department formed the basis of Ambassador Child's conference with Senator Schaefer and Premier Lloyd George yesterday in Geneva.

The communication, however, merely made more positive, if possible, the conviction of the Washington government that Russia must rid herself of sovietism as the first essential step toward economic restoration.

It was made plain that while the United States does not desire to impede in any way an inquiry by international experts as to what is the matter in Russia and is prepared to join in any plan purely for the purpose of making such an inquiry, Washington officials are certain that the result would be only to show that the chief economic barrier to Russian restoration is sovietism.

Until the doctrines of government which are woven through the Russian memorandum of May 11 have been overturned and Russia is governed under the same economic theories, whatever the form of her government, that prevailed throughout the rest of the world she cannot, in the American view, expect again to set up trade and commerce relationships with world at large.

Obviously, it was pointed out yesterday, the United States government will not consider any question of a loan to a government based on principles that avowedly would deny any recognized form of security for the loan. It is useless for the Russian delegation at Geneva or anyone else to believe that even recognition in a diplomatic way of the soviet government would lead to such action, it was said. And if public funds are not to be available for such a loan, American private capital would be still less willing to venture into Russia, it was pointed out.

At the same time the Washington government was said to believe that an economic diagnosis of Russia's affairs, by an international group of experts including German and Russian specialists in commercial matters, railroads, industry or other similar questions possibly might be in order to form a basis for international conversations as to Russia on which all were agreed as to the facts. The outstanding fact thus to be developed, however, in the American viewpoint, will be that sovietism itself is the stone wall that blocks the road of Russia's return to the family of nations.

The point that blocked American participation in the Geneva conference and again stood in the way of American acceptance of the invitation to The Hague it has now been explained fully to the conference in Geneva, was that the whole proceeding began with negotiations of a political character, involving, at least, an implied forecast that the soviet government might be recognized by other powers. These negotiations preceded any exhaustive economic inquiry, whereas the American view is that they should have been preceded by the inquiry.

Not only has the American viewpoint been recommended to Geneva through Ambassador Child's amplified form, but it is now known that diplomatic representatives of the powers here have taken a hand in the matter and forwarded very full explanations of the situation in Washington after conferences with Secretary Hughes.

Because of the nature of these communications, there would be little surprise in informed diplomatic circles in Washington if the basis of the experts' meeting at The Hague were completely revised before it is approved by the plenary session of the Geneva conference, where it will be taken up today.

It was learned here that the degree of confusion existing in Geneva regarding the attitude of America was much greater than had been thought possible and the action of the sub-commission of the conference relative to The Hague meeting, taken in connection with the messages received here from negotiations in Geneva, are regarded by officials as clearly exhibiting such a misunderstanding that when the truth is made known, some modification of that action will be indicated.

HOLD SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

About 200 voters, including many women, attended the special town meeting which was in the town hall, Chelmsford Centre, last evening. The meeting was opened by Town Clerk Justin L. Moore and Walter Periam was elected moderator.

The warrant contained 19 articles and of that number four were dismissed and one was defeated. Article one, calling for an appropriation of $138.25 for the payment of bills of the school department, was adopted. The sum of $1200 was voted as an additional appropriation for the Vocational school, the original amount asked being $2442.73. The sum of $26.32 was voted to pay outstanding bills of the fire department.

For the purchase of arsenals of lead for the youth department the sum of $800 was voted. The article calling for an appropriation of $1200 for the purchase of gravel for raising the grade of the street car tracks, was carried. The sum of $5000 was voted for the construction of the Groton road, this being one-third of the expense, the balance to be borne by the commonwealth and the county. Article seven calling for an appropriation of $4000 for the purchase of a motor truck for the highway department, was defeated.

The following committee was appointed to act with the selectmen to investigate and report later as to the advisability of a water system for the whole town. For the installation of electric lights in the East Chelmsford school the sum of $75 was voted. The transportation charges of the assessors amounting to $150 were ordered paid and the sum of $50 was voted for constructing a walk at the South Row school house.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

The much-discussed and long-looked-for bout between Phineas Doyle and Young George Gardner for the lightweight championship of Lowell will be played tonight at the Crescent rink under the auspices of the Moody A.C.

This will mark the first local championship bout in many years and naturally the friends and supporters of both boys are all "hot up" over the number. Doyle has been performing before local fans a great many years. He has had his ups and downs, meeting and defeating some of the best lightweights in his section, and also suffering defeat at the hands of many others. He is a remarkable boxer when right, but a formidable workman when wrong. His backers and handlers aver that he is "on high" for tonight and they look to see him breeze through a winner.

Young Gardner, nephew of the famous George Gardner, and Billy, called a "hot shot" of the former, is much younger than Doyle. He has been boxing for a number of years, however, and while he lacks the actual ring experience of Doyle, he has picked up much knowledge of the game from his uncle and from work in training camps. He has trained with many high class boxers, including Jack Malone, Eddie Shovel, Willie Conant, Sam Clegg, Harry Work, and others, and has been coached and instructed by the Gardner brothers and Joe Thomas. He also has a very crafty and prompt manager in Jackie Williams. With all these assets and his well known natural ability, he should attain much success in the profession.

Gardner and Doyle finished their training yesterday and tonight's bout is at such weight, both are reported to be close to the lightweight limit.

The other bouts on tonight's program are: Kid DeCostera vs. Frankie Johnson, Benny O'Neil vs. Tommy Milton, Young Arthur Flaherty vs. Tommy Lane and Eddie Purcell vs. Young Ketchel.

"Billy" McMahon, who played second base for the C.M.A.C. in the Twilight League last season, is far removed from local diamond activities.

WHY KEN WILLIAMS, HOME RUN HITTER, CHANGED HIS STYLE

BY KEN WILLIAMS
One of the changes that has helped considerably in my home-run making is the fact that I have altered my style at the plate.

Up to last year I always tried to hit to all fields. Last season I would go for a stretch of games always taking a free swing, and if I couldn't make home runs I would shift back to my style of trying to hit to all fields. My coach, Tris Speaker, George Sinker and Eddie Collins are left-handed hitters. None of them can be classed as sluggers. They hit the ball hard, usually on the line, but never get the distance that Ruth puts into his swing.

Yes I seriously doubt if it would be possible to get four more home run hitters than the quartet I have mentioned. Cobb, Speaker, Sinker and Collins hit to all fields this year and why I am getting home runs. My purpose is not to try to hit to certain fields; rather to hit it out of the field.

"Sure, go ahead!" New York fans will hold their breath.

Ruth and Meusel have been practicing in 1920 to 1921 every morning at the Polo grounds. I am a good judge and prefer hitting of pitching, plus brute strength.

To make home runs you must take a healthy cut at the ball. That is what I am doing this year and why I am getting home runs. My purpose is not to try to hit to certain fields; rather to hit it out of the field.

PREPARING REVISED HARVARD CREW

CAMBRIDGE, May 12.—In an effort to prepare the revised Harvard crew for the season with Cornell next week, George S. Mumford, a former varsity oarsman and coach, and now a member of the advisory committee on rowing, has been called upon to assist Coach Heber Howe, an expert of rowing.

Mumford has been given charge of the afternoon workouts and Howe with special attention to elimination defects in co-operation between oarsmen.

The Harvard junior class crew and the 150-pound eight, which will row against Yale crews at Derby tomorrow, leave this afternoon for the grounds.

Many a Manhattan heart is a quiver today as the hour upon hour of the night when a sleepy-eyed messenger boy will amble out of the Yankee headquarters with a message addressed to Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis respectfully asking if Ruth and Bob Meusel, who were suspended with him, can be reinstated after their six weeks' exile.

From the moment the lad leaves the office until another returns with a reply from Chicago, saying, brightly

CONTROL IS PITCHER'S GREATEST ASSET

BY BILLY EVANS

I have often asked some of the game's greatest pitchers what they regarded as their most valuable asset.

The reply has always been the same: control.

Mathewson had a great fadeaway, a fine curve and a wonderful fast ball.

When he was in 1915, after two years with a ball, he was now to drive a Duesenberg Straight-Eight.

Willcox plus his faith in a Peugeot, with which he won in 1915, after two years with a ball, he was now to drive a Duesenberg Straight-Eight.

WHEN YOU SCORE A BALL GAME REMEMBER—

With runners on second and third and one in on out, the batsman hits a long fly to left field. The runner on third believes it will be caught and holds his breath.

The runner on second finally makes up his mind that the ball will not be caught and dashes for third. The ball is caught and the runner who failed to hold second is doubled up at that base before he can get back, retreating the slide. In the meantime the runner on third who held his breath has crossed the plate before the third out is made. The query of course is always the same. Does the run count? It most certainly does. If the runner on third who held his breath has crossed the plate before the third out is made. The query of course is always the same. Does the run count? It most certainly does. If the runner on third who held his breath has crossed the plate before the third out is made.

N. E. INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES

WORCESTER, May 18.—Whether Massachusetts Institute of Technology, after an erratic preliminary season, can accomplish a sixth consecutive victory over a dozen other colleges in the events of track and field will be largely decided in the preliminary events today of the 86th annual New England intercollegiate championship games. They will be held on the grounds of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, less than an hour's ride from Worcester, returning to this city after an absence of about 15 years.

Victory, it is agreed, lies between the engineers and the team of Boston college, which last week won the Eastern intercollegiate title at Springfield. Brown, Bowdoin, Williams, Wesleyan, Amherst and Bates sent to the trial events of this afternoon teams including many athletes of qualifying caliber.

Teams representing New Hampshire State, Colby, Boston University, Maine, Holy Cross and Vermont were also represented. More than 515 entries have been made, the largest number in the history of the association. These entries include seven of last year's champions, who in several instances are considered certain to be hard pressed to retain their laurels. Tech has lost from last year's team, six veterans, who were responsible for 33 of the 46 points that brought them victory.

Skies were overcast today, but it was expected that the weather would clear in time for the preliminary events of the late afternoon and for the finals tomorrow.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP Here's Your Decision.

Families of Striking Miners in Pennsylvania Coal Region Evicted by Operators as Method of Retaliation

By N.E.A. Service
UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 18.—Evictions of the striking miners and their families have begun in the Connelville region, which has been only recently organized by the United Mine Workers of America.

Eviction is one of the most powerful weapons of the operators in mine work. In Fayette county, of which Uniontown is the county seat, the process works like this: The operators own most of the houses. They rent them for from $6 to $10 a month under a lease in which the miner agrees to give up possession upon leaving the company's employ. When the miners strike, they all lay themselves open to eviction. While the companies have full legal rights to throw thousands of people out of their homes, they haven't gone that far. To date they have asked the county "prothonotary," whose duties are those of a probate officer, for about 125 evictions. Once the papers are issued it becomes the thankless duty of the sheriff's office to see that the furniture is either moved or set in the street. About as often as not, the strikers sit tight until a moving van and a force of deputy sheriffs come around. Then they watch their household possessions carried off company property and laid in whatever spot is handy.

TARIFF ISSUE IN FALL SAYS UNDERWOOD

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Asserting that senate republicans, or most of them, had decided to accept the pending tariff bill as reported by the finance committee, Senator Underwood of Alabama, the democratic leader, declared today in the senate that he wanted the record on the measure so clear that this would be the issue in the fall campaign and that the people could pass judgment on the bill. "They (the republicans) are not going to consider the various items as presented," Senator Underwood said, "and the only jury to which we (the democrats) can appeal is the jury that must pay the taxes."

He was discussing a paragraph in the bill dealing with duties on pigments for paints. He said this was one of the items that the people could understand and that it could be made clear that the only purpose was to "build up a tariff wall to increase the profits of the producers."

In the debate on this bill that the taxes on the various items in this chemical schedule were so small that the people would not feel them. This tax does come home to the people. It comes to the home itself.

Custom Duties Unjustified
He said the duties proposed could not be justified from a standpoint of revenue or because the industry could not exist without them as the producers had prospered under much lower rates. He called attention that in 1920 exports of finished paints amounted to $25,000,000 while imports totaled only $3,000,000 and added:

"I suppose the doubling of the tax is to keep that $3,000,000 out entirely."

The pigments under discussion were crude ores and oxides. The committee rate of one-eighth of a cent a pound on the crude was approved and in rendering this rate Senator Underwood said it was half of that in the house bill and in the Payne-Aldrich law. On some crude ores, he said, the duty was less than the Underwood net rates.

Discussing the 20 per cent duty on oxides, which was approved by the senate, Senator Underwood said a large per cent. of paint contained linseed oil and that the farmers of North Dakota producing flaxseed held that a high tariff was absolutely necessary to protect them. The Utah senator pointed out that the committee rate was one-third less than the Payne-Aldrich rate and that a linseed oil differential was involved.

20 Percent on Oxides
Senator Underwood said the question of linseed oil should be taken care of in the paint and not in the oxide schedule and that the linseed oil content could not be justly considered rates on oxides.

The committee originally recommended a duty of 25 per cent, but reduced from its amendment, allowing the house rate of 20 per cent, to stand after the senate voted down an amendment by Senator Underwood to continue the present law rate of 10 per cent.

Previously the senate had approved rates on various other color pigments. The committee proposal for a 25 per cent rate on varnish was the subject of an attack by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, who also criticized the votes on paint and said it appeared that the senate agricultural tariff bloc was in a "deal" to support the com-

Thousands of women built the Fortress Crawford

Of course it was actually designed and cast and put together in "the finest stove factory in the world" — the plant of Walker & Pratt at Watertown.

But thousands of women built it — housewives like yourself, and like the one in the picture.

Whenever they cooked a meal they helped build it.

Whenever a woman wished she could control her kitchen range with a single damper, whenever she wished she could hide the coal and ash hods, whenever the coal range was too hot in summer, and she wished she had a gas range too — whenever she discovered an improvement in baking and broiling and roasting and boiling, she helped plan the Fortress Crawford.

The Crawford Factory tested all her suggestions. There are 200,000 Crawfords in New England, giving good service, so you see there were a lot of ideas.

And the Fortress is the result: for coal only or with gas, single damper control, marvelous heat-circulation, concealed hods, protected gas-cocks, every possible detailed improvement that could cut down your time in the kitchen.

Come in and see it, and let us help you help yourself with a new Fortress in your kitchen.

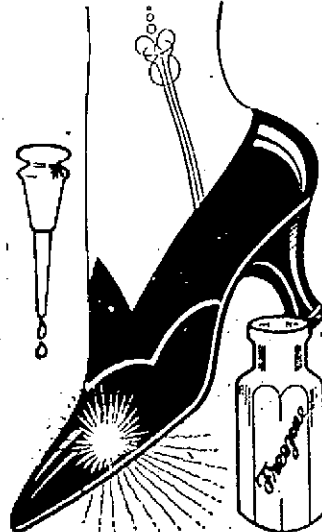

A. E. O'HEIR & CO., 15 Hurd St., Lowell Mass. carry all sizes and styles of Crawford Ranges in stock and sell them for cash or will arrange terms to suit you.

COLLINS AND DE VALERA CONFER

Believed to Have Been Near Settlement in Long Private Consultation

Each Embarrassed by Difficulty of Carrying Followers With Him

DUBLIN, May 19.—(By the Associated Press) Fear was expressed in political circles this morning that the negotiations for peace between the rival factions in Ireland, renewed Wednesday after what had appeared to be a final breakdown, would again result in a report by the negotiators that they had failed to come to an agreement.

Further attempts were in progress, today, however, and there was hope in some quarters that the last moment might see a favorable turn.

Michael Collins, head of the provisional government, and Eamon de Valera, the republican leader, are believed to have been near a settlement. The view of observers, however, is that each has been embarrassed by the difficulty of carrying his followers with him.

At a meeting last night the members of the pro-treaty heard from Collins the result of his conversation with de Valera, and when the meeting broke up, the prospect of peace seemed less bright.

The fundamental point of difference, it appears, is that the treaty party thinks a coalition government should be formed only to work the treaty, while Mr. de Valera thinks any acceptance of the treaty is a denial of the republican principle. The republican leader indicated he would help the government against "boodism," but the pro-treaty members are said to fear he would embarrass what remains to be done under the treaty, particularly regarding the constitution of the Free State.

GRANITE TRADE COMES UNDER SCALPEL

NEW YORK, May 19.—The granite trade came under the scalpel of the Lockwood housing committee today. Samuel Untermyer, committee counsel, brought out that there had been an extreme variance of only $66,000 in the bids submitted for the $2,500,000 New York courthouse granite made by three members of the National Building Granite Quarries association, while an outsider made an offer $800,000 under the lowest of the trio. Most of the plants affiliated in the association are located in New England.

The counsel asked Harry H. Sherman of Boston, secretary of the association, if he did not consider this situation "extraordinary." The witness said he did not. He was reminded that these bids were the second batch called for on the courthouse contract, the first having been thrown away following exposures last year by the Lockwood committee.

Sherman admitted the association was a "sort of open price" organization that has a "code of practice."

MAYOR SAYS DECISION IS VERY FAVORABLE

Mayor George H. Brown today said that the mandamus decision was most favorable to him. He contends that it settled the one main point he desired cleared up, to wit; that holdover officials are not immune from removal by the mayor.

When asked about the contention that a temporary appointee automatically ousts a hold-over incumbent, the mayor replied that he could not expect to win all points under dispute.

"I'm satisfied, however," he said, "for the decision has settled one point that was not clear in the charter, relative to my power to remove a hold-over from office."

When asked as to what his probable move would be in case the council should vote to reinstate Mr. Welch, the mayor replied that he did not care to comment upon that possibility at the present time.

Ready was formerly employed as an engineer at the city ledge. According to the facts in the case, Supt. Doherty said that he and Ready met one night and that following a conversation, which Doherty considered of an insubordinate nature, Ready was discharged.

It was alleged by Doherty that Ready said that he would not do certain work at the ledge if a man named Sullivan was employed there.

The public service board held a subsequent meeting and sustained Doherty in his act. At this meeting it was said that Ready had been notified of a hearing. He did not show up and accordingly Doherty was sustained.

It developed later that Ready had not been properly notified and a date for another hearing was set. At this hearing, the public service board rescinded its action of the former meeting in sustaining Doherty's action. The public service board meeting was then suspended and City Solicitor Edward J. Tierney announced that the hearing was declared open, but that it was before Supt. Doherty and not the public service board.

Following the hearing no action was taken to reinstate Ready and his status remained the same as when he was first discharged by Supt. Doherty. This latest movement on the part of Ready's friends is in accordance with section 45, chapter 31 of the general laws. The section says in substance that any civil service employee who is discharged, reduced in rank or whose compensation is reduced has the right to a trial before the police court, with said finding of the police court to be final in the matter.

A date for the hearing on the petition will be set in a week or two in the belief of the attorneys connected with the case.

BAR NEW POLITICAL PARTIES IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, May 19.—No new political parties can be legalized in Russia for a number of years and the communist party must continue to keep its ranks closed except in those strictly sympathetic with the directorship of the proletariat, D. E. Zinoviev, told the last session of the All-Russian communist party congress.

Zinoviev is head of the third international, president of the Petrograd provincial soviet, one of Premier Lenin's closest friends and the author of Lenin's biography. He is a fiery, revolutionary crusader and in the soviet regime has been dictator of Petrograd.

"Our party has the monopoly of legality," he said. "The danger of this monopoly is that a number of people would go into the petty bourgeoisie parties if such existed. They are not coming into the party with bad intentions, and are honest enough but bring in bourgeois views. They are an active part of the population who like to participate in the economic and political life of the country. We shall surely be the monopolists of the legality of any party in this country for a number of years to come."

Mr. Zinoviev said it would be difficult to clear out this element of the party but, as the labor class must "do in" the bourgeoisie, the party's difficulties, no matter how great, in restoring Russia, should not permit any unwise measures that would lead to the restoration of the Mensheviks or other bourgeois.

More serious attention must also be paid to the press, Mr. Zinoviev declared, as the bourgeois writers are trying to get an independent press and even journalists registered employees of the newspapers, now permitted to operate (all government controlled) are mostly of the old, intelligent class.

FIREMEN RISK LIVES IN FIGHTING BLAZE

BOSTON, May 19.—For a short time last night firemen, fighting a fire on the fourth floor of the building at 49 Fulton street, in the wholesale grocery district, occupied by the Beacon Grocery company, were placed in a dangerous position when flames shooting out of a window practically enveloped the ladder from which they were directing a line of hose. The firemen were attached to Engine 4, quartered in Bulfinch street.

Despite the intense heat, together with the all but suffocating smoke which poured out, they held the position, and kept the fire within bounds until lines were placed in operation at the rear of the building from the escapes, and on the front from a deck sun.

District Chief Cornelius J. O'Brien, who was in charge of the fire, complimented the members of the company for their work and stated that only their gameness in sticking to the line under the conditions prevented the fire from curling outward and up was kept under control.

For a time the fire was a dangerous one and it was only through the skill and the bravery of the firemen that it has kept under control.

The damage from the fire will be several thousands of dollars. An exact estimate was not possible at the time. Considerable damage was done by smoke and water, although Chief O'Brien stopped his men in the outside fighting and had lines brought into the building to fight the flames at close quarters, when such a course was possible.

No cause could be assigned last night.

Firemen, flying against the wind, even on a considerable altitude, frequently complain of getting dust in their eyes.

THE NEW INDUSTRIAL CENSUS PLAN

CHICAGO, Ill., May 18.—That the present industrial census plan does not permit of accurate comparisons of import and export is asserted in a report of a new plan which the Illinois Manufacturers' Association has presented to Secretary Hoover.

"A mere examination of statistics of imports for 1920 and 1921," it was asserted in a report from the association, "shows numerous cases where the units of quantity have doubled and the monetary comparison shows a decrease in trade. In some cases the variation has been as much as 200 per cent." The new plan, it is represented, "will take the tariff out of the realm of guesswork and produce, besides giving the United States government in case of war, essential information on industrial resources which it does not now possess. The association maintains that 'census statistics of manufacture can be made of enormous value to America's industries at practically no increase of cost.'"

The plan is based on the theory that the dollar is not the correct unit to employ, "as a measuring index 'to gauge all industry's vital trade statistics.'" It is recommended that statistics be based on quantity of production as the primary unit—pounds, yards, gallons or pints, for example—with dollars as supplementary information.

Another measure of an industry's output in time of national defense, according to the recommendations, is the number of key machines operated. By key machine is meant the machine used in industry more than any other, as the furnace in a glass factory or the kiln in a pottery.

The plan was evolved by George H. Meyer, chairman of the census committee of the association and was unanimously approved by the board of directors. Mr. Meyer has discussed the plan with Assistant Secretary of Commerce C. H. Huston and Thomas O. Marvin, chairman of the tariff commission. The recommendations have also been submitted to Chairman Martin B. Madden of the house committee on appropriations, to the members of the house committee on ways and means and to the senate committee on finance.

PLAN TO GIVE FARMS UNEMPLOYED

STOCKHOLM, May 18.—Before long the Swedish unemployed may have a chance to become independent farmers. When they recently expressed the desire to obtain small farms of their own where they might work till old age without being subjected to enforced idleness, their request sounded at first like wishing for the moon.

But not so to the minister of agriculture, who immediately ordered an investigation into the possibilities of forming a farm colony in the province of Sweden.

If the plan is found feasible the government may purchase land to be parceled among its unemployed. The project would, of course, involve more than acquiring the land. The government will have to build cottages on the farms, and supply its indigent citizens with livestock, farm implements and living expenses for the first year.

Seven Postoffice Clerks Charged With Acting in Concert Arrested in N. Y.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Seven postoffice clerks were arrested early today charged with acting in concert in the theft of $1,500,000 worth of bonds from the United States mails here last July.

The arrests revealed a mail robbery that had not heretofore been reported. It was the theft of a letter containing $100,000 in bonds, mailed from this city to Watertown, N. Y., on May 6, last.

The arrests resulted from a confession made according to postoffice inspectors by Mark Von Eschen, who was arrested in the Bronx with $29,700 of the stolen bonds in his possession on Jan. 19, and sentenced to the Federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga., for five years after conviction for attempting to dispose of part of the securities.

ment troubles of the country. Last winter several thousand jobless were given instruction in almost any branch of learning in which they were interested. Large appropriations were set aside for doles and for public works at which the otherwise unemployed would be able to earn a living, and it was hoped that conditions would soon become better. Nevertheless, unemployment is still the most serious problem of Sweden despite a slight decrease in the number of idles.

The jobless still number more than 150,000, of whom about 65,000 receive aid. This number is higher than was expected and in order to keep within the budget, the unemployment commission and the government have had to cancel during the summer unemployment aid to unmarried men and women, all farm workers and fishermen. It is believed that these classes can shift for themselves during the summer and pick up enough work to keep them going. Married men with families still draw stipends, while relief work of all kinds is being planned.

The unemployment commission is laying plans for extensive forest work in co-operation with the forestry board and the state domains department. Furthermore, about $200,000 has been diverted from the unemployment fund for buying paving stones to be placed at the disposal, free of cost, of certain towns and highway boards for the improvement of streets and roads, thus affording employment to considerable numbers.

CITY COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

Opposition to Gasoline Filling Station Opposite Edson Cemetery Entrance

No Action Taken on Nominations of Albert F. Hogue or William F. McGreevey

The city council last night confined itself strictly to routine business, although at times it was of such a nature as to lift the proceedings slightly above the routine class. A hearing on a petition to establish a gasoline filling station opposite the entrance to the Edson cemetery brought out several remonstrances, including the board of cemetery commissioners and one or two other matters were applied up to enliven the session.

No action was taken on either the nomination of Albert F. Hogue for purchasing agent, or William F. McGreevey, for inspector of wires, and no new nominations were forthcoming from the office of the mayor. Also, there were no signs of any orders designed to transfer money from surplus accounts to appropriations for auditorium maintenance, or to pay the salary of the registrar of the employment bureau, or to extend the White Way lighting system in Gorham street.

Representatives of the school department and the high school building commission asked that cognate be taken of the interior condition of the old high school building, which is in need of repair in many respects. The council was called to order at 8:25 o'clock by Pres. Patrick J. Hargley. Assistant City Clerk William J. McCarthy handled the business in the absence of Clerk Stephen Flynn. Councilors General and Sedler were not present at roll call. Both came in later.

Chairman James H. Riley of the school committee, Supt. Hugh J. Molloy and Dr. Lambert and Dr. Lamoureux of the high school building commission were present in the interest of a proposition to renovate the old high school building. Chairman Riley said that next fall the splendid new building will be open for use and it is desired to have the interior condition of the old building compare somewhat favorably with the new.

Mr. Riley suggested that the council make some arrangement whereby an inspection of the old building might be made, to allow the body to obtain information of what needs to be done at first hand.

Work That Is Needed
Supt. Molloy stated that the work necessary does not bulk large in dollars and cents. He expressed the thought that if the ceilings are kept, the woodwork and stair-treads renewed that it would be all the work necessary.

Dr. Lambert of the building commission spoke up and said: "The matter was referred to the special committee on public property and the city solicitor."

Hearing on Gas Station
A hearing was held on the petition of Daniel Shog for a gasoline filling station at Gorham and Carlisle streets.

Hon. James E. O'Donnell appeared for the petitioner and said that he desired to hear any remonstrants to the petition and reserve the right to enter an appeal later if desired.

The first remonstrant was William H. Rigby, chairman of the board of cemetery commissioners. He stated that he represented his board and many lot owners as well. There is nothing mercenary in the board's position in the matter, said Mr. Rigby, and added that the same opposition would develop no matter what building or business was planned for the corner in question.

Take Land For Square
Mr. Rigby put forth the proposition that the city acquire the triangular lot of land and make of it a public park or square. He added that it would be an admirable square to name in honor of a Lowell boy from that neighborhood who was killed in the world war.

Michael Black spoke as a remonstrant and said that he believed another gasoline filling station there would make a blind and dangerous corner. He spoke of the great amount of motor traffic that passes the place in question.

Attorney O'Donnell questioned Mr. Black and brought out the fact that the latter owned and operated a store at the corner and with a tank has opened a gasoline filling station.

Charles E. Anderson appeared for his father, who owns property in Gorham street opposite the corner and the proposed location of the gasoline station. He stated that he did not appear so much as a remonstrant against the petition, but more to urge the acquisition of the plot by the city.

Mr. O'Donnell asked that no definite action be taken on the petition at the present meeting.

Mr. Rigby said that a park at the spot is not to be seriously thought of inasmuch as it would not be large enough, but he did favor a square, to be paved and properly designated.

Councilor McMahon said that he did not favor the petition and is in favor of expanding the city's park and square system as much as possible.

Councilors Adams, Sedler and Gallagher spoke on the matter and each expressed the desire to have all the councilmen view the spot before voting on the petition.

On motion of Councilor Gallagher it was voted that this view be taken next Tuesday afternoon.

A number of other hearings were held on garage and gasoline petitions, with no remonstrances.

Objections to New Pole
At a hearing on a petition of the Lowell Electric Light Corp. for a pole in Myrtle street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, William A. Hogue appeared for the corporation. George Campbell of 21 Myrtle street, who claims that the proposed pole would stand directly in front

EXHIBITION AT Y. M. C. A.

Annual Demonstration Last Night of the Physical Department of the Y.W.C.A.

The annual demonstration of the physical department of the Young Women's Christian association was held last night in the Y.M.C.A. building, and according to the spectators who have witnessed past performances, the exhibition was one of the best in the history of the association. The crowd packed into every available seat, while a great many spectators were forced to stand.

Generally this annual demonstration means the closing of the gymnastic work at the Y.W.C.A. but this year the activities will be extended until June 10 when the combined associations of New England will hold a big track meet in Cambridge.

Miss Mildred MacIntosh, who took charge of the local gymnastic work this year, surely deserves a great deal of credit for the fine exhibition of the several different classes. Mrs. MacIntosh was presented a silver whistle, Miss Dorothy Leach, the association's pianist, was presented a large bouquet of carnations.

The participants included little tots whose ages ranged from 3 years upward and in fact the work of these children was one of the features of the carnival. Every number on the program was worthy of commendation, but some were better than others. Two numbers, which showed a great deal of training were the dumbbell drill, the Indian class and the Indian club drill by the Midget class.

The program opened with a Portland fancy by the adult classes. This folk dance expressed the joy of activity for its own sake and the love of co-operation with others in these exercises of rhythmic beauty. The following number was "mimicry" by a class of children.

The children also took part in a ribbon dance which contained many intricate steps that were well executed. The Tuesday class furnished its dumbbell drill, and not one of the entire team made the slightest slip.

A shuttle relay and a dumbbell relay were put on by members from all classes and showed just how the girls amuse themselves when not restricted by rhythmic exercises. The next number included three dances. A fairy dance was given by a group of youngsters, while a jockey dance was demonstrated by 12 older girls, members of the intermediate class. Little Gladys, who was crowned queen of the night in a Russian, Cossack dance.

The members of the Monday class then offered their Indian club number. This was given by a group of youngsters, while a jockey dance was demonstrated by 12 older girls, members of the intermediate class.

The final number included a march around the gymnasium by all classes and the singing of the favorite association song, "Up Your Troubles." The presentation followed with the Misses MacIntosh and Leach surrounded by all classes.

of her premises. Mr. Hogue asked that the petition be given leave to withdraw. The petition was referred to the inspector of wires and the city solicitor.

A hearing was held on the petition of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. to extend its tracks through Gorham and Paige streets.

Charles H. Stickney requested some information concerning the proposed "loop."

Supt. Whelan of the local division of the street railway company, spoke in favor of the proposed loop and also of an extension of double track for 100 yards in Paige street to relieve congestion at that place.

City Engineer Stephen Kearney, representing the board of public service, stated that the board endorses the proposition of extending double track in Paige street and if the council grants the so-called loop petition, both Paige and Paige streets will be smooth-naved this summer.

A communication was read from Hugh J. Molloy, secretary of the school committee, to the effect that the committee believes the cut made in its appropriation estimates was too great.

Three Squares Named
The council passed the following order, renaming squares and street intersections in honor of Lowell boys who were killed in the world war:

That Liberty square be henceforth known as Crane-Manning square.

That the intersection of Middlesex and Thornehill streets be known as Joseph O. Delanger square.

Based upon an opinion from the city solicitor, the request of Elmer H. Gannon that his company be named to the state department of fisheries and game for appointment as fish and game warden for Lowell was placed on Mr. The solicitor ruled that Elmer Gannon has been properly elected fish and game warden.

Petitions were read from Horace C. Page and E. H. Hargrove and 59 others remonstrating against a proposed station at Westford and Wilder streets.

Mrs. James G. Buttler, Donald M. Gannon, Roy K. Foster, Ray S. Hymn, Daniel MacKenzie, Walter L. Parker, James H. Sparks, William H. Hall, Walter H. Dorr, Thomas McShane and Alice A. Tucker.

Councilor James J. Gallagher reported for the committee on ordinances and recommended the passage of an ordinance creating a city board of money fund and another specifying the manner in which special meetings of the council may be called.

On June 1, the committee will give a hearing on the ordinance creating traffic regulations in downtown streets. Both ordinances were passed and adjourned at 10:45 o'clock.
